GANGSTER FREED DESPITE REQUEST THAT HE BE HELD

IDENTIFIED IN WEST IN $4000 ROBBERY

Chief Says He Let Prisoner Go Before He Got Hold Order, but Records Show Otherwise.

Tony Giardano, gangster who was identified as one of the men in the $4000 robbery of an insurance company cashier in Hollywood, Cal., last June, was released by Collinsville police in the face of explicit requests to hold him pending arrival of California officers with extradition papers, the Post-Dispatch learned today.

The strange circumstances under which Giardano gained his freedom after paying a $112 fine on a minor charge, became known when Detective Lieut. R. C. Stromwall and Captain of Guards R. A. Smith of the Los Angeles Police Department arrived in Collinsville last week and found only one of the two men they came after, Giardano having been released 11 days before.

What Records Show.

Chief of Police Edgar Strong of Collinsville told a Post-Dispatch reporter Giardano already had been released when Los Angeles police wired for his detention, but a check of the records revealed that Giardano was released Aug. 1 while the California police had notified Collinsville authorities by telegram and telephone July 16 that they were obtaining the necessary papers to extradite Giardano and his companion, James Lannigan, ex-convict of Reno, Nev., and asked that both be held.

Lieut. Stromwall told a reporter that in an exchange of telegrams Aug. 12, the day before the officers left California for Springfield, Ill., to have the extradition papers for Giardano and Lannigan signed by Illinois officials, Chief of Police Strong said he still had both prisoners in custody when as a matter of fact Giardano had been released three days before.

"Ought to Be Satisfied."

Chief Strong declined to discuss the release of Giardano further with the reporter, saying "The Los Angeles police ought to be satisfied; I gave them one of their men. I was threatened with habeas corpus proceedings and it was lucky I could hold the one. I had to let Giardano go when he paid his fine."

When his attention was called to the July 16 request of the California authorities and to the fact that a charge of carrying concealed weapons also was pending against Giardano, Chief Strong said he did not know of the weapon charge and asserted the California police and the Department of Justice had not acted speedily enough in the case. He said the Federal Bureau of Investigation had not co-operated with his department in determining where the men were wanted after their arrest.

The Los Angeles officers, aided by St. Louis detectives, searched for Giardano for four days without success and finally returned West last Saturday with Lannigan.

Circumstances of Arrest.

Giardano, who has a record of more than 65 arrests with only minor convictions, and Lannigan, who told police he spent seven years of a 10-year sentence at San Quentin prison in "the hole," or punishment cell, were arrested in Collinsville July 10 with Marvin Michaels, former hanger-on of the old St. Louis Cuckoo gang, who moved west about 12 years ago, to become head of a gang operating between Los Angeles and Reno.

Michaels, an ex-convict, was watching with binoculars the Evergreen Gardens, a handbook and formerly a gambling establishment operated by Harry Murdock, one-time operator of the Mounds Club, when Patrolmen Charles Kassing and Donald Watt arrested the three on suspicion. Michaels had a revolver stuck in his belt and Lannigan and Giardano had revolvers beside them in their automobile. A sack of machine-gun bullets and shotgun shells also was found in the car.

LINDBERGH DENIED HALL BY OKLAHOMA CITY COUNCIL

Protests by Legion Posts and Others Keep Him From Using Municipal Auditorium.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., Aug. 26 (AP).—The City Council today refused Charles A. Lindbergh use of Municipal Auditorium for a speech Friday night under auspices of the America First Committee.

The Council's action followed protests by American Legion Post No. 35; Harmony Chapter No. 3 of American War Mothers; the Women's Ambulance and Transport Corps of Oklahoma; Knights of Pythias and American Legion Post No. 13 of Capitol Hill.

"He's running down the morale of our country, and doing it under the guise of free speech," was the complaint of the Capitol Hill Legion group.

On the motion of A. P. Van Meter, Councilman, who said that "we're not denying the right of free speech by refusing to rent a public building," the Council voted unanimously to cancel an advance booking.

HIGH AXIS LEADERS TO MEET SOON, JAPANESE RADIO SAYS

NEW YORK, Aug. 26 (AP).—The Tokyo radio in a broadcast heard here last night said the highest Axis leaders will meet within a few days to discuss political and economic co-operation of their nations and conquered territories and the general war situation.

A joint statement may be issued by Adolf Hitler and Premier Mussolini, the broadcast said.

JOINS 7 SONS IN NAVY

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 26 (AP).—Floyd Patton has seven sons in the United States Navy—but that's only part of the story.

Patton has decided to follow in the footsteps of his boys. Although he is 53 years old, Admiral C. W. Nimitz, chief of the Bureau of Navigation, held Patton was not too old for duty and sent him to San Francisco for enlistment. Probably he will be placed in the recruiting service.

SOLDIERS USING BB GUNS

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Aug. 26 (AP).—Because it's no fun just to pull a trigger and yell "pow," BB guns have found their way into Camp Callan.

They're strapped alongside a Springfield .30 caliber rifle and when the rookie pulls the trigger he can see results. So far they've used the contraptions only in target practice.

Trips on Toy While Carrying Baby on Movie Set—to Wear Cast 4 Weeks.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Aug. 26 (AP).—Marlene Dietrich will have one of her shapely ankles in a cast for a month. She tripped over a toy fire engine with a baby in her arms on a movie set yesterday, fracturing the ankle.

Dr. Stanley Immerman said the ankle would have to stay in a cast at least four weeks. The baby was unhurt.

WOMAN PARACHUTE COMPANY FOR CALIFORNIA STATE GUARD

Major Says Members Will Be Trained to Jump to Any Point Medical Service Is Needed.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 26 (AP).—Maj. Frank G. Nolan of the California State Guard said yesterday 22 members of a battalion of 108 women to be mustered in soon will form a parachute company.

"They will be trained to jump and land at any point where medical service is needed urgently, and parachute blood banks will be lowered with them for field transfusions," he said.

"The 108 who will comprise the battalion will be a hand-picked lot—women under the age of 40, none with children under 10. They must be ready to serve as lawful belligerents. It isn't going to be a tea party."

WAR PUTTING 120-YEAR-OLD CIRCUS ON AUCTION BLOCK

"The Blackout Beat Us," Says Owner of Sanger Shows; Sale in London Sept. 15.

LONDON, Aug. 26 (AP).—One of the world's oldest circuses is going on the auction block Sept. 15 because the big top apparently is one of the things a country at war can do without.

James Sanger, descendant of the man who founded Sanger's circus in 1821, said he had continued shows despite the war until recently. Labor and gasoline shortage and lack of food contributed to the woes of the circus.

"I'm afraid it's all over," he said. "The blackout beat us."

Fish Names Being Standardized So Fishermen Can Tell Which Got Away

Of a number of factors contributing to the unreliability of fish stories, one at least will be eliminated, when a committee of the American Fisheries Society, in convention at Hotel Statler, completes its current project to standardize common fish names, which now vary widely in different sections.

Walter H. Chute, director of the Shedd Aquarium, Chicago, who has directed the work of the fish-naming committee for three years, described today to a Post-Dispatch reporter the extent of the problem and progress of the committee in solving it. "A standard list of common names is essential," he said, "if fishermen are to talk the same language.

"At present, a fisherman from the deep South talks of catching green trout, for example. Now, in these regions there are no true trout. What is really meant is a large-mouth black bass, but an angler from Wisconsin wouldn't have the slightest idea what the Southerner was talking about.

"Or take what you call bullheads. In Massachusetts, where I come from, we call the same fish hornpouts. Further south, they're known as catfish."

A list of 600 common fish names, Chute said, was submitted to 26 experts in all sections. On the basis of their suggestions, the list was revised and resubmitted. The committee is now working on its third revised list, which will soon be sent to the experts. It is hoped this will be the final revision and that the approved list of names, together with an index of popular sectional variants, will be published next year.

"We have already unanimous agreement on 70 per cent of the names," Chute said. "Another 20 per cent have a two-thirds approval. The remaining 10 per cent, however, are still in the controversial stage.

"A number of these are names of fish in Pacific Coast waters. In California, a State that believes it pays to advertise, these are called California sardine,' 'California barracuda,' etc. Fishermen in other Pacific states prefer names for the fish that don't mention California."

97.3 PCT. OF MEN BACK IN SHIPYARD NAVY TOOK OVER

10,889 on Day Shift 'Working Enthusiastically to Make Up Lost Time,' Admiral Says.

SALE OF COMPANY TO U. S. PROPOSED

Head of Concern Seeks Outright Transfer—Decision Likely Today on Launching Cruiser.

KEARNEY, N. J., Aug. 26 (AP).—The Navy reported today a 97.3 per cent return to work at the yards of the Federal Shipbuilding & Dry Dock Co., closed for 19 days by a CIO strike.

Rear Admiral Harold G. Bowen, who took command of the plant under presidential order, told a press conference that 10,899 men had reported for work with the day shift. On Aug. 5, Bowen said, 11,160 were on the job.

"The men are working enthusiastically and will try to make up the lost time," he said.

Asked whether he thought the Navy would get better results at the plant than did the company, the Admiral replied: "I cannot be drawn into any discussion of the merits of private or Government ownership. We're going to run it; you watch us."

Sale to Navy Offered.

The company, controlled by the United States Steel Corporation, has proposed that it sell the whole business to the Navy.

Bowen said he hoped to reach decisions today on whether to continue a plant expansion program now under way and when to launch the U. S. S. Atlanta. The cruiser was originally scheduled for launching Aug. 9.

Two cruisers, six destroyers, two C-2 cargo ships and three tankers are now on the ways, Bowen said. The yard holds contracts for $493,000,000 in defense shipping and employs more than 17,000 men. Other shifts will return to work late today and tonight.

The offer to sell the entire plant, with all its buildings, machinery, land and ships under construction, was made by President L. H. Korndorff in a letter to Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox.

In the letter, Korndorff expressed a desire to comply with the order issued Saturday by the President

BRITISH SEIZE 3 KEY POINTS IN IRAN; REDS REPORT MOWING DOWN WAVES OF GERMANS IN LENINGRAD BATTLE

MACHINE-GUNS POUR DEADLY FIRE ON NAZIS TRYING TO CLOSE ON CITY

Russians Fighting Against Infantry and Panzer Attacks After Falling Back From Novgorod, in Outer Defense System.

MOSCOW, Aug. 26 (AP).—Red army machine gunners were reported today to be mowing down waves of German infantry, motorcyclists and panzer crews trying to close in on Leningrad for the kill, after smashing through fortified Novgorod, in Leningrad's outer defense system.

Battles continued along the entire front, the midday Soviet communique said, but it named no specific areas.

Red Star, Soviet army publication, cited the work of machine gunners of an infantry regiment in Marshal Klementi Voroshilov's northwest forces defending Leningrad, the second city and one-time capital of Russia.

Odessa Battle Continues.

Defenders of besieged Odessa, at the opposite end of the front, were declared to be levying a severe continuing toll on attacking Rumanian forces. Red Star reported the Rumanian First Guards Division routed following the defeat last week of the Rumanian Third, Fifth, Seventh and Fifteenth infantry divisions.

Elsewhere in the Ukraine, the army organ said, the German Ninth Tank Division lost half its men and material in a single great battle and the German Sixteenth Tank Division lost 400 motor cars and trucks in one encounter.

Red Star asserted the Germans attacked heavily in the Staraya Russa zone on Lake Ilmen, 150 miles south of Leningrad, but the Russians dug in under bombing and artillery preparation and repulsed German infantrymen in subsequent wave attacks against barbed wire defenses.

Tanks Reported Beaten Off.

Tanks which were sent in an effort to destroy Soviet machine-gun nests were also reported repulsed as were motorcyclists who attempted to converge along roads and forest paths to surround the gunners.

The capture of Novgorod placed the Germans within 35 miles of the main Moscow-Leningrad Railway.

An early morning Russian communique said Red army defense forces withdrew from Novgorod, manufacturing city 100

Leningrad Battle Front

—Associated Press Wirephoto.

Soviet press dispatches said Leningrad's people's army fought alongside regular Red troops today defending the city. Soviet forces quit Novgorod, to the south, and claimed a Finnish thrust from the north and German drive past Kingisepp were checked. The Germans claimed the Finnish drive threatened Viipuri. Tallinn, capital of old Estonia, was reported surrounded.

BIG POWER CENTER ON DNIEPER RIVER TAKEN, NAZIS SAY

Dnieperopetrovsk Officially Claimed — Germans Reported in Luga, 90 Miles From Leningrad.

BERLIN, Aug. 26 (AP). — The German high command announced tonight the capture by armored forces of Dnieperopetrovsk, described as the last Russian bridgehead on the west bank of the lower Dnieper River.

The Southern Axis army was reported to have captured 83,596 prisoners, 465 guns and 199 armored cars in this drive through the Western Ukraine since the battle of Uman.

Dnieperopetrovsk, a commercial and communications center of 500,000 near a great hydro-electric dam on the Dnieper, was declared to have fallen yesterday. It is the eleventh largest city of the Soviet Union. (There have been reports, never confirmed, that the retreating Russians destroyed the power dam near Dnieperopetrovsk.)

Capture of Luga Claimed.

Almost simultaneously an unofficial report told of the capture of Luga, industrial city of 22,000 in the Leningrad defense ring between Lakes Timen and Peipus about 90 miles south of Leningrad.

DNB reported the German air force blasted railway stations and yards in Leningrad last night and that "the glow of numerous fires lighted the night sky for hours. It said the assault followed a day long attack which disrupted traffic on lines running into the Russian Baltic city.

On the central front, DNB asserted main rail lines were destroyed and several trains derailed.

The force reported to have taken Luga was one of three German columns driving toward Leningrad. A second has reached Kingisepp, 75 miles southwest of its objective, and a third on the southeast is striking toward the Leningrad-Moscow railway after capturing Novgorod, 100 miles from the Baltic city.

Heavy combat was reported by DNB in the Luga area. In fight-

'I'D LIKE TO SEE U. S. IN WAR NOW' —BEAVERBROOK

Minister of Supply States, However, Entry Is Business of Nobody But the Americans.

LONDON, Aug. 26 (AP).—Lord Beaverbrook, British Minister of Supply, who recently returned from conferences in Washington, declared today that the United States was in the full swing of production and that there had been no slowdown since Germany invaded Russia.

Asked at a press conference if the United States was near to entry into the war, Beaverbrook replied that such a decision was the business of the people of the United States.

"What do you think?" reporters persisted. "I'd like to see them in," he said, lifting his voice.

Then, repeating this statement, he said:

"It's nobody's business other than citizens of the United States, but if I am not to be hypocritical I'd like to see them in now."

Comments on U. S. Tanks.

He commented that there was no need for tank modernization in the United States. "They have fine light tanks in the M-3," he said, adding that American tanks are arriving in Britain "in considerable numbers."

"I feel no pessimism about increasing United States production," he asserted.

Of American airplanes he said, "They are just as fine as any product in this country or any other country."

Beaverbrook said that last week was the biggest Britain ever had in tank production. He called Britain's gun output good and added that production of explosives was "entirely pleasing for the moment."

Production Not Satisfactory.

However, he continued, "We now are in the unhappy state of having more troops than weapons," and said that while production in Britain was improving it was not up to his expectations after two years of war. He remarked that he was going to ask the United States for permission to send an exhibition

Injured Girl Lies 12 Hours Beside Plane While Pilot Crawls for Help

BISMARCK, N. D., Aug. 26 (AP).—Out of the Badlands today came the story of an airplane crash in which a 22-year-old Billings (Mont.) girl lay beside the wrecked plane for 12 hours while her companion, dragging a fractured ankle, crawled four and a half miles for help.

The girl, Dorothy Schindele is being treated in a hospital for a broken leg, severe face cuts and other injuries.

Her companion and pilot of the small training plane is C. O. Moore, 27, also of Billings. Neither is in grave condition.

Moore said his ship crashed on Bullion Butte near the Little Missouri River in the heart of the Badlands about 10 o'clock yesterday morning after a takeoff from Dickinson en route to Billings.

It took Moore seven hours to crawl to a ranch "through the devil's own country." To reach the ranch, Moore had to wade the Little Missouri River.

A physician and a group of 20 men did not reach the girl until 10 o'clock last night. It took them about four hours to bring her out on a stretcher.

ENGLISH INVADERS USING AIR-BORNE TROOPS; CAPTURE BIG OIL REFINERY

Swift Moves Throttle Iranian Communications—7 Axis Ships Taken Over—Reds Deepen Penetration in North.

LONDON, Aug. 26 (AP).—Indian and British troops invading Iran controlled three strategic points today after brief skirmishes—Bandar Shahpur, Qasr-I-Shirin and Abadan, occupying at the latter one of the world's three largest oil refineries.

Air-borne troops, flying fighters such as Germany used in its conquest of Crete, took part in the British thrusts. Co-ordinated with Russian drives from the north, they swiftly throttled Iranian communications.

British sources said the lightning movements of the air troops were believed to have saved the large foreign colonies of Iran, including numerous Americans and British, from possible harm and to have prevented sabotage of vital oil properties.

A communique reported that four German merchant ships, two of them beached and two damaged, and three slightly damaged Italian vessels were seized at Bandar Shahpur. The crews of these tankers and freighters apparently were caught by surprise.

Protests Recalled.

A spokesman said Iran had ignored repeated British protests that Iran was violating international law in harboring the craft, which he declared would be useful to the British later.

He forecast swift capture of the trans-Iranian railway.

It was emphasized in Simla, India, that the British Government was conducting the campaign, although the Indian command, headed by Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell, is directing land operations.

Bombers rained leaflets on Teheran, Iranian capital, and other towns, asserting that the invaders had no quarrel with the Iranian people and no designs on their independence or territory.

Under naval and air protection, the advancing British now hold at Bandar Shahpur the southern terminus of the trans-Iranian railroad which leads directly to Teheran, 70 miles south of the Caspian Sea.

Seize Pipeline Terminus.

Indian troops which dashed across the Tigris River occupied Abadan and its island oil refinery, thus gaining possession of the southern end of the pipeline from the rich oil field at Masjid-I-Sulaiman.

(The Abadan refinery is comparable in size to the oil processing plant at Port Arthur, Tex., and production is normally between 200,000 and 300,000 barrels a day. The refinery could pro-

FIRST OF 50 DESTROYERS U.S. TRADED TO BRITAIN IS SUNK; SOME OF CREW LOST

LONDON, Aug. 26 (AP).

THE former United States destroyer Hopewell, renamed the Bath and manned by a Norwegian crew in the service of Britain, has been sunk, the Royal Norwegian Navy announced today.

The only other detail disclosed was that an unspecified number of the crew was lost. It was the first of the former United States destroyers to be announced as lost.

The Bath was one of 50 American destroyers taken over by the British in 1940 in exchange for base-rights on British territory in the Western Hemisphere. The destroyers were renamed for American and British cities bearing the same names.

The Bath was one of 11 ships of its class turned over to Britain. All were built in 1918, were of 1060 tons displacement and rated at 35 knots speed.

REICH AND IRAN IN 'CONTACT' ON ALLIED INVASION, BERLIN ASSERTS

Officials Silent on Possible Aid — Press Attacks Churchill as Instigator of 'Aggression' to Spread War.

BERLIN, Aug 26 (AP).—Germany and Iran are in active contact over the situation arising from the British-Soviet invasion of Iran, an authorized spokesman said today.

He declined to disclose the nature of their negotiations. Reports of German offers of support to the Iranians were called "mere trial balloons."

Front peges of the Berlin press were filled with news and maps of Iran, but Government sources were silent on the possibility of German aid for the Moslem kingdom.

Prime Minister Churchill was described by Berlin writers as the chief instigator of what was called "the latest act of violence by aggressors."

The commentary Dienst Aus Deutschland indicated Germany would not be an uninterested spectator. Unquestionably, Dienst said, the British-Soviet move was regarded as demanding "strongest German attention."

Deutsche Diplomatisch-Politsche Korrespondenz, commentary close to the foreign office, said the invasion of Iran "was the best possible demonstration to all nations from which side danger, permanent threat, extortion and finally oppression can be expected."

Since the beginning, the main objective of Churchill has been extension of the war, Korrespondenz asserted. To reach this goal he has not hesitated to violate the territorial sovereignty of other states—not even stopping before the sovereign rights of his former allies, the commentary charged.

Turkey's attitude toward the Iran invasion was a principal topic of conversation in Berlin political and diplomatic circles. Belief was expressed that the invasion might influence Turkish policy decisively.

REPORT OF IRANIAN PLEA TO NEUTRALS

NEW YORK, Aug. 26 (AP).—The German radio reported today that Iran had called on its neighbors, Turkey and Afghanistan, to assume benevolent neutrality regarding the British-Russian invasion of Iran, under the terms of the Saadabad friendship treaty.

Quoting a Mondo Arabo agency report from Afghanistan, the announcer said:

"This treaty stipulates the benevolent neutrality of the other signatory Powers in the event that one of the parties is the victim of an unprovoked aggression by a third Power."

The treaty was concluded in 1937 among Iran, Turkey, Iraq and Afghanistan.

The German radio quoted the Iran news agency Pars as announcing from Teheran that Iranian forces were putting up a "stiff resistance" to both the invading Russian and British armies.

SIGNS THAT TURKS DISAPPROVE MOVE

ISTANBUL, Aug. 26 (AP). — The official Turkish radio in a broadcast from Ankara today said the British-Russian invasion of Iran was neither "just nor right," because "Iran wanted only to keep neutrality." It concluded:

"All Turks feel sorrow for Iran."

Many observers expected some German action to follow the British-Russian move.

Whether Germany might attempt a drive through Turkey from Aegean and Black Sea bases or seek to reopen the African campaign as a threat to Egypt and Suez was a subject of speculation in foreign military circles.

Italian Spokesman Forecasts New Axis Military Move.

ROME, Aug. 26 (AP).—Virginio Gayda, authoritative Fascist editor, forecast today a new move by the German and Italian armies, but did not say wheer it would be.

Some Axis observers privately scouted the likelihood of an attempt to reach the British army in Iran but foreign observers were not so sure.

Gayda said the "solidarity between the two peoples and the two armies is destined to have new, outstanding expressions and new developments."

U. S. MILITARY MISSION WILL BE SENT TO CHINA

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 (AP).—President Roosevelt has decided to send a military mission to China.

Dr. Hu Shih, the Chinese Ambassador, disclosed the decision after a call at the White House today.

Hu Shih said it would be headed by Brig. Gen. John Magruder, but he was unable to say whether it would be a permanent mission or how many members it would have. He indicated the mission would study Chinese needs for American military supplies and perhaps also strategic problems involved in the Chinese-Japanese war.

The Ambassador said some time probably would be needed to organize the mission.

TOKYO PAPER ASKS BRITAIN, U. S. TO 'RENOUNCE ERRORS'

Foreign Office Organ Comments on 8-Point Plan After Nazis Warn Against Axis Split.

TOKYO, Wednesday, Aug. 27 (AP).—With the German embassy warning Japanese against an Axis split, the Japan Times and Advertiser, Foreign Office-controlled newspaper, urged Britain and the United States today to take advantage of an opportunity for "renunciation of their past errors" on the basis of the eight-point declaration of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill.

That the Government also was debating Japan's opportunity was believed reflected by a Domei report that the Cabinet exchanged "free and frank views" on the international situation.

The Times and Advertiser complained that the post-war aims enunciated by Roosevelt and the British Prime Minister conceded the very "legitimate rights" which the two countries have denied to Japan.

"If it is disclosed that the democratic nations accept Japan's conception of legitimate rights such as access to resources, free exchange of trade in the co-prosperity sphere and freedom of intercourse with Far Eastern nations, meaning relaxation of Anglo-American pressure on Far Eastern nations or groups, the Anglo-American alliance should take advantage of its opportunity," it said.

Incidentally, it is reliably reported that United States Ambassador Joseph C. Grew has had several unreported talks with Japanese Foreign Minister Teijiro Toyada recently.

Koh Ishii, Japanese Cabinet Information Bureau spokesman, said earlier that Japan would welcome negotiations with the United States to ease tension in the Far East "if we could come to a reasonable conclusion."

Ishii, who made this statement in response to questions at a press conference, said, however, he had no information that any such negotiations were under way.

Asked about the purpose of recent talks between Japanese Ambassador Kichisaburo Nomura and Secretary of State Cordell Hull in Washington, he replied: "I am not informed."

Two newspapers, Hochi and the militaristic Kokumin, tied up comments on Churchill's speech with criticism of Admiral Nomura for telling correspondents in Washington Saturday that the gap in policy between the United States and Japan might be bridged.

Hochi said Japanese might respect the intentions of Nomura, but that they must not lose their determination to face the situation.

Kokumin said the Japanese had been more than patient toward Britain and the United States and added: "We should know that the present deadlocked relations of Japan, Britain and the United States cannot be ironed out with these interviews."

Kokumin pictured Churchill's address as propaganda to estrange Japan from Thailand and cause a split in the Axis camp by saying that American-Japanese negotiations were under way.

(In Shanghai, the Japanese army spokesman, Col. Kunio Akiyama, said the Japanese were not afraid of Churchill's "threat." Apparently he referred to Churchill's statement that Britain would support the United States if peaceful attempts to end Japanese military expansion failed.

("What we observe with greater concern is his ulterior motive—that is, to induce the United States into war," Col. Akiyama said.

(Asked against whom the United States was thus urged to war, Col. Akiyama replied, "Not necessarily against Japan alone.")

Commenting on the British-Russian invasion of Iran, Ishii said: "The peace-loving American nations must have been shocked by this unprovoked act." Japan, he said, was shocked also.

The Japanese press characterized the British-Russian action as aggression, and Nichi Nichi said:

"The Anglo-Soviet demands regarding the expulsion of Germans in Iran amount to high-handed interference in Iran's domestic affairs."

Domei said a well-qualified observer declared Britian and Russia had exposed a complete lack of international faith.

Count Wladislas von Mirbach-Geldern, press attache of the German embassy, in commenting on Churchill's speech, said:

"We should take care not to play into the hands of a British plot and thus be divided and ruled."

He added that the day after Churchill talked of protecting minority peoples he sent his troops into Iran.

Japanese Envoy Calls on Molotov at Moscow.

MOSCOW, Aug. 26 (AP).—Japanese Ambassador Yoshitsugu Tatekawa conferred last night at the Kremlin with Soviet Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov. The Ambassador was accompanied by Gunao Miyakowa, counselor at the Japanese embassy.

The Soviet news agency, Tass, denied a Japanese report that representatives of the Soviet and Chungking governments met at Chita, Siberia, and discussed in a week-long conference problems affecting Japan.

NAZIS KEEP KIBITZER OFF AIR BY USING THREE ANNOUNCERS

LONDON, Aug. 26 (AP). — The German radio used three fast-talking news announcers in place of one last night and kept a mystery kibitzer of the air from getting a word in edgewise.

Recently the kibitzer, speaking on the same wave-length as the German domestic programs, has assailed the Reich with such statements as "this is all lies" whenever a German announcer paused between items.

In the 9 o'clock news broadcast from Germany last night, however, London listeners heard three separate announcers read so rapidly and without intervals between times that it was almost impossible to understand them. Loud, martial music drowned out the final words of the program.

VICHY OFFICIALLY DENIES GERMANS ARE IN DAKAR

VICHY, Aug. 26 (AP).—An official French statement, prompted by foreign radio charges that the Germans are taking over the defenses of the French African naval base of Dakar, said today "there is not a single German in all French West Africa, not even an armistice commission."

This was the first time Vichy had found it necessary to issue denials on this score, although reports of German ambitions toward Dakar have been current for months.

The official memorandum said the only time the Germans came to Dakar was immediately after the armistice, when a Luftwaffe plane brought a Reich commission to take out Germans interned as enemy aliens.

of British weapons to Washington.

Speaking of the progress of the war, Beaverbrook said, "We must work harder and do more. We should not depend on America to take tasks off our shoulders or on Russia to do our job."

Britain has decided to abandon some imports from the United States, particularly iron and steel, because of the growth of the American program, Beaverbrook said.

For example, Britain might limit pig iron imports and receive in their place more finished products, he explained.

He said that he did not know whether he would attend the projected British-Russian-American conference in Moscow, but that he would go to the United States again.

"I'm always glad to go there," he remarked.

GERMAN CALLED IN ARGENTINE INQUIRY FLIES TO BRAZIL

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 26 (AP). —Gottfried Sanstede, press attache of the German Embassy, left by plane today for Rio de Janeiro just as he was called to testify before the congressional committee investigating anti-Argentine activities.

Orestes Confalioneri, administrative secretary of the committee, said Sanstede's sudden departure made it look as if he were fleeing. The German Embassy said he was on a "routine trip" to Berlin and that he would return in "three or four weeks."

Sanstede refused to testify when first called, pleading diplomatic immunity. The committee then had the Foreign Office establish his status, since he also was an employe of the local office of German railways.

U.S. TO PAY 2-CENT SUBSIDY ON COFFEE FROM PUERTO RICO

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 (AP).—The Department of Agriculture announced today it would pay a subsidy of 2 cents a pound on surplus Puerto Rican coffee up to 14,000,000 pounds, shipped to the United States between now and next June 30.

The subsidy would be paid to the Puerto Rican stabilizing corporation on coffee purchased from island growers or associations of growers. The subsidy would be in addition to the price the corporation would receive for the coffee from American importers.

The department said Puerto Rico had about 14,000,000 pounds in excess of its own needs.

BRITISH ARMY ESTABLISHES NEW EAST AFRICAN COMMAND

LONDON, Aug. 26 (AP).—The British War Office tonight announced creation of a new East African command under Lieut. Gen. Sir William Platt, formerly in command of the Sudan.

Lieut. Gen. Alan G. Cunningham, commander of British East African forces, has been transferred to an undesignated command in the Middle East.

The new command, which includes all territory south of the Sudan and north of Rhodesia, was created because of "the virtual termination of operations in East Africa and in order to enable the commander-in-chief of the Middle East (Lieut. Gen. C. I. E. Auchinleck) to devote his whole attention to more active theaters," the War Office announced.

U.S.-MADE PLANE BEAT OFF NAZIS BOMBING CONVOY

14 Ships Safe—Captains Say Single Catalina Balked Every Thrust of Luftwaffe.

LISBON, Aug. 26 (AP).—Fourteen British merchantmen arrived in this neutral port yesterday out of a convoy of 20 ships and a tug harassed by a four-day running attack by German planes and U-boats off Spain. The rest of the convoy and an escorting corvette were sunk.

(The British Admiralty today announced the loss of six merchant vessels and one tug, totaling 11,094 tons, from the Gibraltar-bound convoy. The German high command claimed Sunday that 21 ships totaling 122,000 tons and three escorting naval vessels in the convoy had been sunk.)

Six of the surviving sea captains told how U-boats sank six of the merchantmen, the ocean-going tug Empire Oak and the corvette in night attacks while a single American-made Catalina flying boat beat off daylight assaults of the luftwaffe.

U-Boats Bag Eight.

The convoy captains, at a special press conference, said the German bombers failed to sink a single ship, mainly because of the thorough work of the Catalina and its crew.

Submarines hammering at the convoy after darkness, however, were said to have gotten the tug, the escorting gunboat and the merchantmen Stork, Ciscar, Aguila, Alvia, Clonlara and Spind.

It was not known here how many of the survivors were rescued.

The captains said they were first attacked by planes about 400 miles miles off the Spanish coast Tuesday, Aug. 19.

"The German planes kept well off," one weather-beaten skipper asserted, "because the big Catalina flying boat circled right above the convoy. When the Germans came near the Catalina, although outnumbered, dived on them and they scattered, dropping their bombs in the sea."

Tuesday and Wednesday nights German submarines attacked from both sides of the convoy, sinking two ships and the tug, it was said, and the following day planes renewed the attack fruitlessly.

Directed by Planes.

A British naval officer said German planes probably directed the U-boats to the convoy.

"The only answer for complete convoy protection," he said, "is more airplanes to drive off reconnaissance planes."

Friday and Saturday night, the captains said, the submarines attacked again, getting the four additional merchant ships and the corvette.

Capt. J. W. Klemp of the 1345-ton Petrel said his ship was between two others, one laden with gasoline, when torpedoes struck both in the darkness.

"One of them, with many of my closest friends on it, just went up in a flash," he said.

"Even my Negro cook and carpenter volunteered immediately along with the others to lower a boat and search for survivors. We stayed there five hours, until after daylight, and those two boys succeeded in picking up 12 men by themselves. Another of our boats picked up 13 more."

SENATE GROUP ORDERS GASOLINE SHORTAGE INQUIRY

Commerce Committee Hearings to Begin Thursday—Priorities Investigation Approved.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 (AP).—The Senate Commerce Committee voted unanimously today to undertake an immediate investigation of gasoline shortages.

Chairman Bailey (Dem.), North Carolina, named a subcommittee headed by Senator Maloney (Dem.), Connecticut, to conduct an inquiry into "the whole situation." Bailey explained that the committee was empowered to act without Senate authorization.

Other members of the subcommittee are Senators Barbour (Rep.), New Jersey; Burton (Rep.), Ohio, Radcliffe (Dem.), Maryland and O'Daniel (Dem.), Texas.

Maloney said open hearings would begin Thursday to inquire into shortages which have developed in the East. He said the mere offering of the gasoline investigation proposal had "done some good already." He cited as an example the assurance from dealers that an adequate supply would be available for motorists over the Labor day week end.

The committee also adopted a resolution which its sponsor, Maloney, said would provide for a broad, general investigation of the oil industry. This, however, called for an appropriation and will require Senate approval.

Maloney sponsored another resolution, also approved unanimously by the Commerce Committee, calling for an inquiry into priorities. Maloney said this would cover the entire problem of obtaining prompt delivery of defense materials. The priorities resolution requires Senate approval.

The committee acted a day after Senator Walsh (Dem.), Massachusetts, had demanded a thorough investigation of gasoline shortages in the Eastern area. Walsh termed the method of supplying petroleum in the East "a glaring example of bureaucratic blundering."

Representative Hamilton Fish (Rep.), New York, asserted in a radio address last night that he had reached "the definite conclusion that the shortage of oil in the East is phony and is being used as part of a program to create further war hysteria."

ROOSEVELT ON RADIO IN LABOR DAY PROGRAM

French Civilians to Guard Railways, Face Execution If Sabotage Occurs

Watchmen Made Responsible for Certain Sectors in Paris Area—Parliament Protests Against Removal From Vichy.

VICHY, Aug. 26 (AP).—French civilian watchmen, conscripted to mount guard over railways around Paris, will pay with their lives for any sabotage in their assigned sectors, it was ruled today as authorities strove to stem a tide of disorders.

A special summary court with the power to sentence to death Communists and anarchists in the occupied zone will begin functioning tomorrow, only four days after its creation by decree of the Vichy Government.

The court's work will dovetail with that of German occupation authorities, who have announced they would take care of the Communists themselves. It will have jurisdiction in the seven occupied departments and will enjoy the same court-martial status as military and naval tribunals of the unoccupied zone.

The Lyon edition of Paris Soir reported tonight that a Parisian and his wife arrested on a charge of trafficking in forged ration cards had been turned over to the German army after they were found to possess two automatic pistols and Communist leaflets.

Members of the Third Republic's Parliament have protested against being shunted 40 miles from the capital for their meetings, in a letter to Vice-Premier Admiral Jean Darlan.

The now dormant Senate and Chamber of Deputies, which were elected five years ago, prolonged their own tenure without a new vote. Technically they still are in existence and they base their claim to be permitted to remain in Vichy on the 1875 Constitution, which provided that Parliament must go to the same town as the rest of the government if the capital were moved from Paris.

Recently, Chief of State Petain ordered pay of the legislators stopped Sept. 1.

The parliamentarians' protest was treated by the press as a tempest in a teapot. It prompted this derisive headline in the Vichy newspaper, Progres de l'Allier: "They leave us? They leave us not?".

The newspaper Aujourd'hui, in the occupied zone, said "Parliamentarians Refuse to Die."

REDS REPORT MOWING DOWN WAVES OF NAZIS IN LENINGRAD BATTLE

miles southeast of Leningrad, after days of stubborn resistance. The city is north of Lake Ilmen.

(Berlin reported the capture of Novgorod last Thursday.)

German planes attacked Leningrad yesterday but were dispersed, the Moscow radio announced.

Soviet press dispatches said Leningrad's hastily drilled people's army had gone into action alongside the regular Red troops—checking the Finnish thrust toward Leningrad from the north and the German drive past Kingisepp from the west.

Dispatches to Pravda, Communist party organ, said the Germans were forced to bring up reinforcements to fill gaps in their ranks caused by tremendous losses.

The militia, called to arms by Premier Joseph Stalin, was described by Pravda as "taking the test in heroic battles for their city —fighting courageously side by side with the Red army.

Twenty-four hours of rain was reported to have soaked the whole vast battlefront from Leningrad to the Ukraine, and Russians counted on increasingly bad weather to help check the German advance.

The early morning communique made no specific mention of sectors outside the Leningrad area. The Russians took this as an indication there had been no changes in position in the Gomel area on the central front, where Red army counterattacks were reported yesterday, or in the Ukraine, where Soviet forces were reported holding cut at Odessa and on the west bank of the Dnieper around Dnieperopetrovsk.

The Russians asserted 46 enemy planes were downed Sunday in air combat or destroyed at airdromes, and admitted losing six.

Soviet naval forces were reported to have sunk a German submarine in the Black Sea.

Nadia Angelina, one of Russia's most noted woman drivers, is assistant commander of a tractor unit formed as part of the new Soviet militia which Premier Stalin called to arms. Disclosing incorporation of the tractor forces into the people's army, Moscow afternoon papers printed a picture of the unit in which Nadia Angelina is serving.

OCCUPIED FRANCE ATTACKED TWICE IN DAY BY R. A. F.

British Report Widespread Fighter Raids on Shipping — Mannheim and Karlsruhe Bombed.

LONDON Aug. 26 (AP).—A large force of British bombers protected by a screen of fighter planes swept across the English Channel at sunset today in the direction of Boulogne German-occupied France.

The planes returned in little more than an hour apparently having completed the second raid of the day. Another force had gone over in the morning.

The Air Ministry news service reported new high-speed twin-motored Whirlwind fighters joined Spitfires in attacking shiping off the French, Dutch and German coasts today, and bombing an airdrome near Cherbourg and another in Belgium. Two German ships weer reported sunk and others hit.

A number of bombers one one of the Nazi air fields were set afire and several Messerschmitts shot up, the service added, saying that "the attack was such a surprise to the enemy that not a single fighter was encountered in the air by our forces."

British bombers attacked Mannheim and Karlsruhe, Germany, last night, the Air Ministry reported. It admitted loss of six planes.

German planes dropped bombs last night on two points in South Wales and at one place in Southwest England, causing no casualties and only slight damage, the Air Ministry said.

Three Royal Air Force Spitfires on a strafing raid caused a violent explosion by spraying a wireless station near Cherbourg with machine-gun and cannon fire last night, the Ministry said.

Nazis Report Downing 5 Planes Attacking Convoy.

BERLIN, Aug. 26 (AP).—Five British bombers attacking a German convoy, were shot down today, authorized German sources said.

The high command earlier had reported that Nazi planes had sunk a 6000-ton British freighter from a convoy in St. George's Channel.

The Germans acknowledged British planes raided western and southwestern German territory last night, but said the attack was "without noteworthy effect." Seven British planes were shot down, the communique said.

Military objectives on the British east coast were bombed yesterday, it added.

OFFICIAL SURVEY ELIMINATES 15 OF 20 AIRPORT SITES

CAA Experts and City Representatives Make Two-Hour Flight to Examine Suggested Tracts.

IN COUNTY, TWO IN ILLINOIS CONSIDERED

Exact Locations of 4 Not Disclosed, But Fifth Is at Missouri-Mississippi Confluence.

Possible sites for a new municipal airport were narrowed down to five today following an aerial survey of the St. Louis area by city officials and experts of the Civil Aeronautics Administration.

During a two-hour flight over the area yesterday afternoon, 15 of 20 proposed sites were eliminated because of size, shape, topography or the character of the immediate locality.

The aerial study was made by E. B. Donaldson, acting director of airports for the CAA; Thomas E. Flaherty, regional airport engineer for the CAA; Max H. Doyne, Director of Public Utilities for St. Louis and chairman of the City Airport Commission, and Charles J. Ellaby, president of the St. Louis Board of Public Service.

Sites Under Consideration.

Tracts still under consideration as possible air fields include two in northern St. Louis County, one in the southern part of the county and two on the East Side. Exactly where these tracts are was not revealed, but Doyne said that one was the site in Columbia Bottoms at the confluence of the Missouri and Mississippi rivers. This site has been recommended by the Chamber of Commerce.

Mosentine Island, in the Mississippi River near Chain of Rocks, was not included in the survey yesterday, Doyne said.

The island was not considered at this time because of complications such as the required changing of the river channel," he explained.

The CAA experts came here at the invitation of the Airport Commission to assist the body in a study of airport facilities here and to help formulate plans for the future development of the city as an air center, Ellaby said.

"We feel that at least one additional field is needed here if St. Louis is to maintain its position as an air terminal and have asked these men for their advice," he continued.

Further Conferences.

The CAA men conferred today with engineers of the Board of Public Service on airport construction details and design and will meet later with the Airport Commission at Mayor Becker's office. Conclusions drawn from yesterday's flight will be discussed at the meeting.

A second flight over the five tracts still under consideration will be made tomorrow morning, Doyne announced. The purpose will be to study these more closely and eliminate additional ones if objectionable features are noted. Following this flight, an automobile trip will be made tomorrow afternoon to each of the sites still considered.

On the automobile trip, the tracts will be studied closely as to problems of accessibility, Doyne said. None of the five under consideration at this time is much more accessible than Lambert-St. Louis Field, he revealed. He added, however, that some of them would be made so by road construction programs which would not involve tremendous cost.

Findings to CAA Chief.

Engineering studies of the sites will be ordered when the inspections are completed. These studies, together with the conclusions drawn by the CAA experts, will be submitted by Brig. Gen. Donald H. Connelly, CAA Administrator, and Lieut. Col. Lucius Clay, assistant in charge of civil airport activities, who have been asked to come here to discuss the new airport matter with the commission. Doyne said he expects these officials in about two weeks.

"The commission wants to be ready at an early date to reach a decision on what St. Louis ought to have in the way of airport facilities, and has asked the CAA to help it reach a decision on the kind of program we ought to develop," Doyne said. "After that, we can fix a policy and attempt to achieve it."

Answers the commission is seeking from these studies are whether the present field or a new one should be set aside for air terminal facilities and whether additional small airports should be established for private flying, Doyne said.

After the program of the commission is fixed, recommendations will be made to city officials as to the course of procedure. Doyne said this would probably involve calling a bond issue election for the entire amount of the cost as Government grants for the purpose are no longer available.

MAN IN AUTO KILLED BY TRAIN AT CROSSING

Illinois Central Clerk Fatally Hurt in East St. Louis Accident.

Freeman Yates, a clerk for the Illinois Central Railroad, was killed early today when his automobile was struck by a southbound Cotton Belt passenger train at the grade crossing near Twenty-first street and Bond avenue, East St. Louis. He was 36 years old.

The gates at the crossing are not in operation, but a watchman swinging a red light warns motorists of the approach of a train.

Grover St. Clair, engineer on the train, told police the train was going about 20 miles an hour when Yates' car suddenly appeared in its path. The automobile was dragged about 150 feet by the train. Yates was dead on arrival at St. Mary's Hospital. He lived at Centerville Station, south of East St. Louis.

MAYOR HOLDS CONFERENCE ON CIVIL SERVICE PROPOSAL

Announces He Will Campaign Actively for Measure After Labor Day.

Confidence that the voters will approve the proposed charter amendment for a merit system at the special election Sept. 16 was expressed by Mayor William Dee Becker yesterday, following a conference with Dean Joseph A. McClain Jr. of the Washington University Law School, who is chairman of the Non-Partisan Citizens' Committee for the Civil Service Amendment.

The Mayor announced he would begin active campaigning for the proposal immediately after Labor day, next Monday. Approval of the proposition by 60 per cent of those voting is required for its adoption.

Also attending yesterday's conference were representatives of the Missouri Federation for the Merit System, and George L. Stemmler, Associate City Counselor. Distribution of 250,000 pamphlets urging support of the amendment was started yesterday by the Citizens' Committee.

G. A. KRAUSE DIES; GAVE WORKERS $1,000,000 A YEAR

Factory Owner, Who Established Widely-Copied Benefit Plans, Succumbs at 87.

ROCKFORD, Mich., Aug. 26 (AP).—G. Adolph Krause, 87 years old, president of the Wolverine Shoe and Tanning Corporation, who established an employes' bonus system, died today after a long illness.

Through a plan instituted in 1919, Krause, it is estimated, gave workers in his tannery and shoe factory here and his glove factory in Greenville, Mich., more than $1,000,000 in yearly bonuses. Another of his widely-copied benefit plans was a stock-purchasing option for his 1000 workers.

Tulane Professor Ends Life.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 26 (AP).—Dr. Hal W. Moseley, 53-year-old head of the Tulane University chemistry department, was found dead in his office yesterday. Coroner C. Grenes Cole said death was caused by self-administered poison. A note read: "It is bad, but it had to be done."

BOY, 11, MAKES OLD AUTO HIS HOME, SAYS HE HAS NO OTHER

Mother Said to Insist She Got Him As Wrong Child in Hospital Mixup.

CHICAGO, Aug. 26 (AP).—Many persons today expressed a desire to adopt Jerry McLeran, 11 years old, who said he had been living in an old automobile because he had no other home.

The lad, who was reported by Miss Jessie F. Binford, director of the Juvenile Protective Association, to have "been running wild," since the schools closed for the summer, found temporary refuge yesterday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Hall on Chicago's North Side.

Miss Binford said the case came to her attention July 1 with receipt of an anonymous letter saying the boy was mistreated in his home, and that his mother contended that through a mistake she was given the wrong baby after the child was born at the county hospital.

The father is a WPA worker and there are eight other children.

.11-INCH GENERAL RAIN SOAKS IN, HELPS GARDENS

The "first good, general rain" since early summer fell last night, heavily for a while and then settling down to the kind that soaks in, with .11 inch recorded downtown and .24 inch at Lambert-St. Louis Field.

"It seemed like more than that out where I live," said Forecaster W. J. Moxom, whose home is at 5475 Cabanne avenue. The Weather Bureau expert's impression tallied with that of many residents of city and county and throughout the State, except in the extreme northwest section, recorded rainfall averaged about an inch and one-half and ranged from half an inch at Rolla to 2.25 inches at Osceola, St. Clair County seat.

The rain may rescue city gardens but comes too late to prevent severe damage to corn except for selected hybrids which, Moxom noted on a recent drive across the State, seem to have filled out despite the drouth.

HEYWOOD BROUN ESTATE REPORTED TO BE $9620

This Does Not Include $100,000 of Insurance and $15,000 in Transfered Realty.

STAMFORD, Conn., Aug. 26 (AP).—The late Heywood Broun, newspaper columnist, left an estate of $9620, an accounting filed in Probate Court here today estimates.

The estate does not include life insurance policies totaling $100,000 and real estate valued at $15,000 transfered within a year before Broun's death. The executor, Morris Ernst of New York, told the Court that State and Federal authorities had held these items nontaxable.

Baby Hurt When Mother Falls.

Robert Lee Wogoner, five months old, suffered skull injuries last night when his mother, Mrs. June Wogoner, who had been carrying him in her arms, tripped and fell down a flight of stairs to a brick walk outside their home at 1922A East Prairie avenue. The child was taken to City Hospital. The mother, who is 17 years old, was uninjured.

5 IN LEAD PLANT SINCE SATURDAY DUE TO CIO STRIKE

Foremen Can't Leave Because Pickets Won't Allow Them to Re-enter —Food Truck Halted.

Efforts of the National Lead Co. to get food and mattresses into its titanium pigment division plant in South St. Louis last midnight disclosed that five foremen have been marooned in the plant since Saturday night and have been unable to leave because pickets would not allow them to re-enter. The foremen were told by company officers to stay and protect the property.

A truckload of mattresses and provisions was turned back at the gates last night by pickets who have drawn such a tight line around the plant that the office managers were not allowed to enter. Today the Police Department ordered the pickets to let some executives through the lines, and the foremen's situation is expected to be relieved.

Meanwhile, the controversy over what group should constitute the proper bargaining unit of the 780 employes, which was thought to be on its way to a quick settlement following the signing of a stipulation by union representatives and company officers yesterday providing for a check by both sides on the proper classification of employes, ran into a snag when two other unions notified the National Labor Relations Board today that they wished to be considered as bargaining agents.

The two unions, the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and the International Association of Machinists, protested to the NLRB against certification of the CIO Gas, Coke and Chemical division of the United Mine Workers for bargaining purposes. A conference of union and company representatives was called for later today at the NLRB offices.

GETS DIVORCE AND JEWEL THAT NEARLY CAUSED DUEL

Mrs. James C. Brazell, Philadelphia Heiress, Accused Broker of Cruelty.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 26 (AP).—Mrs. Ruth Brazell, Philadelphia heiress, was granted a divorce from broker James C. Brazell yesterday, and under terms of the decree keeps a $6000 brooch which almost caused a duel.

Brazell testified he had given her the brooch to keep for him while she still was the wife of Prince Ludovico Pignatelli d'Aragon of Spain.

The Prince, he related, challenged him to a duel and he accepted; but she protested it would cause too much scandal in this country, so they called it off.

Brazell asked for return of the brooch and $1000 a month separate maintenance, but was denied both. He said he is in ill health, while Mrs. Brazell has a large income from a trust fund. She charged cruelty.

LADY OF LAKES PAGEANT IN EAST ST. LOUIS TONIGHT

Display to Be Repeated Tomorrow and Thursday, Opens Queen City Festival.

The sixth annual production of the Lady of the Lake's pageant, sponsored by the Civic Federation, will begin tonight at 7 o'clock at Lake Park, East St. Louis. The pageant will be presented tomorrow night and Thursday nights also.

"Liberty; Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow," is the theme of the pageant. Assisting the Civic Federation are the East St. Louis Park District, WPA, Boy Scouts, Polish Falcons and musical organizations. There will be illuminted floats.

The pageant annually opens the Queen City festival which culminates the imperial ball.

Railroad Plans for Labor Day.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26 (AP).—New York Central Railroad today announced it expects to carry more than 300,000 travelers over the Labor day week end, with a record flow of traffic through the Grand Central Terminal in New York. Furloughed soldiers, returning vacationists, and excursionists saving gasoline by riding trains will be included, a railroad official said.

ON TWO BRICKEY JURIES--ONE FREED, OTHER CONVICTED

Farmer's Failure to Say He Had Seen Festus Banker Before Is Cited in Appeal.

It became known today that one of the members of the jury which convicted Norville W. Brickey, former president of the Citizens' Bank of Festus, Jefferson County, on a banking violation charge in United States District Court last December, had previously served on a jury which acquitted him of embezzlement in Circuit Court at Mexico, Mo.

The juror is Lute Diggs, a farmer, of Laddonia, Mo. In his examination in United States District Court he failed to say that he had ever seen Brickey before.

Because of this, it is contended by Brickey's attorneys, in an appeal filed in his behalf, that Brickey did not get a fair and impartial trial and that the case should be reversed by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

Brickey was convicted in Federal Court of making false reports on the condition of the Citizens' Bank to the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. He was sentenced to two and one-half years in prison by Judge John Caskie Collet.

His acquittal at Mexico was on a charge of embezzling $256 from the Festus School District, of which he had also been president. In December, 1939, he had been convicted at Mexico on a charge of obtaining a warrant for $2953 from the school district under false pretenses. He was sentenced to two years on that charge and is now serving that term in the penitentiary at Jefferson City.

In the examination of jurors in Federal Court, Diggs informed the court that he knew Cullen Coil, one of Brickey's attorneys, but he said nothing at all when Judge Collet asked the entire jury panel if any of them knew Brickey.

Coil also represented Brickey in the trial at Mexico. Diggs said he was not closely acquainted with Coil, and, in response to a question by Judge Collett, said he would be able to give the defendant a fair trial. An investigation of the case has been started by the United States Attorney's office.

G. K. KLAUSNER, ST. LOUIS U. PROFESSOR, HIT BY STREET CAR

Stepped Back to Tracks, Motorman Says; Victim Suggests Heart Attack.

Gustave K. Klausner, associate professor of accounting at the St. Louis University School of Commerce and Finance, was seriously injured last night when a Delmar street car struck him in the 3600 block on Olive street.

He was taken to Jewish Hospital. His nose is broken and his back possibly fractured.

Dudley Hinson, 5505 Rhodes avenue, motorman of the street car, told officers Klausner had apparently stepped backward into the path of the street car. Klausner said he may have suffered a slight heart attack at the time, since he had no recollection of the accident.

Klausner, who is 66 years old, and lives at 5601 Washington court, is president of the Jewish National Fund.

SENATE GROUP APPROVES SIMPLIFIED TAX RETURNS

Would Permit Those Making $3000 or Less to Learn Quickly the Amount They Must Pay.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 (AP).—The Senate Finance Committee approved today a simplified return for income taxpayers who earn $3000 or less a year.

Committee members said the new simplified form for small taxpayers was similar to one advocated by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau and would aid both taxpayers and the Treasury in putting into effect the record-breaking $3,500,000,000 tax bill.

Under the proposal, the taxpayer could go to the post office or some other Federal office, inform officials about his total income and dependents, and learn quickly the amount of taxes he must pay. Graduated tables giving the amount of tax owed for various amounts of net income would be made widely available.

Morgenthau told Senators that the complicated mathematics involved in determining taxes for the millions of small taxpayers might cause disgust unless a simplified procedure were developed.

Senators Barkley (Dem.), Kentucky, and Connally (Dem.), Texas, told reporters that the simplified return proposal won unanimous support of the Finance Committee.

Increases Approved.

The committee also approved slight increases in the so-called normal tax rate for all smaller corporations which Senators said also would absorb the present 10 per cent defense tax.

These increases would apply to all corporations with a net annual income of $25,000 or less and committee officials said would increase estimated revenues of the bill by $3,200,000 a year.

Senators said the new normal income-tax rate for corporations with a net income of $5000 or less would be a flat 15 per cent, compared with 14.85 per cent under present law, which was not changed in that respect by the House. The 14.85 per cent is the aggregate of a 13.5 per cent normal rate plus a defense tax of one-tenth of 13.5.

Similar round figures approved for other income brackets of small corporations were: $5000 to $20,000, a new rate of 17 per cent, instead of 16.5; $20,000 to $25,000, a new rate of 19 per cent, instead of 18.7.

The committee took no action on House provisions imposing a new 6 per cent surtax on corporations making more than $25,000 and 5 per cent on those with income less than that, but informed persons said it was likely they would win committee approval.

No Change in Normal Tax.

The House left the normal tax for corporations earning more than $25,000 at 24 per cent and there were indications the Senate committee would do likewise.

The Senate committee accepted the so-called "reversible credits" provision, approved by the House, for computing corporation taxes. This requires corporations to apply the excess profits tax before deducting the normal tax.

Under present law the normal tax is applied first and can be deducted from income before the excess profits tax applied.

The Senate committee action was taken despite numerous protests from witnesses that the new method imposed an excess profits tax on the normal tax.

Senate opposition materialized quickly to the committee's proposal for lowering personal income exemptions and thus requiring an additional 7,000,000 persons to file returns.

There also was opposition to a provision that would end the community property system of filing returns now permitted in eight states—Texas, Louisiana, Arizona, New Mexico, Idaho, California, Nevada and Washington.

HOW SENATE COMMITTEE PLAN WOULD INCREASE INDIVIDUAL INCOME TAXES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 (AP). CONGRESSIONAL experts have released this table showing individual income taxes which would be paid by a single man under rates approved by the Senate Finance Committee, those provided under the House-approved tax bill and those levied under existing law:

Net Income	Senate Committee	House Bill	Present Law
$800	$ 3.00	.....	.....
1,000	21.00	15.40	4.40

MIDGET, GIANTESS DIVORCED

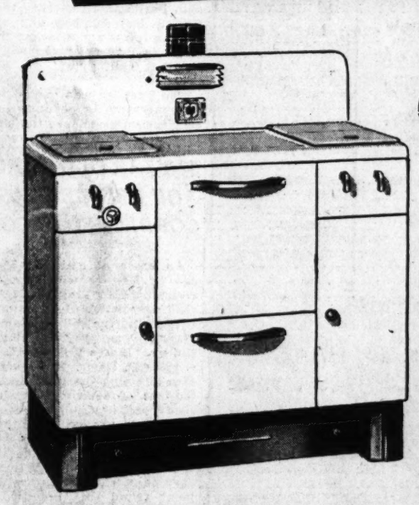

"She Married Me to Win a Bet," He Says.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 26 (AP).—The marriage of Billy Curtis, 4-foot midget, and Lois de Fee, 6 feet 8 inches tall, ended in divorce yesterday.

The 75-pound husband told Judge Henry M. Willis the marriage in Miami, Fla., three years ago was "just a publicity stunt, anyway." He said he didn't learn that, however, until after the ceremony. The wife, weight 195 pounds, was a night club bouncer. "She told me she married me to win a bet," he said.

ARNOLD R. WHITE, WHO SHOT SELF ON JULY 1, DIES

Bank President's Son-in-Law Indicated in Note He Thought His Marriage Was Not a Success.

Arnold R. White, a salesman for the Shell Oil Co., who shot himself in the right temple July 1, died early today at Barnes Hospital, where he had been since the shooting. Death resulted from an infection of the wound caused by the bullet.

He was found lying in the kitchen of his home, 372 Walton avenue, by an officer of the Mercantile-Commerce Bank & Trust Co., sent by the bank's president, W. L. Hemingway, father-in-law of White, to learn why he had not appeared at the Hemingway home for two days. He had been staying with the Hemingways at 7711 Maryland avenue, since June 23, when he returned from Bridgehampton, L. I., after taking his wife and two small daughters there for the summer.

Near him was a pistol and a note in which he indicated he thought his marriage had not been a success and asked his wife to care for the children, Lois Linn and Josephine. Apparently he first attempted to end his life with gas. Although burners of the gas stove were turned off, the room smelled of gas and paper had been stuffed in a crack at the bottom of the kitchen door.

White was 30 years old, son of Burrell Bordon White of New York. His marriage to Miss Lois Helen Hemingway in 1933 was a social event.

Found Dead by Callers.

Floyd Roberts, a laborer, was found dead yesterday in his apartment at 218 West Nagel avenue. He was 51 years old. His body was sprawled on the floor when discovered by two friends who called for a visit. A physician who performed an autopsy said Roberts died of pneumonia. Apparently Roberts overturned two chairs and bruised himself while struggling to call aid, the doctor added.

WIFE DIVORCES HERO OF RESCUES AT SEA

Mrs. Giles Stedman Charges Skipper Had Affairs With Woman Passengers.

RENO, Nev., Aug. 26 (AP).—Mrs. Florence Levit Schick Stedman of New York City was granted a divorce yesterday from Capt. Giles C. Stedman, Manhattan mariner who often has been decorated for his valor in saving ships at sea.

The usual procedure is to assert extreme cruelty and have the action heard privately behind closed doors. However, Mrs. Stedman, widow of Col. Jacob Schick, razor man, charged Stedman with adultery and extreme cruelty and had the action heard at a public trial yesterday.

Paul Rieth, Stedman's personal steward aboard several passenger ships, testified as to the places and times of alleged affairs between Stedman and women passengers on various voyages.

Stedman, now an executive officer on active duty with the United States navy, was not present and his attorney offered no evidence in his behalf.

Judge B. F. Curler granted Mrs. Stedman custody of a minor child and the right to resume her former name of Mrs. Florence Levit Schick. The Stedmans were married Dec. 12, 1938.

Congressman Ill on Plane.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 (AP).—Representative Smith (Dem.), Connecticut, was stricken with a mild heart attack today in an army bomber in which he had started for a third time on an inspection trip. The plane returned to Bolling Field and Smith was treated at the army infirmary.

British Capture Three Key Points in Iranian Invasion

duce enough fuel to keep the entire British navy in operation.)

Other British and Indian units, including tank and armored car detachments, crossed the frontier at Khanaqin, secured the oil installation at Naft-I-Shah and took the town of Qasr-I-Shirin "without serious opposition."

Gen. Wavell's desert fighters now hold the western and southern terminals of Iran's only two modern highways.

Threat to India Alleviated.

A threat of invasion of India seemed to British observers to be removed by the Russian-British action. Since Afghanistan forms the longest barrier between India and Iran it was assumed that British operations would all be primarily directed from Iraq. Arid Baluchistan only has common frontiers with India and Iran.

Details of the operations of the air-borne troops, presumably involving use of both parachutists and aerial transports for landing of ground troops, were not disclosed.

"Some fighting at Abadan" was authoritatively acknowledged.

Generally, however, resistance by Iranian forces on the second day of the simultaneous British-Russian drives was very slight, an authoritative source asserted.

A neutral military observer said that unless Iran's little army of 190,000 men was to upset all expectations, the Allies probably would meet only "token resistance."

Supply Route Objective.

Quick capitulation and establishment of an all-weather Iranian route for transport of war supplies to Russia were forecast by British observers.

Some quarters expressed belief, however, that British forces moving in from the west and southwest might not meet the Soviet troops coming down from the north.

If Iranian opposition crumbled and Nazi influences were wiped out of the Middle East Moslem country, these sources said, no actual juncture of British and Russian forces would be necessary.

The British Minister at Teheran has informed the Government that all Britons in the capital are "safe and well," the Foreign Office news division said tonight.

"There was no indication of hostile feeling on the part of the inhabitants," a communique said. "The rapidity of the operations has, so far, resulted in a minimum loss of Iranian personnel."

The Middle East air command at Cairo announced that British flyers strafed three planes "on a hostile landing ground" in Iran as the planes were taking off "to attack our troops."

Russian Penetrations.

The Russians announced that their Cossacks, sweeping down from the Caucasus, already were halfway to Tabriz, Iran's second largest city, which is about 60 miles south of the Soviet frontier. Russian forces reported to have penetrated 25 miles toward Ardebil, on the west shore of the Caspian, also were said to be continuing their advance. Moscow dispatches did not mention any resistance.

It was known the Russians also had concentrated troops on the frontier on the eastern side of the Caspian, where their first logical objective would be Bandar Shah, northern terminus of the railroad running through Teheran to the Persian Gulf. Whether they had crossed the border there was uncertain.

(The cities of Bandar Shah and Bandar Shahpur are as similar in strategic military value as in their names. "Bandar" means harbor in the Persian tongue. Bandar Shahpur, held by the British, is at the end of the Persian Gulf, the southern terminus of Iran's single, 600-mile rail line.)

Iranian Premier's Report.

Premier Ali Mansur told the Iranian Parliament yesterday that the British had bombed and shelled Iranian towns and attacked Iranian ships in harbor—presumably the Persian Gulf port of Bandar Ma'shur.

The Premier was quoted by the Teheran radio as saying "all necessary measures to face this attack" had been taken, but the measures were not specified.

"You all know," the radio quoted him as saying, "that at the beginning of the present World War, in accordance with the wishes of his Imperial Majesty the Shah, the Government of Iran announced the strict neutrality of the country.

"We have applied this policy in every sense of the word and to the best of our ability.

"We have followed a policy of friendship cordially with all countries in touch with Iran, and especially with our neighbors.

"All members of Parliament approved the policy of the Government.

British-Russian Demand.

"In spite of that policy, however, the British Government in agreement with the Soviet Government, through their respective representatives, presented a memorandum to the Iranian Government on Aug. 16, asking it to expel the majority of Germans in the country."

The Prime Minister then declared his Government had replied that it was keeping a careful watch on all foreigners.

At the same time, it was pointed out, he said, that no danger could result from this small number of Germans.

"With a view to calming the British and Soviet governments," he went on, "the Iranian Government took special measures to reduce the number of Germans in the country.

"The Iranian Government did its best to satisfy the British and Soviet governments.

"It is, however, most regrettable that in spite of all efforts of the Iranian Government to preserve peace in the country, instead of maintaining cordial relations and discussing matters in a peaceful and understanding way, British and Soviet representatives arrived at 4 o'clock this morning and presented threatening memoranda."

Newspapers welcomed the first joint action by Britain and Russia as the beginning of what the Daily Mail called "a no-nonsense phase in British policy."

The London press repeated that neither Britain nor Russia desired to shed Iranian blood needlessly, and the Times, urging Iran to "face the realities of the situation," said "an agreement can still be reached and this unhappy incident brought to an end."

Iran-Allied Conversations Continuing, Premier Reports.

TEHERAN, Aug. 25 (Delayed) (AP).—As British and Russian armies pressed their drive into Iran, Premier Ali Mansur reported to an extraordinary session of Parliament today that the Iran Government is continuing conversations with those powers "to clarify the reason and object of these transgressions."

An indication that Iran might reach an understanding with Britain and Russia was seen in the issuance by Teheran police of orders to 16 obscure German business men to leave the country within two weeks.

BIG POWER CENTER ON DNIEPER RIVER TAKEN, NAZIS SAY

ing which lasted several days, DNB said, German formations silenced 112 bunkers, cleared away 2900 mines, captured 2300 prisoners and seized or destroyed 54 armored cars and 46 guns.

Luga is the site of large chemical and metal industries, several large sawmills and an important airport. It is about midway on the railway between Pskov and Leningrad, and 50 miles west of Novgorod.

(The Berlin radio said Finnish troops operating on the Karelian Isthmus were pushing southward toward Leningrad after capture of 3500 prisoners, 107 tanks, 198 guns and other war materials and destruction of 43 Soviet airplanes.)

Earlier, the regular daily communique had devoted but one brief sentence to the war with Russia, again simply reporting successful progress without mention of specific sectors.

"On the entire east front operations proceed according to plans and successfully," the communique said.

DNB reported a German panzer armored company captured 50 carloads of Russian munitions by shelling a racing Soviet freight locomotive into immobility on "a northern stretch of the eastern front." The munitions it was pulling were captured and signal blocking stopped two trains behind it long enough for them to be brought under fire and their cars to be destroyed by flames from oil tank explosions, DNB said.

The air force was reported to have struck far beyond Dnieperopetrovsk yesterday at Russian troops said to be retreating east of the Dnieper River. The bombers took a heavy toll of the troops, left smashed guns and trucks along the road and sank a Russian monitor in the Dnieper River, it was asserted.

In raids east of Kiev the Germans said they shot down nine Russian planes in dogfights and damaged many on the ground. Important rail lines and truck columns were listed as the principal targets in aerial attacks along the central and northern fronts. Dive-bombers also attacked Red forces at besieged Tallinn in Estonia.

The Nazis said their own losses during yesterday's air operations along the eastern front were five planes against 68 Russian planes destroyed.

Finns Report Capturing Three Villages in North.

HELSINKI, Aug. 26 (AP).—The Finnish information bureau announced tonight the capture of three villages from Soviet forces, Suosaerui, Suvilahti and Hyrsylae.

The Russians, it said, had abandoned two other villages on the northern front, Vuontele and Aittojoki.

The Finns said all the lake districts around Suosaerui, the key position, were afire as they started the attack. They related that huge columns of smoke rose among the five villages, but later it was ascertained that at least two of the villages were saved.

Japan Outlaws De Maupassant.

TOKIO, Aug. 26 (AP).—The translation of various works of Guy de Maupassant was barred today because of "The Wartime Emergency." Japanese authorities ruled that, despite their literary value, the works of the French author contain liberal ideas likely to mislead the people.

52-YEAR-OLD ERROR ON BRIDGE LEASES CORRECTED IN COURT

An error of omission 52 years ago by lawyers who handled the assignment to the Terminal Railroad Association of leases on Eads Bridge and the railroad tunnel approach was rectified today by United States District Judge Charles B. Davis. He issued a decree directing the New York bank trustees of certain Wabash Railroad bond issues to release mortgage liens against the properties.

The error—failure to obtain release of the liens at the time of the assignment in 1889—was discovered recently when the Government found that because of the omission it could not get clear title from the Terminal to certain riverfront land for the Jefferson National Expansion Memorial. Judge Davis' decree enables the Government to get clear title and the Terminal to collect $30,000 which the Government paid into the court registry for the land.

The leases assigned to the Terminal in 1889 had been made in 1881 for 500 years by the St. Louis Bridge Co. and the Tunnel Railroad of St. Louis to the Missouri Pacific Railroad and a predecessor of the Wabash. A clause in the mortgage securing an 1889 Wabash bond issue of $64,000,000 included "all leaseholds" as part of the security. In his decree today Judge Davis said equity required release of the liens.

NEW MOVE TO END WAGE ROW WITH WESTERN CARTRIDGE CO.

If Conference Tomorrow Fails Three-Man Arbitration Board Will Be Proposed.

Representatives of the Chemical Workers' Union will make a final effort to reach an agreement regarding wages and vacations of employes of the smokeless powder division of the Western Cartridge Co. in a conference with company officials tomorrow, Fred Olds, AFL organizer, announced today.

Union members at East Alton last night unanimously rejected a company offer of wage increases ranging from 3 to 18 cents an hour for 326 employes, while 269 others would continue on present pay scales. Olds said the company's proposal would establish a minimum wage of 58 cents an hour, while the union is insisting on minimum ranging from 85 cents to $1.35.

Should no agreement be reached at tomorrow's conference, Olds said, he would propose that the dispute be referred to a three-member arbitration board, one member selected by the company, one by the union, and a third by the National Defense Mediation Board.

EXPERTS SAY NEW DAMS DISREGARD FISH PROGRAMS

K. A. Reid Tells Conservation Group 'Hydromania' Has Blinded U. S. to All but Kilowatts.

Assertions that hydro-electric and other water construction projects of the Federal Government are planned without regard to fish conservation values were made today by delegates to the seventy-first annual convention of the American Fisheries Society at Hotel Statler.

More than 200 delegates are here for the convention, which opened yesterday and will close tomorrow, when a three-day session of the International Association of Game, Fish and Conservation Commissioners will open at the hotel. Numbers of delegates will attend both meetings.

Kenneth A. Reid of the Chicago Izaak Walton League was one of the most outspoken of today's critics of Federal water construction projects. He pleaded for "a curb on the disease of hydromania, which the Government has caught from the utilities company in a more virulent form, and which blinds the one diseased to all values in a running stream except kilowatts."

Pork Barrel Projects.

Asserting that flood-control, electric power, irrigation and other purposes adduced for dam-building were frequently only blinds to cover pork barrel legislation, Reid said that salmon fishing in the Northwest and bass fishing in the Ozarks were both threatened by projected water construction.

Speakers from regions in which fishing has been adversely affected by dam construction and irrigation projects seconded Reid. Resolutions condemning specific dam projects now pending in Congress were urged from the floor and scheduled for reports at the end of the session by the resolution committee of the convention.

Speakers from the Tennessee Valley and other areas in which fishing has been improved by reservoirs formed by Federal dam projects pointed out that such works could be valuable as well as harmful to conservation.

Growing Demand for Game Fish.

Other business on today's docket was consideration of the society's statements on North American fish management policy and study of ways of meeting growing demands of the angling public for game fish.

Two aspects of the problem of fish supply were discussed informally by delegates, many of whom presented to the meeting results of aquatic surveys conducted in their respective states. The aspects were the more intense cultivation of existing fishing waters and the creation of additional waters.

The importance of aquatic surveys to determine the extent to which existing waters will support more fish and to determine proper fish-stocking policies for new waters was stressed by R. W. Eschmeyer, TVA biologist, chairman of the meeting.

Dangers of Overstocking.

Such surveys, first developed in New York State 12 years ago, have made clear dangers of overstocking waters and have given rise to widespread skepticism as to the value of stocking at all, Eschmeyer explained to a Post-Dispatch reporter before the meeting. The surveys give exact data on water chemistry, food supply, fish population and other matters which make possible scientific management of fishing waters, he said.

Discussion in the meeting was largely an exchange of experience by delegates who reviewed results of surveys conducted by them and suggested to one another ways of supplying needs revealed by surveys.

Preliminary results of such investigation in the Lake of the Ozarks were described to the reporter by the biologist in charge, A. E. Weyer of the State Conservation Commission. The lake appears to be overpopulated in relation to the amount of food available to its fish, he said.

Too Many Crappies.

There is no over-population so far as volume of water is concerned, Weyer added, except that crappies are perhaps too numerous.

A statement of policy, formulated some months ago by the Federal Fish and Wildlife Service, was read at yesterday's meeting. Conservationists welcomed its provision by which applications by private individuals for fish raised in Federal hatcheries would be filled only after needs of Federal and state public waters had been met. Formerly private applications, indorsed by members of Congress, received first consideration.

MISSOURI SUPREME COURT COMMISSIONER COOLEY QUITS

JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 26 (AP).—James A. Cooley of Kirksville resigned today as a commissioner of the State Supreme Court and Paul W. Barrett of Springfield was named by the court to succeed him.

Cooley, 69 years old, a Republican who has served as Commissioner for 12 years, said he resigned because of "the condition of my health." His resignation will become effective Sept. 1. Barrett, also a Republican, will serve out Cooley's term, which ends April 10, 1943.

bile license plates were in the car, and under the seat the officers found stolen Illinois plates. Police of other cities were notified by radio and teletype, and the woman cashier of the Prudential Life Insurance Co. and an agent who was walking with her to a bank when the holdup occurred, identified pictures of Giardano and Lannigan as the robbers. A request was made immediately by telephone to hold Giardano and Lannigan.

Magistrate's Account.

Police Magistrate David W. Killinger of Collinsville issued warrants charging the three men with operating an automobile with fictitious license plates and all three were fined $112 each July 18 but were unable to pay the fines. Killinger said that on July 28 he left on his vacation after issuing concealed weapon warrants against the three. He held the warrants pending the outcome of the California charges.

"When I came back on Aug. 11, I learned Giardano had been released late the night of Saturday, Aug. 9, when he raised the amount of the license fine," Magistrate Killinger said. "The fine had been raised in small sums by Giardano's father and Vito Viviano, a merchant of Collinsville. We all knew California wanted Lannigan and Giardano."

Magistrate Killinger said that on one occasion Giardano, who was being held for $10,000 bond, told him he would "make it worth his while" if he could get word to some people that he was being held. Killinger said he declined. At the time Giardano and his associates were being held incommunicado.

"Very Strange Procedure."

State's Attorney C. W. Burton, terming Giardano's release as a "very strange procedure," said he discussed the case with Collinsville police and Killinger and it was agreed the weapon charge would not be pressed if California took the men. Michaels, he said, is still being held at Edwardsville pending disposition of the charge.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Ben Wood said both Lannigan and Giardano were released to Chief Strong on the morning of Aug. 9. Michaels was left in jail. When Lieut. Stromwall and Capt. Smith arrived they found Lannigan had been moved for some unexplained reason to the St. Clair County jail at Belleville.

Lieut. Stromwall said the Collinsville officers acted as if they were still holding both Giardano and Lannigan up until they opened the cell door at Belleville. When Giardano was mentioned, he said, they just shrugged their shoulders and said they had had to release him.

U. S. AGENTS HERE TO LOOK INTO RISE IN PRICE OF COAL

Findings to Be Used in Effort to Obtain Ceiling on Charges at Mines.

Two investigators for the Bituminous Coal Consumers' Council, a Federal agency set up to protect the public from arbitrary increases in coal price, arrived in St. Louis today to gather information on the recent rise in the retail price of coal.

They are William H. Edmunds and O. Clifton Bell. They will stay here for two days and confer with retailers, consumers and Smoke Commissioner Raymond R. Tucker. Their findings will be used in support of an effort by the council to obtain a ceiling on coal prices at the mines.

METAL RATIONING NECESSARY, SAYS PRIORITIES CHIEF

E. R. Stettinius Asserts Strategic Materials Situation Is 'Tight as It Can Be.'

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 (AP).—Edward R. Stettinius said today "the strategic and critical materials situation is as tight as it can be."

The Office of Production Management's priorities chief, addressing a conference of trade publication representatives, was about to go on in greater detail when he was told the conference was not "off the record."

He went on to say, however, that the nickel situation was acute, and added:

"In all of the minerals and metals and chemicals, the supply is not sufficient for the defense, civilian and lease-lend life of the nation. Rationing is necessary."

Dr. R. E. McConnell, speaking on conservation for the priorities division, added this note:

"The next few weeks will bring a period of public confusion, because Government restrictions will come as a shock to the people. The first period will be one of privation. But we will have to get used to the dislocation because we all know we can't live on the same earth with Hitler."

Senators Assail Aluminum Co. and and OPM for Delay.

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 26 (AP).—Sharp criticism of the OPM and the Aluminum Co. of America for delay in building new northwest plants has been voiced by members of the Senate Defense Industry Investigation Committee.

Senator Harry S. Truman (Dem.), Missouri, committee chairman at the two-day hearing here, declared the OPM general counsel, John Lord O'Brian, had evaded a request by the committee for examination of the OPM files on aluminum production.

Truman said he telegraphed O'Brian last night, demanding that he wire "immediately yes or no whether OPM is refusing committee investigators access to files."

He said effective steps would be taken to obtain them if necessary. Stressing the importance of increased aluminum production, Truman asserted at the hearing:

"It looks to the chairman, from the testimony heard today, that Alcoa (the Aluminum Co.) is more interested in remaining a monopoly than in saving the country's national defense program."

New Zealand Will Accept Any U. S. Plan of Joint Defense, Premier Says

Asserts Situation in Far East Is Critical—He And Minister Call On Secretary Hull.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 (AP).—Prime Minister Peter Fraser of New Zealand described the Far Eastern situation as "very critical" today and declared his country would agree to any mutual defense arrangement with the United States.

Fraser called on Secretary of State Hull, accompanied by Frank Langstone, New Zealand Minister of Lands, who has been in the United States several months negotiating on defense supplies.

The Prime Minister came to Washington on his way back to New Zealand after a four-month trip which took him to England.

He sat with the British War Cabinet in London and conferred many times with Prime Minister Winston Churchill, whom he saw after Churchill's recent sea conferences with President Roosevelt.

Discussing conditions in the Pacific with reporters, Fraser said New Zealand felt "in danger" from Japan, but still hoped "Japan will see common sense."

SENATOR JOHNSON PREDICTS 'SHOOTING WAR' SOON FOR U.S.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 26 (AP).—Senator Hiram W. Johnson came home yesterday with the prediction that the United States would be in a "shooting war" within two months. He told interviewers:

"The country is in a hell of a situation.

"The President is determined to get us into a shooting war. The only hope is for the people to rise in their majesty and fight back. By that I mean all legitimate forms of pressure, of course."

J. M. FLANAGAN, CONVICTED OF TAX EVASION, DIES

Succumbs Swimming in Florida; Found Guilty of Aiding Chicago Gambler to Dodge Income Levy.

CHICAGO, Aug. 26 (AP).—John M. Flanagan, 51 years old, one of six men convicted in the biggest Federal income tax trial involving gamblers in the city's history, died of a heart attack, swimming at Miami Beach, Fla., Sunday, friends here learned today.

Flanagan was at liberty on an appeal bond after he had been sentenced to four years in Federal prison and fined $8000. He was convicted in United States District Court last fall of aiding William R. (Big Bill) Johnson, reputed head of a gambling syndicate, in the evasion of $1,887,864 income taxes.

East Side Seeks Aluminum Plant.

Frank Morton, William Cowley and Edward Stahl, representatives of AFL aluminum workers' unions, announced today they would go to Washington Sept. 9 to ask the Office of Production Management to build in East St. Louis the proposed $52,000,000 aluminum ore plant. The site now favored by the OPM is Bauxite, Ark.

MUNICIPAL MILK BILL TO RISE $40 A DAY IN NEXT 3 MONTHS

Increase From Current Quarter in Contracts for City Institutions' Supplies.

The city's milk bill will be about $40 a day higher during the next three months than during the current quarter year under contracts awarded yesterday by the Board of Standardization for supplying dairy products to municipal institutions.

Bulk milk for City Hospital will cost 30.49 cents per gallon during the quarter year starting Sept. 1, compared with 26.85 cents during the current and 25.75 cents during the previous quarter. The price of 20 per cent cream rose from $1 a gallon during the present quarter to $1.10, buttermilk from 9.99 cents to 12 cents a gallon and skim milk from 9 cents to 12 cents a gallon. Similar price increases were noted in contracts for other institutions.

City institutions use an average of 1200 gallons of bulk and skim milk and buttermilk daily.

MORE REAL GUNS IN USE IN WAR GAMES THIS YEAR

Some Units Have Modernized 75's in Place of Stovepipes — 'Tank' Signs on Trucks Unlikely

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 (AP).—There still will be plenty of makeshift weapons in evidence during the army's forthcoming Louisiana maneuvers, but not nearly so many as figured in last year's war games.

Although the War Department readily conceded today that shortages continue in the army's supply of modern weapons, it is keeping mum as to the specific categories and numbers.

"While it may be generally known that we lack certain munitions," one official explained, "foreign agents don't have an official check on such reports until the War Department puts out the information. We don't intend to hand them any such check."

From the fact that the navy and Marine Corps are planning to lend the army some dive bombers to co-operate with the armored ground forces, it is clear that is one category in which the army is deficient.

It seems likely, however, that the soldiers will not have to carry make-believe to the extent of last year when they hung signs bearing the word "tank" on light trucks. Production of both light and medium tanks has materially increased in the last few months.

Secretary of War Stimson recently told reporters that at previous maneuvers, the lack of planes had made the show "a little like Hamlet without the main character." In the maneuvers this fall, however, he said, "we'll be able to have a real practice in what we've been reading about the foreign armies."

Testimony of War Department officials in recent congressional hearings disclosed that there were shortages of the new 105 millimeter howitzers, but in some cases modernized 75s were substituted for that weapon so that the troops would at least have real artillery for training.

A few weeks ago, the department admitted that dummy weapons still were being used in many of the summer maneuvers, but asserted that all units had sufficient weapons for training purposes—enough to rotate so that every man would be familiar with the operation and use of the weapon

Some Units Have Modernized 75's in Place of Stovepipes — 'Tank' Signs on Trucks Unlikely

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 (AP).—There still will be plenty of make-shift weapons in evidence during the army's forthcoming Louisiana maneuvers, but not nearly so many as figured in last year's war games.

Although the War Department readily conceded today that shortages continue in the army's supply of modern weapons, it is keeping mum as to the specific categories and numbers.

"While it may be generally known that we lack certain munitions," one official explained, "foreign agents don't have an official check on such reports until the War Department puts out the information. We don't intend to hand them any such check."

Secretary of War Stimson recently told reporters that at previous maneuvers, the lack of planes had made the show "a little like Hamlet without the main character." In the maneuvers this fall, however, he said, "we'll be able to have a real practice in what we've been reading about the foreign armies."

Testimony of War Department officials in recent congressional hearings disclosed that there were shortages of the new 105 millimeter howitzers, but in some cases modernized 75s were substituted for that weapon so that the troops would at least have real artillery for training.

A few weeks ago, the department admitted that dummy weapons still were being used in many of the summer maneuvers, but asserted that all units had sufficient weapons for training purposes—enough to rotate so that every man would be familiar with the operation and use of the weapon to which he was assigned.

The department stressed that tactical employment of a weapon, where to place it for most effective use, for instance, is paramount in maneuvers. For that reason, it said, "little training value is lost by the substitution of a stove pipe for a mortar or an oak bough for a machine gun."

This theory has been criticised in congressional quarters, however, chiefly on the ground that widespread used of dummy weapons lowers morale of the troops.

73-MILE WIND DOES HEAVY DAMAGE IN KANSAS CITY

3 Radio Towers Blown Over; Trees Uprooted and Traffic Paralyzed.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 26 (AP).—A windstorm struck Kansas City last night, inflicting extensive damage and paralyzing traffic for nearly an hour.

Three huge radio towers were blown over, store fronts smashed, trees uprooted and cornices pitched into normally busy downdown streets.

Despite the widespread damage, only three injuries were reported and only one of these was serious.

At least 150 breaks occurred in power lines, leaving much of the city dark.

The Weather Bureau reported the wind velocity as 73 miles an hour, only two miles an hour less than hurricane velocity.

MORE AIRPORTS NEEDED, RETIRING MANAGER SAYS

Ralph W. Page States in Report There Is No Room for All Branches of Industry at Lambert Field

The need for one or more additional airports is briefly touched on in the annual report of Ralph W. Page, whose resignation as manager of Lambert-St. Louis Field becomes effective on Monday. Page's report was made public yesterday.

"All metropolitan areas are now experiencing the difficulty of placing all the branches of the aviation industry on their municipal airports," he said. "It is impossible for all of the aviation agencies to be located on one field. Each individual agency is an expanding industry and now is the time definitely to decide how many of these should be located on Lambert Field.

"It is our recommendation that a plan calling for a series of airports be made to take care of the future rapid advancement in this industry."

Page reported substantial increases in the number of airline passengers who used the field and in the amount of mail and express handled. Passengers for the fiscal year ending last March 31 totaled 86,188, compared with 52,097 for the previous year. Mail poundage increased from 991,712 to 1,072,919, while air express and freight increased from 217,197 pounds to 267,489. Total takeoffs and landings at the field went up from 187,360 to 252,982.

Page strongly recommended that police and fire protection at the field be increased and that post-office facilities be expanded.

The field now has one policeman, who does not have the power to make arrests, Page pointed out. With about 5000 workmen employed there now, and with the number expected to be doubled when the Curtiss-Wright factory is completed, the need for a larger police force can easily be seen, Page said. The traffic problem itself is difficult to handle, he added.

Page recommended that a fire station under control of the city Fire Department be erected on the field to give more adequate protection. Additional fire-fighting equipment has been bought as the result of two airline crashes near the field, Page said, but a full station is needed. The new equipment includes additional chemicals, fog nozzles, sheet metal shears, gas masks and asbestos suits for use in fighting fires caused by crashes.

Site of Ancient Village Uncovered In Mound Near Cahokia State Park

Remains of Sapling House With Fireplace Found by Archeologists Digging on East Side.

A village site of perhaps 500 to 1200 years ago has been uncovered on the sand floor of a mound 10 feet high and in the shape of a flattened circle, about 135 by 180 feet, about a quarter-mile east and a quarter-mile south of Cahokia Mound State Park between East St. Louis and Collinsville.

Since last June seven WPA workers have been trenching the mound, under direction of Miss Harriet Smith of the Illinois Archeological Museum, Springfield, and Miss Treva Wilson of the University of Chicago, with E. W. Burroughs of Madison County Historical Society in charge of the workers.

Trenches have been laid down from the northeast and south edges to meet near the center. The experts noted signs that, as in the great Cahokia or Monk's Mound, third largest pyramid in the world, the black gumbo was carried from the surrounding flats and dumped over the site in heaps, as of several basket-loads each.

A "bundle" burial was found about three feet below the surface in the northeastern trench, before the excavators got down to the floor and the indications that it had been the site of a village. Remains of a house, apparently of saplings woven through double walls of upright posts, with a central fireplace and an outside cache or refuse pit, are being excavated now in the southern trench. The study is sponsored by the State Museum and State Park Department.

TEST OF NEW MAGNESIUM PROCESS REPORTED SUCCESS

Used at New $12,000,000 California Plant for First Time in United States.

SAN JOSE, Cal., Aug. 26 (AP).—Test operations on a new magnesium process used for the first time in America were reported successful last night at the new $12,000,000 Permanente magnesium plant at Los Altos.

The plant, built by Henry J. Kaiser, Oakland contractor, will go into full operation, producing about 4000 tons of magnesium a year as soon as the test is completed.

The process used at Permanente is an Austrian invention, for which Kaiser bought American rights after an international cartel prevented his obtaining the use of the established process used in the United States.

Magnesium is one-third lighter and as strong as aluminum.

THE BEST-KNOWN NAME IN JUVENILE SHOES

VANDERVOORT'S was determined to bring mothers and children the shoes that both like best—that's why we decided on Buster Browns. They're style-sure; the reason youngsters love them; and they help young feet grow to happy, normal, sound maturity—that is why mothers love them. Buster Brown's latest contribution to a mother's piece of mind is the 6-point Fitting Plan: It gives soft little toes room to grow, sees that vital, toe joint areas rest at the widest line of the shoe, that the heel fits firmly but gently in place. And, best of all, mother may check each point of the plan.

Buster Browns are exclusive with Vandervoort's in St. Louis!

U. S. STARTS NEW $1,246,650,000 SHIP PROGRAM

Negotiating for 23 Additional Ways and 66 More Freighters — 500 Other Vessels Planned.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 (AP).—The Maritime Commission put a new $1,246,650,000 shipbuilding program under way today by negotiating for 23 additional ways in existing yards and contracts for 66 C design cargo ships.

It acted following the signing by President Roosevelt of an appropriation bill carrying $698,650,000 cash and authorization for later appropriations of one billion dollars. The new program calls for a total of 566 ships.

This will bring the commission's total program to 1276 ships, of which 100 have been completed.

Ways Allocated.

Additional ways, together with the necessary shops, equipment and machinery which are estimated to cost an average of $1,000,000 per way, have been allocated as follows:

South Portland Shipbuilding Co., South Portland, Me., two.

Bethlehem Steel Co., Sparrows Point, Md., two.

Alabama Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Co., Mobile, eight.

Ingalls Shipbuilding Co., Pascagoula, Miss., two.

Delta Shipbuilding Co., New Orleans, two.

Consolidated Steel Corporation, Ltd., Los Angeles, four.

Richmond Shipbuilding Corporation, Richmond, Cal., three.

Pushing Expansion.

The commission said expansion of other yards would be authorized as rapidly as practicable. It is thought about 48 ways, including those allocated today, will be constructed to handle the new program.

The commission also announced it had entered into agreements with various shipyards for the construction of the 66 commission-designed "C" type vessels.

Estimated cost of the ships ranges from $2,200,000 to $3,000,000 each.

Exact types of the remaining 500 ships have not been determined, the commission said. The ultimate decision depending on the available supply of various types of propelling machinery.

The new program brings to nearly 1400 ships a total planned production by the end of 1943, an average of about two ships a day.

Duke of Kent Doesn't Like Scotch, Just 'Plain Folks' Bourbon-Drinker

Editor Finds Peer "Another Good Guy Named Joe," Working 18 Hours a Day on Tough Job.

By TOM HANES
Managing Editor of the Norfolk Ledger-Dispatch.

NORFOLK, Va., Aug. 26.—As far as I am concerned, the Duke of Kent is just another good guy named Joe who is trying his best to handle a tough job.

Don't think that keeping on the move about 18 hours a day, flying from pillar to post, shaking hands with several hundred persons and watching every little word and move to keep from being tagged a stuffed shirt isn't a tough job.

When the interview was arranged I didn't know what to ask him. After all it was my first experience at interviewing a Duke.

"What do you think," I began, groping for the rest of the question, "what do you think of American labor's defense effort?"

"Marvelous. The spirit is wonderful. Please say for me that we deeply appreciate the tremendous accomplishments of American industry."

The next question slipped out.

"How about a shot of Scotch?"

"No, thank you," he replied. "I have a drink here on the window sill. It's bourbon. I don't like Scotch."

And that's when I began to realize he was just another good guy named Joe. A pourbon drinker, just plain folks.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 26 (AP).—The Duke of Kent told 13,000 aircraft workers at the Glenn L. Martin Co. today that "we in Britain appreciate very deeply the hard work you are doing to help us."

"Every hour you put in not only saves the lives of men, women and children, but brings victory that much nearer," he said. "You are playing a vital part in our fight."

'Ahs' Way Into Opera.

NEW YORK—Elizabeth Wysor, singer scheduled to appear with the Chicago Opera this fall, said her career in singing dated from the time a doctor made her say "Ah."

After her first "Ah," sung in a resonant contralto while she was taking a school physical examination at Easton, Pa., the doctor asked her to repeat, and then to sing a scale.

"Go up to the music department," said the doctor. "They can use you."

BOY SCOUT MOVE IS BROKEN, HITLER AID TELLS YOUTHS

U. S., Britain Blamed for Absence of Swiss and Swedes From Sports Festival.

BRESLAU, Germany, Aug. 26 (AP).—A German-led sports week for totalitarian youth opened here today after a keynote speaker, Helmut Moeckel, deputy Hitler youth leader, declared the British-conceived Boy Scout movement "has been broken."

Moeckel, addressing the youths in the Jahrhundert Halle last night, blamed "American and English influence" for the absence of Swedish and Swiss Boy Scouts from the sports festival. The brown-shirted boys and white-bloused girls in the audience hissed and booed loudly.

Noting the increased stress on the military tone of the youth movement, Moeckel called on the contestants to observe fair play in the week-long program of shooting, swimming, running and spear-throwing.

Participants or honor guests include representatives from Japan, Hungary, Belgium, Norway, Iraq, Finland, Slovakia, Holland, Denmark, Rumania, Portugal, Spain, Croatia and Thailand.

ARMY'S AID SOUGHT IN INQUIRY INTO STABBING OF MAJOR

Police Investigating Death Told Signs Cast Doubt on Accident Theory.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 26 (AP).—District Attorney John Dockweiler telegraphed Secretary of War Stimson yesterday for aid in investigating the death of Maj. George A. Tucker, Fort MacArthur battalion commander.

Maj. Tucker, wounded at his San Pedro home July 1, died July 12. First reports were that he stabbed himself accidentally while slicing bread for a sandwich.

Police investigated the case after receiving reports that the knife was too dull to have inflicted a fatal wound under ordinary pressure; that there were three critical wounds in the incision, indicating the knife might have been jabbed in three directions, and that a party was held at the Tucker home the night of the fatal injury.

On the Film Front

By Harold Heffernan

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 26.

WHEN Clark Gable takes a vacation he doesn't fool. Last scenes of "Honky-tonk" in the can, Clark and Carole Lombard are now somewhere in the wilds of Arizona, not to return to pictures until Dec. 1. Wrapped up in Gable's $5500-a-week contract is a clause specifying a three-months annual vacation to occur at "such a period as prescribed by party of the second part." The hunting season is always Gable's choice for the lay-off period.

Harold Heffernan

Business is combined with pleasure this time. The star hopes to complete a deal, long hanging fire, for 2400 acres of ranch property in Arizona. Deep in the wildernss, the Gables hope to set the stage for their dual retirement—when or if that box office barometer ever starts to fluctuate.

Mickey Rooney will continue brushing up that skyscraper pompadour he introduces in "Life Begins for Andy Hardy." It ups his height two inches.

CRITICISED because of a scowl that mars her appearance in "Private Nurse," Brenda Joyce is taking eye exercises daily. One of the prettiest girls in pictures, the camera never does Brenda full justice because of a slight eye strain that manifests itself under bright lights and the pressure of acting.

Latest on the Dr. Kildare dilemma over a new nurse—remember Laraine Day was brutally exterminated in the current one—is that the young doctor will not be allowed to fall deeply in love again but will engage in a series of mild flirtations with glamorous feminine patients. First on the list is Pat Dane, who took everything but Mickey Rooney's shoes in the new Hardy adventure.

NICE TO HEAR from old-time fans who remember the sprocket-jumping celluloids in a day when battered pianos dinned out monotonous accompaniments and a nickel was top price for a hard seat in an unventilated storeroom. Recent mention here of Maurice Costello flipped back the memory pages of one such fan, who writes:

"I remember Costello as a hero when going to the movies was a thing done under cover—much as people sneak into burlesque shows now. One time a publication conducted a contest in which fans were urged to write jingles about their favorite actors and actresses. One of the prize-winning verses was:

I like Maurice Costello;
He is a jolly good fellow!

"Another was:

Of all the girls
On the photo screen,
Alice Joyce
She is my choice!

"You get an idea now," our correspondent concludes, "what kind of morons went to the movies in those days."

We do. Their offspring wander out of modern movie houses at 1 a. m. and complain to the manager: "What—no third feature?"

NEWS IN NIBBLES: Three years ago William Powell underwent two major operations in the space of a few months. For many weeks his life was despaired of. His return to health has been little short of miraculous, doctors say. Since his recovery Bill has made three feature pictures, acquired another wife and has gone in for athletics. He was seen bowling one evening last week. He also swims regularly and plays a fair game of tennis and badminton.

A magazine spending $5000 in a survey purportedly covering 12,000 movie exhibitors finds Madeleine Carroll "most beautiful woman on the screen," Robert Taylor "handsomest man," Hedy Lamarr the star "most appealing to men" and Clark Gable the star "most appealing to women." The showmen declared "Buck Privates," with Abbott and Costello, filled their tills more than any picture since "Gone With the Wind."

It's nearly a year since Hollywood has heard anything of Paul Muni. Studios apparently haven't been too interested in him since "Hudson's Bay," which was razzed more than any film since "Parnell."

U. S. TO SHARE VITAL GOODS WITH LATIN AMERICA

Welles Pledges Equal Division of Materials of Which This Nation Is Chief Supplier.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 (AP).—The United States assured other American republics last night of an increasing volume of defense materials and promised also to share "on an equal basis" all goods of which this country is the principal or sole supplier.

Sumner Welles, Under Secretary of State, in an address broadcast to Latin America in connection with the anniversary of Uruguay's independence, said it was "essential for all of us to husband the supplies of materials which are so urgently required" by countries resisting the "vain attempt at world conquest."

"Stupendous as is the productive capacity of the Americans," he said, "the demand today for certain categories of goods is far greater than can be met from existing output," thus requiring strict economy in their use.

But goods of which the United States is the principal or sole supplier, he said, "will be made available on an equal basis to the people of the other American republics as liberally as they are to the people of this country."

"Moreover, we in the United States expect to supply in increasing volume the defense materials urgently needed from us by the other American governments," Welles said.

He added that this would be possible because of rapidly increasing facilities of production and also through the co-operation of other American governments in submitting their needs so that "the most urgently required by each national economy may be met first."

MISSOURI SOLDIERS DISCOVER HOW TO SKI IN SUMMER

Quarter-Mile Pine Needle Course Laid Out in Arkansas, Barrel Staves Used as Runners.

WITH SECOND ARMY IN ARKANSAS, Aug. 26 (AP).—It took the army to discover skiing as a summer sport in Arkansas.

Corp. Jack Eveler and Pvt. Norman Pruitt, members of the Seventieth Brigade Headquarters Company from Jefferson City, Mo., made the discovery while camped on a Ouachita mountainside near Prescott. Eveler accidentally slipped down a hillside covered with pine needles.

The soldiers fashioned skis out of barrel staves and wire and staked out a quarter-mile course near the command post of Brig. Gen. Lewis M. Means. Breaking the stop at the foot of the hill is a 10-foot deep pile of the fragrant needles.

CHRYSLER TANK PRODUCTION UP TO SCHEDULE AND RISING

DETROIT, Aug. 26 (AP).—K. T. Keller, president of the Chrysler Corporation, today told reporters who gathered to watch the performance of Chrysler's medium tanks that "before long we will be making more tanks than you can count."

Keller said he was not allowed to reveal the present volume of production at Chrysler's arsenal, but that "we were scheduled to make five tanks a day, and I believe I may safely tell you that we are up to schedule."

"I'd hate to be within a mile of one of the cannon when it goes off," he said, declining to discuss further the tanks' armament.

Chrysler has an initial order for 1000 tanks to cost $34,500,000.

Claims Power to 'De-Materialize' All Opponents; Accused of Fraud

Metaphysicians' Leader, Who Failed in 'Immortal Baby' Experiment, Denies Getting $9000 From Woman.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26 (AP).—James B. Schafer, head of the Church of the Royal Fraternity of Master Metaphysicians, pleaded not guilty in General Sessions today to a charge of grand larceny accusing him of defrauding a follower, Miss Minna Schmidt, of $9000.

Assistant District Attorney Edward W. Scully told Judge John J. Sullivan that the 46-year-old lecturer, who attracted attention last year with his "immortal baby" experiment, had informed Miss Schmidt that he had the "power to de-materialize those who interfered with his positive rays."

The prosecutor also said that Schafer's followers had so terrified witnesses that they were afraid to testify in grand jury proceedings.

Scully related that Miss Schmidt, 55 years old, was informed by Schaefer that he had heard a voice saying, "Minna is going to give me money."

Schafer told her, Scully added, that on the death of her employer she would inherit $75,000. Miss Schmidt, he said, thereupon lent him $1500 at the time and $3000 later.

On the death of the employer, the Court was told, Miss Schmidt inherited only $3000, but Schafer assured her there was another will in a safety box which would leave her $75,000. Scully said the woman was so grateful for this information that she lent Schafer $2000 more and invested $2500 in his magazine.

Schafer was sent to Tombs Prison in default of $5000 bond. He once operated a haven for his followers on the $2,500,000 estate of the later William K. Vanderbilt. There he undertook to instill immortality into a four-month-old baby by removing it from all worldly influences and insulating it against conversations about illness or distress. The experiment was abandoned after several months.

BICYCLES HIT BY DEFENSE PROGRAM; FEWER MODELS

Industry Agrees to Eliminate Most Decorations, Cut Weight by 10 Per Cent.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 (AP).—The dream of every small boy—a bicycle decked with all kinds of gleaming gadgets—is to become just a mail order catalogue dream.

The Office of Production Management disclosed today that 12 leading bicycle manufacturers had agreed at a meeting with parts suppliers, retailers and defense officials to cut the weight of bicycles about 10 per cent, make fewer models and eliminate unneeded metal decorations, in order to save vital materials for defense production.

Juvenile and racing models probably will be cut out entirely, it was decided, and each manufacturer will produce only 10 models instead of the 20 to 40 now offered. Thus machine tools, skilled workmen and materials will be freed for more urgent work.

Lanier and Sho Mize Hits Ho Double, Bats

By J. Roy Stock
Of the Post-Dispatch Sp

BROOKLYN, Aug. 26.—Brooklyn's Do and Clyde Shoun this afternoon and incr to two and one-half games by defeating contest of a doubleheader, 8 to 3.

Curt Davis, crafty veteran of the pitching wars, went the distance for the Dodgers and scattered St. Louis safeties except in the fourth and sixth innings when Don Padgett and Johnny Mize solved his delivery for extra-base hits that produced all the Redbird tallies. All told, Davis yielded only seven safeties.

Manager Billy Southworth had hoped that southpaw pitching would baffle the Dodgers as it did Sunday afternoon when Ernie White and Howard Pollet gained an even break. But Lanier's curves were not baffling at all and the Dodgers took charge with two runs in the first inning and when they added another in the third, Shoun was called to the mound to start the fourth.

Pitcher Davis greeted Shoun with a home run, Billy Herman tripled and scored in the same inning and in the fifth after a pass to Galan, Dolf Camilli hit over the right-field screen for his twenty-sixth homer of the year, chasing Shoun to the showers.

Harry Gumbert and Bill Crouch finished the pitching job and Crouch yielded Brooklyn's eighth run in the eighth on a pass to Walker, a sacrifice and Lavagetto's double, a drive that Padgett reached but dropped.

Padgett doubled in the fourth inning and scored on Mize's double and Don hit to the top of the center-field screen, 399 feet from home plate, for another double in the sixth and Mize hit over the right-field screen for his fourteenth homer of the year.

Davis finished strong, striking out three men in the ninth inning to delight of the crowd of 39,107 fans.

Lanier and Shoun Fail; Mize Hits Homer and Double, Bats in 3 Runs

By J. Roy Stockton
Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff.

BROOKLYN, Aug. 26.—Brooklyn's Dodgers pounded Max Lanier and Clyde Shoun this afternoon and increased their first place lead to two and one-half games by defeating the Cardinals in the first contest of a doubleheader, 8 to 3.

Curt Davis, crafty veteran of the pitching wars, went the distance for the Dodgers and scattered St. Louis safeties except in the fourth and sixth innings when Don Padgett and Johnny Mize solved his delivery for extra-base hits that produced all the Redbird tallies. All told, Davis yielded only seven safeties.

SECOND — CARDINALS — Triplett popped to Lavagetto. Lavagetto tossed out Crespie. Marion popped to Lavagetto.

DODGERS—Reese walked. Owen flied to Triplett. Davis popped to Crespi. Walker's pop fly fell into short left for a single, sending Reese to third. Herman walked, filling the bases. Lavagetto forced Herman, Marion to Crespi.

THIRD — CARDINALS—Mancuso flied to Galan. Lanier walked. J. Brown grounded into a double play, Herman to Reese to Camilli.

DODGERS—Medwick walked. Galan sacrificed, Lanier to Crespi, who covered first. Chespit tossed out Camilli, Medwick reaching third. Reese singled to right,

EARLY HITS HOMER OFF CASTER WITH MAN ON BASE

By James M. Gould.

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, Aug. 26.—George Caster for the Browns and Dutch Leonard for the Senators were the pitchers this afternoon as the teams met in a playoff of a 10-inning 3-3 tie of yesterday. It was Washington's last game here this season.

Fewer than 500 cash customers watched the proceedings.

Passarella, Rommel and Basil were the umpires.

The game:

FIRST INNING—SENATORS—Case flied to Laabs. Cramer got a single when Judnich muffed his line drive after a long run. Lewis hit into a double play, Lucadello to Berardino to Cullenbine.

BROWNS—Lucadello grounded to Bloodworth. Clift singled to right. Laabs flied to Lewis. Judnich singled to right, Clift stopping at second. Cullenbine flied to Cramer.

SECOND — SENATORS—Travis singled past second. Vernon forced Travis, Lucadello to Berardino. Vernon stole second. Archie bounced a single over Berardino's head, scoring Vernon. Early hit to the roof of the right-field pavilion for his ninth home run of the year and scored behind Archie. Caster threw out Bloodworth. Leonard struck out. THREE RUNS.

BROWNS—Grace grounded to Vernon. Berardino lined to Lewis. Ferrell flied to Cramer.

THIRD — SENATORS — Clift threw out Case. Cramer flied to Judnich. Lewis popped to Berardino.

BROWNS—Caster lined to Leonard. Lucadello flied to Case. Clift doubled to right. Laabs lined to Case.

FOURTH— SENATORS—Travis singled to right. Vernon grounded to Cullenbine. Archie fouled to Cullenbine. Early was intentionally passed. Bloodworth popped to Lucadello.

Cubs Win, 5-4.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 26 (AP).—The Chicago Cubs turned eight hits into five runs today to stop the on-rushing Phillies, 5 to 4, in the first game of a doubleheader. The Cubs scored three of their runs in a big sixth inning climaxed by Babe Dahlgren's home run.

The Browns yesterday defeated the Senators in the first game of a doubleheader, 6 to 3, and came close to winning the nightcap, which was called after 10 innings because of darkness with the score tied, 3-3.

Betty Jameson Is Tourney Medalist

NARRAGANSETT, R. I., Aug. 26 (AP).—Betty Jameson, national women's golf champion from San Antonio, dominated the qualifying round of the annual Point Judith Country Club invitation tourney here yesterday. Miss Jameson was 39-37—76, two over women's par, but five strokes ahead of her nearest competitors.

Tied for second were Mrs. Ralph Seltzer of Philadelphia and Mrs. William Hockenjos, New Jersey champion, with identical scores of 42-39—81.

Pitchin' Paul To Be Inducted On Sept. 4

Paul Christman, Missouri's great football star of last season, who now is training with the college All-Stars at Evanston, Ill., will be inducted into the United States army at Jefferson Barracks, Sept. 4, it was announced today by James H. Hennessy, secretary of Draft Board No. 7 at Richmond Heights.

The induction order was sent to Christman at Evanston, last night, Secretary Hennessy announced.

Previously Christman had been placed in Class 1-A by the board and as his number was next in line his case went through the regular channels, it was said.

During his stay at Chicago, Christman was scheduled to confer with Jimmy Conzelman, coach of the Chicago Cardinals of the National Professional Football League, in regard to signing a contract with that eleven.

Christman was drafted by the Cardinals last fall, but to date the player and club have been unable to get together.

Christman, also a crack first baseman, tried out for several days with the Detroit Tigers during the summer, but failed to sign a contract to play professional baseball.

Christman's induction into the army means that he will be unable to play professional football or baseball. His marriage is set for Sept. 8.

St Louis Hurler Is Bought by Dodgers

FREMONT, O., Aug. 26 (AP).—Lloyd Fisher, left-handed pitcher from St. Louis, who has scored 17 victories against two defeats for the Fremont Green Sox in the Ohio State League, has been sold to the Brooklyn Dodgers of the National League, Manager Chappie Geygan announced.

Indiana Caster Gains Victory In Skish Event

By F. Marvin Plake

Robert Budd, 120-pound carpenter from Jeffersonville, Ind., captured the skish fly, the opening even of the thirty-third annual National Fly and Bait Casting championships, which opened this morning at Post-Dispatch Lagoon in Forest Park. Budd had a score of 126, which was considerably better than the 108 recorded by Jimmy Price, 17-year-old high school boy of Fresno, Cal.

William Lovely of the Carondelet Casting Club, was tied with Archie Vogel of Paterson, N. J., for third place honors, each getting 103.

In the skish fly event, the contestant casts twice at each of five targets ranging from 20 to 50 feet in distance from the platform. Demerits are given according to the number of attempts necessary before the caster makes a perfect cast. A perfect score is 100.

Bob Piros Sr., of St. Louis, the defending champion, did not compete because of the death of his mother.

The Carondelet Fly and Bait Casting Club won the five-man team event in the ⅝-ounce accuracy casting event with a score of 459. Its members and their scores: Len Williams, 97; William Lovely, 96; Joe Dixon, 93; Ted Zeiss, 87; Frank Siedhoff, 86.

Second place went to Springfield, O., with 455; third, St. Louis Fly and Bait Casting Club, 451; fourth, Indianapolis, 433; fifth, Toledo, 425.

Glad Tidings.

BOSTON (AP).—Here's an item that made Tom Yawkey, owner of the Boston Red Sox, happy: Lefty Lefebvre, one of the Yawkey farm hands, turned in a 1-0 eleven-inning triumph for Louisville over Indianapolis the other day. The hurler is a former Holy Cross star. One of the things Yawkey needs most for his Red Sox is pitching—and Lefebvre appears about ripe for the majors.

COOPER PITCHES OUT OF JAM; FITZSIMMONS HURLS FOR BROOKLYN

By J. Roy Stockton
By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

BROOKLYN, Aug. 26.—Morton Cooper, beaten by the Phillies in his last previous start, pitched for the Cardinals against the Dodgers this afternoon in the second game of a doubleheader, after Brooklyn had taken the opener, 8 to 3.

Fred Fitzsimmons, evteran knucklebal expert, was the Dodger hurled. Undefeated thus far this year, he was seeking his sixth victory.

Again there were many fans standing in the large crowd, which was announced as 39,107.

Magerkurth, Stewart, Klem and Dunn were the umpires.

The second game:

FIRST INNING—CARDINALS—Riggs threw out J. Brown. Hopp flied to Galan. Padgett singled to right. After fouling off a half dozen pitches, Mize was called out on strikes.

DODGERS — Walked flied to Hopp. M. Cooper tossed out Herman. Galan flied to Hopp.

SECOND — CARDINALS—Fitzsimmons knocked down Crabtree's hard smash and threw him out. W. Cooper flied to Walker. Riggs threw out Crespi.

DODGERS — Camilli walked. Riggs singled to center sending Camilli to third. Medwick hit to J. Brown and Camilli was trapped and run down, J. Brown to W. Cooper to J. Brown, Riggs stopping at second. Reese forced Medwick, Marion to Crespi, Riggs pulling up at third. Reese stole second. Franks walked, filling the bases. Fitzsimmons fouled to W. Cooper.

THIRD—CARDINALS — Marion walked. M. Cooper bunted but forced Marion, Fitzsimmons to Reese. J. Brown flied to Medwick. Hopp forced M. Cooper, Reese unassisted.

DODGERS—Crespi threw out Walker. Marion tossed out Herman. Galan flied to Hopp.

FOURTH—CARDINALS — Padgett singled to center for his fifth hit of the day. Mize singled to left, Padgett stopping at second. Crabtree bunted but forced Padgett, Fitzsimmons to Riggs. W. Cooper lined to Walker. Galan misjudged and then made a leaping catch of Crespi's drive near the center field wall. Galan injured a muscle in his leg leaping for the ball and brought his glove in with him at the end of the inning.

DODGERS - Camilli flied to Hopp. Medwick singled to left, Hopp. Riggs singled to center. Medwick singled to left, sending Riggs to third, and Medwick took second on the throw to J. Brown. Reese was intentionally passed, filling the bases. Reiser batted for Franks and popped to Marion. Fitzsimmons hit off M. Cooper's glove to Crespi, who threw him out.

FIFTH — CARDINALS—Reiser played center field and Owen caught for the Dodgers. Marion singled off Reese's glove. M. Cooper hit into a double play, Fitzsimmons to Reese to Camilli. J. Brown struck out.

DODGERS — Walker walked. Herman flied to Crabtree. Owen hit into a double play, M. Cooper to Crespi to Mize.

SIXTH — CARDINALS — Hopp flied to Reiser. Padgett singled off Fitzsimmons' bare hand for his third straight hit and sixth of the day. Mize flied to walker. Crabtree singled to right, sending Padgett to third. W. Cooper flied to Medwick.

DODGERS—Camili struck out. Riggs flied to Hopp. Medwick singled to center. Reees forced Medwick, J. Brown to Crespi.

Southworth's Son Is With Bombing Corps

ORLANDO, Fla., Aug. 26 (AP).—Second Lieut. Bill B. Southworth Jr., son of Manager Billy Southworth of the pennant-chasing St. Louis Cardinals, reported yesterday at the Orlando air base for assignment as a flying officer of the Thirteenth Bombardment group.

Lieut. Southworth, regarded as a promising major league outfield prospect of the Cardinal farm system before he enlisted in the Army Air Corps as a flying cadet, was graduated Aug. 15 from the Air Corps' advanced training school at Brooks Field, Texas. Then he was commissioned as an air flying officer. This is his first duty assignment.

He began training as a flying cadet Dec. 30 at Parks Air College in East St. Louis.

Everett Leads in Southpaw Golf

TOLEDO, O., Aug. 26 (AP).—The nation's top southpaw swingers resumed yesterday where they left off last year—chasing Alvin Everett of Rome, Ga., who has been the winner of the last two National left-handed golf tournaments.

Everett, although qualified automatically, took medal honors today over the Sylvania Country Club layout with 77-76—153, four strokes under any other player.

Tied for second were A. J. Antonio of Linden, N. J., 1938 titleholder, with 80-77—157; Sam Alpert, Chicago, 81-76—157, and Eric Thompson of Columbus, 82-75—157.

Crain, Texas Star, Won't Be Drafted

NOCONA, Tex., Aug. 26 (AP).—University of Texas football foes who have been concerned over whether Jack Crain would be drafted—and unavailable for football—can keep right on being concerned.

The sensational running back's home town draft board indicated yesterday he won't be called until next summer.

Tobin Beats Pirates For 11th Victory

BOSTON, Aug. 26 (AP).—With Jim Tobin winning his eleventh game, the Boston Braves beat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-3, today in the first game of a doubleheader, holding the visitors to four hits. Vince DiMaggio tripled in the fourth with the bases loaded, accounting for all Pirate tallies.

Penn Loses Three Stars.

MONTROSE, Pa., Aug. 26 (AP).—Penn's football team doesn't start training until next month but it's been thrown for a loss already. Coach George Munger disclosed his captain and ace blocking back Gene Davis and star halfback Jackie Welsh had been drafted for military service. Eddie Allen, No. 1 fullback, was drafted late in June.

Cochran Shoots a 151 in Qualifying for U. S. Amateur Golf

Black Has 160; Fehlig Withdraws

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 26 (AP).—Stewart (Skip) Alexander of Burlington, N. C., seriously endangered his chances of winning the qualifying medal in the forty-fifth National Amateur golf championship when he shot 77, five over par, on his second round at the Omaha Field Club today for a 36-hole total of 144.

The 23-year-old Southerner was 10 shots higher than on his opening round.

Where Alexander went over par on only one hole on his great 67, he went under it on only one hole on his stuttering 77. His worst hole was the 622-yard seventeenth, where he hooked his second shot into the rough, tried to play a hook around some trees, but instead fired diagonally across the fairway and into a mud patch 30 yards to the right of the green, caught a trap on his fourth shot and finally got on in five.

A brisk north wind made the Field Club, which yielded only five scores of par or better in the first round, an entirely different problem today and on such holes as the seventeenth was almost directly in the golfers' faces.

Ward moved in four shots back of Alexander by shooting a three-over-par 75 that gave him 148. He was out in even par, but lost three strokes on the back nine for a 39.

Bob Cochran, Norwood Hills Country Club, St. Louis, District champion, shot a 77 to go with his opening 74 and a total of 151, which seemed a safe enough score to qualify for match play. His clubmate, Eugene Fehlig, withdrew after an opening 86.

James Black, Crystal Lake, St. Louis, Missouri amateur champion, slumped to 84 after his 76 first-round and put himself in danger of failing to qualify. George Kuehner Jr., Meadow Brook, playing in his first national, who had a bad 95 for his first round, improved to an 83, but his total of 178 was not expected to get him into match play.

WRAY'S COLUMN

New Rule May Be Bears' Salvation.

THERE will be no restrictions on college football substitutions this year. . . . Coaches may take out a player and replace him in the same quarter. . . . He may be taken out and sent back when and as often as is desirable, with only one play intervening. . . . That's the feature which may give the Washington University Bears a real break.

Limited to a squad of fewer than 25 players, Head Coach Frank Loebs and new Line Coach Carl Heldt may now juggle their material to better advantage. . . . They can shift offensive and defensive strength whenever the ball changes hands. . . . And then rest their "iron men" to better advantage.

"The rule may help us," Loebs commented today, as he accompanied his new first lieutenant, Heldt, on a round of newspaper introductions. . . . "But it may also result in great confusion, due to the expected great increase in substitutions."

Confusion is a mild word . . .

Coaches may now send specialists into the game for a single play as often as they see fit. . . . The press-box occupants and the play-by-play broadcasters probably will wind up in the observation ward before the season is over.

Communications Are Now Wide Open.

THE substitution rule changes provide another interesting feature . . . Coaches no longer have to cross their legs, wave a paper, stand up, sit down, or bow their heads to inform a baffled quarterback what's the proper play.

Any incoming substitute may now communicate directly with the field captain, where formerly the player had to wait for one play to be run off . . . Thus the interrupted line of communication between the bench and the field general is now reopened . . . And the coach's face is saved.

"Boilermaker" tactics will be the keynote at Francis Field. . . Loebs played end at Purdue and Line Coach Heldt was a strapping Purdue tackle of all-America rating.

Face Hard Task

Head Coach FRANK LOEBS (left) and Line Coach CARL HELDT, both of Purdue, who will try to make the Washington Bears a Valley Conference factor.

The Bears' coaching situation apparently will be well taken care of, although no coach to specialize with the backfield has been announced. . . . Loebs himself probably will take care of that.

The Bears will be on their mettle because this year Coach Duford of the Billikens has a formidable squad. . . The country's experts are not paying much attention to St. Louis U., giving the Oklahoma Cowboys and the Tulsa team preference. . . . But St. Louis will cause plenty of trouble.

And, of course, that means Washington University will have to get 100 per cent efficiency out of every player to win that Thanksgiving day game. . . Man power counts heavily today. . . . But small squads have stood the test before. . . . And so Loebs and Heldt will carry on hopefully.

Uprising Likely Against the "T."

IT was TEA in Boston Harbor that started the American Revolution. . . . And today another revolution, it appears, can be traced to Clark Shaugnessy's T. . . . The clans are rallying to find means of dumping it, this year.

This T is potent. . . It carried the Chicago Bears to the front. . . . And Shaugnessy's copy of it converted the tail-end Stanford team of 1939 into the Rose Bowl champions of 1941. . . . That's the way the story goes, at least.

But, while some coaches have as a consequence rushed to adopt the T to their own uses, most of them stubbornly refuse to believe that there is any magic in the T alone. . . . They contend that specially gifted players have done the trick.

And so the T formation is experiencing a revolution against it. . . And since the master coaching minds of the country have concentrated on analyzing it with a view to neutralizing what advantages it may have, you may look for considerable reduction of the T's success.

Because of this we're inclined to think that Stanford, continuing to employ this attack, will find its blitz play shot down quickly this year.

You Can Hear This And a Great Deal More.

ALREADY the boys are popping off about how to stop the setup. . . . Here's how one good coach, not known in these parts but who enjoys good rating on the coast, expresses himself about it:

"Put a couple of good, stout babies on the T-formation's center rush, in the first quarter. . . . Muss him up considerable, within the rules, you understand. . . . Or do you? . . . Anyway, put the pressure on him whenever he passes that ball.

"About the middle of the second quarter, or perhaps earlier and through the second half, unless he's a very great center indeed, he's bound to lose some of his pep and passing efficiency. And when a T-formation center isn't passing well, T-formation won't fool anybody."

Well, that idea might have worked back in the '90s when the T-formation was in its infancy. . . . They used only one center then. . . . And they substituted only in case of bone fracture. . . . In these days every squad has several centers. . . . And there isn't time to reduce them all by working on them persuasively.

Looks like they'll have to find something hotter than that one. . . . We're going to that coaches' dinner in Chicago this week. . . . There'll be several hundred of the breed there. . . . We'll try to get them to give us an answer to the T-revolution. . . . We'll probably get several hundred.

Standlee Is At Fullback For Stars

CHICAGO, Aug. 26 (AP).—Using Norman Standlee of Stanford at fullback on the college All-Star team may be Coach Carl Snavely's method of fighting fire with fire Thursday night.

Standlee played last year on Stanford's unbeaten Pacific Coast League and Rose Bowl champions which used the powerful "T" formation. The Chicago Bears, pro champions and foes of the Stars Thursday in Soldier Field, use the same offense. That's why observers think Standlee will play a key part in the All-Star lineup.

George Paskvan of Wisconsin doesn't stand much chance of staying at fullback once the game is under way. Because he polled the most votes for that position, Paskvan will start the contest, but the coach may substitute at his discretion once things get going. And Standlee looks like the man to replace the former Badger star.

Standlee, besides having the benefit of 220 pounds, knows how to perform the spins and half-spins demanded by Snavely's offensive plans. Paskvan is more likely to see action, if he re-enters the game, as a quarterback, where he is rated below Walter Matuszczak of Cornell and Forest Evashevski of Michigan.

Evashevski, due to start at quarter because of his top standing in the poll, is apt to be replaced early by Matuszczak—not that Evashevski is an inferior player, but rather that he is handicapped by a shoulder injury. Halfbacks Tom Harmon of Michigan and George Franck of Minnesota, both starters, are slated to remain in the lineup.

The All-Stars planned their first workout in Soldier Field tonight under the lights. The Bears will practice in the big stadium tomorrow.

The Stars yesterday named Dave Rankin of Purdue their captain.

Midget Racers In 50-Lap Event

The first 50-lap race, longest of the season, will headline the midget auto racing program tonight at Walsh Stadium. The first race will start at 8:30, with the time trials getting under way an hour earlier. Only two speed programs remain after tonight.

Rex Mays, big car racer, who has been one of the big money winners at Indianapolis' annual 500-mile classic for a number of years, has entered his car, which will be driven by Bud Mortinson. Wally Zale of Chicago will make his first start of the season here.

Ted Duncan, winner of the feature here last week; Ray Richards, leader in the point standings; Myron Fohr, Vito Calia, Ralph Pratt, Tony Bettenhausen, Bert Knight, Peewee Distarce, Mike O'Halloran and Pete Nielsen make up the list of out-of-town drivers entered. Johnny Rogan, Elmer Noeth, Clyde Dillon, Ben Chesney and Lou Walker are some of the local pilots who have enrolled.

Ten events will make up the program.

Stockham Nine Plays Berwyn After Winning From New Orleans 6-5

COLUMBIA, S. C., Aug. 26.—Sectional eliminations in the American Legion junior baseball tournament will send New Orleans against Augsta, Ga., at 4 p. m., today, and the Stockhams of St. Louis against Berwyn, Ill., at 3:15 o'clock.

St. Louis and Berwyn advanced yesterday after rallying in the final innings. Meyer's double brought in Schloesman with the run that gave St. Louis a 6-to-5 victory over New Orleans in 10 innings. A wild pitch and a single brought in the two runs that gave Berwyn a 9-to-8 decision over Augusta.

The winner of this tournament will advance on a bye and be host to the national finals, Sept. 1-5.

The Stockham-New Orleans game was a see-saw strikeout battle, with 16-year-old Roger Powell finally taking the measure of Dick Callahan, New Orleans' top pitcher. Powell fanned 12 batters; Callahan 11, but the Stockham kid had a little more in the tight places.

St. Louis grabbed an early lead, scoring a single run in the second inning, and increased this to 5-0 before New Orleans started putting its hits together for runs. A base on balls to Dischart, a passed ball and a single to right by Diering accounted for the first score. The Missourians scored twice in the fourth inning on a hit. Schloesman walked and Meyer was safe on an error. They were sacrificed around and Diering walked, to fill the bases. Exler shot a line hit into right for the two runs. The score mounted to 5-0 in the fifth on opening singles by Maguire and Berra and a lusty hit to center by Meyer.

Errors—Gandolfi, Schloeman (2). Runs batted in—Diering, Meyer (3), Exler (2), Bonnet, Winters, Catalano, Faust. Two-base hits—Maguire, Faust, Meyer. Stolen bases—Beyer, Exler, Groh, Gandolfi, Bonnet (2), Morris, Schloeman. Sacrifices—Dischart, Groh, Faust. Left on bases—St. Louis 7, New Orleans 8. Bases on balls—Off Callahan, 4; off Powell, 4. Struck out—By Callahan, 11; by Powell, 12. Wild pitch—Callahan. Passed ball—Winters. Umpires—Montjoy and Patrone. Time of game—2hr. 10m.

New Orleans found its batting eye about that time and, scoring usually once per inning, tied the count in the eighth. Two errors by First Baseman Schloesman helped. They were the only St. Louis bobbles of the game. One was a wild throw to third after a putout, one a dropped throw.

In the strikeout parade Pitcher Powell of St. Louis and Second-baseman Suarez of New Orleans each fanned four times.

Blattner and Munger Bought By the Cards

Bob Blattner, 21-year-old St. Louisan who has been starring at second base for Pepper Martin's Sacramento Solons, and George Munger, outstanding young right-handed hurler, also with Sacramento, have been purchased by the Cardinals. They will report next spring.

Blattner, who is hitting .318, attained fame as a table tennis champion before going into professional baseball, having toured Europe with championship doubles teams in 1936 and 1937. Indicative of his power at the plate is the fact his hits have included 14 home runs and 30 doubles. He is one of the leading base stealers of the Pacific Coast League with 22, being exceeded in this department by only two other players, one his teammate, Don Gutteridge, a former Cardinal, who has pilfered 33 sacks.

Munger, also 21 years old, has won 16 and lost 11 games this season. He has allowed 166 hits in 205 innings and fanned 115 batsmen.

Lesnevich Favored in Title Bout

NEW YORK, Aug. 26 (AP).—Gus Lesnevich, recognized as N. B. A. light-heavyweight champion, scaled 175½ pounds, one-half pound over the limit, when he weighed in today for his 15-round title bout with Tami Mauriello at Madison Square Garden tonight. Mauriello weighed 170¾.

Gen. John J. Phelan, chairman of the State Boxing Commission, ordered Lesnevich to go out and try to work off the excess weight and return later for another try at the scales.

Lesnevich departed and a few minutes later returned and stepped on the scales again. The beam balanced at 175 pounds. He had taken a short run and dropped the half-pound. Lespevich is the favorite.

Dodgers Given Permission to Retire Phelps

BROOKLYN, Aug. 26 (AP).—The Brooklyn Dodgers announced last night that Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis had given them permission to remove the name of Catcher Gordon (Babe) Phelps from their active list.

In making the announcement, Secretary John McDonald of the Dodgers said Landis had not yet placed Phelps on baseball's ineligible list, equivalent to indefinite suspension, but had telegraphed Phelps for particulars in his case.

Phelps complained of illness and refused to accompany the Dodgers west on June 12. He was suspended by President Larry MacPhail, but under baseball law a club suspension may last only 10 days and he was reinstated at the end of that period.

Landis held a hearing on the case in Chicago Aug. 1 and at that time Phelps said he intended to apply for voluntary retirement, but never made the application.

The Dodgers obtained him on waivers from the Cubs in December, 1934.

The decision reduced Brooklyn's player roster to 24 and made it possible for them to add Augie Galan, former Chicago outfielder, without giving up any of their present players. However, it was understood they might still let relief hurler Mace Brown go.

scoring Medwick. Crespi threw out Owen. ONE RUN.

FOURTH — CARDINALS — Hopp flied to Galan. Padgett doubled to right. Mize also doubled to right, scoring Padgett. Davis threw out Triplett, Mize holding second. Lavagetto threw out Crespi. ONE RUN.

DODGERS—Shoun pitched for the Cardinals and Davis welcomed him into the game with a home run into the left-field bleachers. Walker popped to Marion. Herman tripled into deep left center. Crespi went back for Lavagetto's pop fly, Herman beating his throw to the plate. Medwick flied to Triplett. TWO RUNS.

FIFTH—CARDINALS — Marion bunted and was thrown out by Davis. Mancuso lined to Camilli. Shoun popped to Reese.

DODGERS—Galan walked. Camilli hit over the rihgt-field wall for his twenty-sixth home run of the season, scoring behind Galan. That was enough for Shoun and he was replaced by Gumbert. Reese beat out a slow roller to J. Brown. Owen sacrificed, Mize to Crespi, who covered first. Davis flied to Hopp, Reese taking third. Walker flied to Padgett. TWO RUNS.

SIXTH—CARDINALS—J. Brown flied to Galan. Davis threw out Hopp. Padgett doubled to center for his third straight hit. Mize hit over the scoreboard for his fourteenth home run of the season, scoring behind Padgett. Triplett fouled to Owen. TWO RUNS.

DODGERS—Herman singled to right. Lavagetto hit into a double play Marion to Crespi to Mize. Medwick walked. Gumbert tossed out Galan.

SEVENTH — CARDINALS — Crespi singled to center. Marion was safe when Reese fumbled his grounder Crespi reaching third. Crabtree batted for Mancuso and struck out. W. Cooper batted for Gumbert and fouled to Owen. Herman threw out J. Brown.

DODGERS — Crouch and W. Cooper formed the new Cardinal battery. Camilli walked. Reese flied to Triplett. Owen struck out. Crouch tossed out Davis.

EIGHTH—CARDINALS —Hopp flied to Galan. Padgett struck out. Mize singled to center for his third straight hit. Triplett flied deep to Galan.

DODGERS — Walker walked. Wasdell ran for Walker. Herman sacrificed, Mize to Crespi, who covered first. Lavagetto doubled off Padgett's glove in left, scoring Wasdell. Medwick singled to right, Lavagetto stopping at third, but Medwick was out trying for second on the relay to the plate, Triplett to W. Cooper to Crespi. Lavagetto was picked off third and retired, W. Cooper to J. Brown. ONE RUN.

NINTH—CARDINALS — Wasdell played right field for the Dodgers. Crespi struck out. Marion also struck out. Young batted for Crouch and was called out on strikes.

Fans Gather at 5 A. M. for Games

BROOKLYN, Aug. 26 (AP).—THE gates at Ebbets Field opened at 10 o'clock this morning. One hour later nearly 20,000 fans were in the park, settling down for a two-and-one-half-hour wait before the Cardinals and Dodgers met in the first of today's two games.

Thousands more were lined up at the gates waiting to get into the stadium, which has a seating capacity of about 31,000. The first arrivals put in their appearance in the wee, small hours and by 5 a. m. 500 fans were clustered about the bleacher gates.

Scatters $30 in Small Change in Front of Stands to Pay Fine

PUEBLO, Colo., Aug. 26 (AP).—Thirty dollars in dimes, nickels and quarters were scattered in the grass in front of the Pueblo baseball grandstand last night by unhappy Dick Tichacek, manager of the Sioux City Redbirds of the Western League.

The coins represented a fine imposed for a series of protests of decisions by Umpire "Tillie" Telford in a Sioux City-Pueblo game last night.

The manager-catcher scattered the money for Umpires Telford and Al Gember to retrieve.

Al Schacht

AL SCHACHT, baseball comedian, will miss his first world series in 21 years this fall. . . . He's going to Hawaii instead. . . . FLOYD GIEBELL, former Tiger, making his second start for Buffalo, allowed eight hits and beat Montreal, 5-1. . . . Until the ninth, when the Royals scored, he had pitched 17 consecutive scoreless innings. . . . LARRY SMITH, Atlanta catcher, has been purchased by the New York Giants for delivery next spring.

HANK SOAR, of the New York Giants, and LARRY CRAIG, of the Green Bay Packers, have been fined $25 each by Commissioner Elmer Layden for engaging in a fist fight during an exhibition game. . . . They'll be ineligible until the fines are paid. . . . A corporation, headed by THOMAS BRADLEY of New York, has purchased the Jersey City professional football franchise of the American Association.

JACK SHEEN of Tyler, Tex., rolled a 298 game in a doubles match, but he and his partner were defeated when their opponents, Bob Bushnell and A. D. Ensley, rolled 222 and 224 respectively. . . . MELIO BETTINA, former light-heavy king, gained a 10-round decision over PAT VALENTINO, San Francisco heavy, in a bout at San Francisco. . . . The PEORIA DIESELETTES retained the girls' Illinois downstate softball title, defeating the Litchfield Air-Steppers, 1-0. . . . Betty McCarthy of the winners allowed only one hit.

GENE WEBB, Springfield, Mo., won the Tri-State golf title for the third time, shooting 70 to Labron Harris' 72 in an 18-hole playoff match. . . . CHET GLADCHUK, 250-pound all-America center, who'll join the football Giants after the All-Star game, lives on Tom Thumb street in Bridgeport, Conn. . . . If MRS. FRANK NAVIN'S Ball Player wins a few more races, fans will probably start stringing along with him. . . . He won in the mud at Narragansett by 21 lengths last week and on a fast track Monday he beat Harp Weaver by six and one-half lengths. . . . He refunded $12.40 for $2.

Tom Draper Shoots 70 Over His Home Course

In qualifying rounds for the turnament to be held by the newly organized Metropolitan Golf Association, Tom Draper, playing over his home course at Crystal Lake, had a 70 for low among early qualifiers. Jim Black, now playing in the national amateur at Omaha, also at Crystal Lake, carded a 73.

Qualifying rounds have thus far been played at Crystal Lake, Lake Park, East St. Louis, Creve Coeur and The Country Club.

District Net Play Again Is Postponed

Because the courts at Triple A were too wet after rains of yesterday and last night, resumption of play in the district tennis tournament again was postponed today. Yesterday, wet courts forced postponement.

Tourney officials hope play may be resumed tomorrow.

CHARLES H. SCHWEPPE, BANKER, KILLS SELF

Wealthy Chicagoan Had Been Ill, Doctor Says—Native of Alton.

LAKE FOREST, Ill., Aug. 26 (AP). — Charles H. Schweppe, wealthy banker, ended his life at his home here today. A Coroner's jury decided he died of a "self-inflicted gunshot wound while in ill health."

Dr. Joseph Capps of Chicago, Schweppe's personal physician for 25 years, testified that Schweppe had been overworked and in ill health for several months. He was 60 years old.

A maid who went to call Schweppe at 7:30 a. m. found the body in bed with a pistol nearby. There was a bullet wound in the head.

Schweppe was born in Alton, Ill. A Harvard graduate of 1902, he had been with Lee, Higginson & Co., Boston bankers, since 1902, opening that firm's Chicago office in 1905. He had been a partner in the concern since 1913.

He married Laura A. Shedd, daughter of the late John G. Shedd, former head of Marshall Field & Co. and donor of Chicago's $3,000,000 Shedd Aquarium, in 1913. She died in 1937, leaving an estate of nearly $5,000,000. Schweppe was chairman of the Illinois State Board of Public Welfare Commissioners.

The Schweppes' daughter, Jean, was married to A. Watson Armour III, one of the heirs to the Armour meat packing fortune. Also surviving is a son, John Shedd Schweppe.

Hibernians Elect E. St. Louisan.

CHICAGO, Aug. 26 (AP).—Patrick Brennan of East St. Louis was chosen treasurer yesterday of the Illinois branch of the Ancient Order of Hibernians.

CROWN CAN CO. STRIKE ENDED BY AGREEMENT

Terms Include Negotiation on Dismissals and Conditional Recognition of Bargaining Agent.

A strike of members of the AFL Lithographers' and Federal Laborers' unions employed by the Crown Can Co., 5622 Natural Bridge avenue, begun last Friday in protest against the dismissal of two men for alleged union activity, ended today.

Elmer P. Theiss, AFL general representative, said company officials signed an agreement to negotiate on the two dismissals and to recognize the unions as collective bargaining agents for about 180 men employed in the plant if the National Labor Relations Board, after checking their membership lists against the firm's payroll, finds a majority of employes in the unions.

INDUSTRIALS LEAD QUIET RECOVERY IN STOCK LIST

NEW YORK, Aug. 26 (AP).—Rails and industrials were out in front at the start of stock trading today, with gains of fractions to a point or so. Activity and quotations were the best in the forenoon. The pace slowed after midday and many leaders closed under the day's tops.

Transfers of 458,930 shares were the largest in about three weeks.

Speculative forces discovered little outstanding inspiration in the war news. The early buying push was attributed mainly to the belief of technicians that the list might be ready for an upward reversal in view of the notable drying up of offerings in the past several sessions. Earnings, both prospective and actual, spurred scattered issues and helped allay doubts anent taxes and spreading governmental restraints.

Stocks in the favored class most of the day—some eventually slipped—included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, N. Y. Central, Southern Pacific, Kennecott, American Smelting, General Motors, Chrysler, Goodyear, Standard Oil (N. J.), Texas Corp., Pepsi-Cola, Warner Bros., Douglas Aircraft, Boeing, Sears Roebuck, Woolworth, Union Carbide, Allied Chemical and Westinghouse.

Jones & Laughlin registered a new year's low as a Federal court at Pittsburgh issued a "show cause" order regarding the company's payment of dividends on its new common and preferred stock.

N. Y. Central, for instance, enjoyed net per share for the period of $2.36 compared with a loss in the like period a year ago of $92,602. Great Northern showed $2.76 against 22 cents.

It was not a one-way street for corporation profits, however. Richfield Oil common, one of the liveliest sprinters Saturday and yesterday, was a shade on the losing side the greater part of the day, although improving mildly at the last, as the company, for six months, reported 46 cents a share versus 52 cents in the 1940 stretch. Much larger tax provisions was a factor here.

CORPORATE REPORTS WITH COMPARISONS

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—In the following table will be found simply the announced net earnings per share of the various corporations after varying deductions stated by the corporation in complete reports. Deductions may extend to Federal income and excess profit tax, provision for anticipated increase in Federal taxes and reserve for extraordinary contingencies. See detached reports for these.

NORTH AMERICAN CO. DIVIDEND IN DETROIT EDISON STOCK

NEW YORK, Aug. 26 (AP).—The North American Co. declared a dividend on its common stock payable in shares of capital stock of the Detroit Edison Co.

The dividend, if approved by the SEC, would be paid Oct. 1 to stockholders of record Sept. 10 at the rate of one share of Detroit Edison for each 50 shares of North American common. Stockholders who under such a plan would be entitled to fractions of shares in Detroit Edison would be paid in cash at the rate of 40 cents for each share of North American common.

The company said the dividend was not a distribution of capital nor a partial liquidating dividend but was charged to earned surplus. Available records show North American's holdings in Detroit Edison to be about 19 per cent of the voting interest.

$30,000,000 ISSUE AWARDED

CHICAGO, Aug. 26 (AP).—A syndicate headed by Glore, Forgan & Co. and Halsey Stuart & Co., highest bidder of four groups, was awarded the $30,000,000 Wisconsin Power and Light Co. first mortgage 3¼ per cent bonds, due Aug. 1, 1971.

Financiers said it was the first clear cut test of the competitive bidding rule of the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The syndicate, which made the high bid of 105.5897 for the bonds, said the public offering of the bonds would be made Wednesday at 106⅞.

The Wisconsin Power and Light Co., a unit of the Middle West Corporation, will apply net proceeds of the issue together with $3,000,000 realized from the sale of serial notes to redemption of $33,000,000 of outstanding first mortgage 4 per cent bonds, due 1966, at 104.

NEW YORK, Aug 26 (AP).—The American Home Products Corporation has offered to purchase the International Vitamin Corporation through an exchange of stocks, it was announced today.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 26 (AP).—Under a moderately broadened demand the general run of corpoarte bonds edged into higher ground in period up to near final hour.

The swing toward recovery was quickened by a modest revival of trading interest in rail loans in the wake of publication of additional favorable revenue reports for July covering a number of leading systems.

Scattered specialties posted wide advances in the final hour as the general market continued to work a shade higher. Lehigh Valley Coal 5s of '54 bounded up 7¼ points to 66 on sale of a single bond, Silesian-American 7s added 4¼ at 39¼ and Childs Co. 5s gained 1¼ at 39¼.

LONDON STOCK MARKET

LONDON, Aug. 26 (AP).—Steadiness marked today's stock market dealings. Home rail issues stood out with a gain of one point. Most industrials were unchanged. Gilt-edged bonds were mainly steady. Japanese bonds maintained earlier advances.

$2 A BALE ADVANCE IN PRICE OF COTTON

NEW YORK, Aug. 26 (AP). — Cotton futures found added stimulus in report of insect damage to crops, bounding up to a maximum level of $1.70 a bale over the previous close. Southern selling and profit taking brought a minor reaction but buyers, undeterred yesterday when the President vetoed the Smith freezing bill, continued optimistic.

Cotton futures closed at the best levels of the day as traders found contracts scarce and outside interests entered the market. Futures closed 36 to 42 higher:

Furniture Industry Gains.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Aug. 26 (AP).—The furniture industry continued its upward trend during July, registering an increase in new orders of 53 per cent over July, 1940, the monthly report of Seidman and Seidman, accountants, showed.

Shipments during the month rose 10 per cent to a point 70 per cent over July, 1940.

The report commented that the 10 per cent rise in shipments contrasted with a much larger jump in orders, "an indication of the difficulties the industry is beginning to experience in securing men and materials."

WHEAT PRICE HIGHER WITH CORN MIXED

CHICAGO, Aug. 26 (AP).—Grain futures prices closed strong today after fluctuating aimlessly most of the session as traders awaited further developments in Washington. Wheat opened firm with cotton and at times extended the advance to around a cent a bushel. Later when Eastern demand dried up and some hedge selling appeared, the market backed down, but a rally at the close lifted prices to almost the best levels of the day.

Soybeans also fluctuated widely, at times showing independent weakness and later reversing the trend to close at or near the day's best levels. Corn and lard were steady most of the time, although early 10 cents gains in lard were shaded toward the close.

The trend of the market following the persidential vetal of the bill to freeze Government holdings of wheat and cotton until after the war indicated that the trade generally had expected such action.

Traders today said that indications were that there was no immediate prospect of the Commodity Credit Corporation releasing its holdings at lower levels.

Some traders said that many wheat producers appeared reluctant to sell while the new crop loan rates were above current spot market prices.

Local Cash Grain.

MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Aug. 26.—In the cash grain section of the market today wheat, corn and oats were steady. Sales made on the floor of the exchange were as follows:

Wheat—No. 2 red winter wheat, 111½@112 nom.; No. 3 red garlicky wheat, 107.

Corn—No. 1 yellow corn, 75½.

Oats—No. 1 mixed oats, 42¼; No. 2 mixed oats, 42⅛; No. 3 mixed oats, 42; red oats, 42¼.

COMMODITIES

By the Associated Press.

Cotton futures led most commodity markets upward, closing in New York with gains of $1.80 to $2.10 a bale.

The demand for cotton stemmed from trade sources convinced boll weevil damage was increasing and received further impetus from belief the Government was not planning to dump its cotton stocks on the market.

A minimum of selling pressure helped wheat gain ⅝ to ⅞ of a cent a bushel in Chicago but corn was mixed. Livestock prices held about steady with cattle a shade higher and some kinds of hogs cheaper.

Cottonseed oil reflected cotton's advance with gains of .05 to .17 of a cent a pound. Wool tops continued upward with increases of .4 to .7 of a cent a pound.

Sugar futures values were irregular, world contracts losing ground and domestic easing slightly.

Coffee prices continued to fluctuate irregularly but cocoa gained .22 to .23 of a cent a pound.

The Associated Press index of 35 cash commodities, boosted chiefly by a jump in spot cotton prices, hit a new four year high at 91.84 per cent of the 1926 average, compared with 91.49 per cent the day before.

TEXTILE MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 26 (AP).—Wall street demand for gray goods continued strong despite the scarcity of supplies for quick shipment. Belief was expressed the APACS and trade advisory panel meeting scheduled for the second week in October might extend ceiling prices to all constructions and influence trade to offer additional supplies.

Rayon goods dealers still declined business at the recently fixed prices awaiting reaction from the mills.

Trading was quiet, too, in the women's wear woolen piece goods. The outlook for that section remained cheerful with business at a materially better level than a year ago.

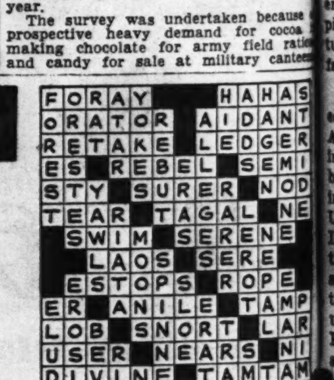

Cocoa Bean Stocks.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 (AP).—The Commerce Department announces results of a special survey showing that stocks of cocoa beans in the United States on May 1 totaled 4,278,759 bags, compared with 3,274,739 on the similar date last year.

The survey was undertaken because of prospective heavy demand for cocoa in making chocolate for army field rations and candy for sale at military canteens.

1370 DRESS PLANTS CLOSED IN WAGE RO[W]

New York Manufacturers and Jobbers Disagree on Distributing Cost.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26 (AP).—This city's largest industry—dress making—was virtually paralyzed today when two large contractor associations shut down 1370 dress plants in a dispute with jobbers over wage increases.

The move affected 58,000 workers and is estimated to have tied up work in 75 per cent of the industry in the metropolitan area and parts of Connecticut and New Jersey.

Two contractor groups, the United Popular Dress Manufacturers Association and the United Better Dress Manufacturers' Association, voted the stoppage last night after failing to agree with jobbers over the method of distributing the cost of a 10 per cent wage increase.

The contractors said the jobbers offer to pay them 10 per cent additional above present floor costs was insufficient to meet the wage increase.

Recently the jobbers' associations, bargaining with the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union (AFL), agreed to the increase to meet rising living costs.

The jobbers are the Affiliated Dress Manufacturers, the Popular Priced Dress Manufacturers and the National Dress Manufacturers' Association. These three groups employ about 27,000 inside workers in their own plants, but sublet most of their work to the contracting shops.

Oil Concern Increases Wages.

BARTLESVILLE, Ok., Aug. 2[6] (AP).—Phillips Petroleum Co. announced yesterday a wage increase for all employes averaging approximately 5 per cent and amounting to more than $1,000,000 a year, to be effective Sept. 1. A similar increase was made April 1.

Sturdy Russian resistance on the Dnieper has so slowed down the German offensive that some American military people think Hitler already has lost his chance of reaching the precious oil fields this year. Now it seems fairly certain that if he does get there some time in the autumn, he will find the Russians and British awaiting him, solidly entrenched, with a reasonably secure, though overlong, line of communications to salt water behind them.

Washington circles do not know just how many Germans are in Iran, but they suspect the several hundreds or thousands who are there of possessing far too much influence and, in many cases, of not being the harmless civilians they seem. The British and Russians intend this time to take no chances.

Turkey's Dilemma.

Turkey is in a bad way: the Germans have kept some divisions in the Balkans and have recently sent more there; some Washington sources compute the actual number as close to 30 divisions. It is felt that tomorrow, or maybe even today, the Germans will demand from the Turks the right of passage for these troops. By using the Turkish railroads they might still reach the Caspian almost before the British can.

Interpreting the Wa[r]

NEW FRONT AGAINST HITLE[R]

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Of the Associated Press.

THE British-Russian allies will have achieved a master stroke of strategy when they complete their occupation of Iran (Persia).

Iran is the key position for the entire Middle Eastern situation, a pivot on which vast power can be turned in any direction with equal facility.

This allied operation in effect establishes a new front against Adolf Hitler, and it will be surprising if it doesn't swing into action before long. One of his chief aims in his drive through the Russian Ukraine has been to seize Iran, and the Nazis have boasted that they would be on the Caucasian frontier by winter. Now if they do reach that objective they undoubtedly will find a powerful British-Russian army thrown across the route.

The Nazi chief's purpose in heading for Iran has been two-fold. He has coveted it not only because of its strategic position, which would permit him to strike eastward at India and westward at Egypt and the Suez Canal, but because he sorely needs the oil from the Iranian fields. He also wanted access to the Persian Gulf and the open seas.

BRITAIN'S 'NEWEST' BATTLESHIP READY EXCEPT FOR ARMING

LONDON, Aug. 26 (AP).—Great Britain's newest battleship, the 35,000-ton Duke of York, was reported ready today to take its place alongside its sister ships, the King George V and the Prince of Wales.

Shipyard men were said to be working in day and night shifts to complete arming the vessel. Its sister ships carry 10 14-inch guns, 16 5.25-inch guns, four multiple pompoms and several smaller guns. Each carries four aircraft and one catapult.

NEED FOR YEAR-ROUND DOOR TO RUSSIA FOR U. S.-BRITISH AID BEHIND DRIVE INTO IRAN

Another Aim Is Joint Defense of Caucasus Oil Fields, and Some American Military Experts Think Hitler Now Has Lost His Chance of Reaching Them This Year.

By EDGAR ANSEL MOWRER

The Chicago Daily News—Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch, Copyright, 1941.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.

THE British-Russian nutcracker drive into Iran has four aims:

1. A desire to join hands for the defense of the Caucasus oil fields.

2. A desire to forestall a German occupation of Iran or an insurrection in Germany's favor along the lines of the Iraq uprising.

3. A wish to strengthen Turkey's determination to keep its frontiers inviolate against German invasion.

4. The absolute need of opening a year-round door to Soviet Russia through which that country can receive British and American military supplies and assistance.

Washington officials feel that had Britain and Russia hesitated in this matter, they would have been criminally negligent. Neither Great Britain nor Russia is believed to have the slighest design on Iranian independence.

Sturdy Russian resistance on the Dnieper has so slowed down the German offensive that some American military people think Hitler already has lost his chance of reaching the precious oil fields this year. Now it seems fairly certain that if he does get there some time in the autumn, he will find the Russians and British awaiting him, solidly entrenched, with a reasonably secure, though overlong, line of communications by salt water behind them.

Washington circles do not know just how many Germans are in Iran, but they suspect the several hundreds or thousands who are there of possessing far too much influence and, in many cases, of not being the harmless civilians they seem. The British and Russians intend this time to take no chances.

Turkey's Dilemma.

Turkey is in a bad way: the Germans have kept some divisions in the Balkans and have recently sent more there; some Washington sources compute the actual number as close to 30 divisions. It is felt that tomorrow, or maybe even today, the Germans will demand from the Turks the right of passage for these troops. By using the Turkish railroads they might still reach the Caspian almost before the British can.

Turkey's politicians are thought to be impressed by German might and hopeful of avoiding trouble. They are calling the occupation of Iran "an aggression." Turkish Generals say, without mincing words, that they prefer to fight against any invaders. If Turkey fights, it can hope to receive British assistance through Syria, and it has vastly better chances for this now than a few months go. But will Turkey fight?

Russia's Need for Outlet.

Finally, the Russians themselves so hanker for an outlet to the world—one that, unlike Murmansk, cannot be seized by the enemy or cut off and, unlike Vladivistok, is not subject to Japanese whim—that they have taken the lead in the occupation of Iran.

People here think that the planned Moscow conference would have been futile, and would hardly have been held, without the Iranian occupation. For what is the use of talking supplies for Russia unless some road into Russia is permanently open?

The date of the coming conference has been postponed. American authorities now say it should start "some time before the end of September." This implies a speedy occupation of Iran without much resistance and with no effective German interference.

W. Averell Harriman is still President Roosevelt's choice to head the American delegation, but those most familiar with things Russian are urging a nominal leader of higher official rank—someone like the Vice-President or the Secretary of the Navy.

Incidentally, the degree of Iranian determination is still unfathomed here. Some people are insisting that a real British involvement entailing a real military campaign in Iran would be the signal for the long-expected Japanese invasion of Thailand. On the other hand, a relatively bloodless and swift occupation of what was once Persia would certainly have a sedative effect on Japanese hotheads.

Anglo-Soviet Moves in Iran

—Associated Press Wirephoto.

Small arrows show the German penetration of the Soviet Ukraine. The larger arrows indicate the direction of Russian and British moves into Iran. The Russians said their Cossacks had reached a point half way between the border and Tabriz, second largest city of Iran. Russian forces also were heading for Ardebil on the west shore of the Caspian. The Russians also had a force on the east shore. The rail terminus of Bandar Shah would be a logicial objective. The British disclosed that they had occupied oil installations just inside Iran, about 80 miles northeast of Bagdad and that the air force and the navy had seized the Persian gulf port of Bandar Shapur and nearby Abadan, capturing Axis ships. Conquest of Iran would provide an all-season supply route to Russia from the sea.

Gen. Johnson—

Court-Martial Case Badly Handled, but Army Must Enforce Obedience.

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.

THIS column is unpleasant to write and almost sure to be misunderstood. Nevertheless, since the War Department has announced that it is amazed at a 10-year sentence assessed by a court-martial at Fort Bragg on Draftee Private Habinyak, for direct disobedience of the orders of an officer, I think it is a duty to write it. (Since this was written the department has reduced the term to three years).

Aside from treason, the two most serious of military offenses in our own and all other armies are "sentinel sleeping on post" and "direct disobedience of the orders of a commissioned officer." In shooting war, especially in presence of the enemy, the possible penalty for either is death.

Aside from all sentimental considerations, you can't build an army on any primary provisions less harsh. No reported War Department "amazement" can be very convincing in view of the fact that its educational literature and regulatory mandates stress this point. The truth is that this embarrassment comes at a time when the department is justifiably under fire for low morale and discipline and busily engaged in blaming everybody but itself.

On Handling of Case.

This is not at all to say that I approve the handling of the Habinyak case. In the first place, inexperienced officers are the harshest with enlisted men. In the second, inexperienced courts-martial are the most apt to assess extreme and inconsiderate penalties. No one has yet asserted that this punishment exceeded the maximum laid down in the book for this offense, except to say that its execution at a civilian penitentiary, rather than a military prison was illegal—and even that is doubtful.

The fault here was in some whipper-snapper down the line, who didn't sit down with this poor, uninformed and reckless kid in his own quarters, make it clear to him what he was up against, explain to him why it had to be and avoid this incident altogether. That is exactly what happened to Sergt. York in similar circumstances—and see what he turned out to be.

I referred in this column the other day to one of my own most poignant memories from my shavetail days. One of the finest kids I ever commanded got the idea, from

Russians Say Iran Drive 'at Last Takes Initiative From Hitler'

Moscow Confident British-Soviet Campaign Will Be Quickly Ended—Viewed as Moral Reminder to Turkey.

By A. T. STEELE

The Chicago Daily News—Post-Dispatch Special Cable. Copyright, 1941.

MOSCOW, Aug. 26.

THE Russians are confident that the British-Soviet campaign in Iran will be quickly consummated.

There is an evident desire by both the British and Russian camps to avoid the inconvenience and embarrassment of a long-drawn-out conflict such as the British went through in Iraq and Syria.

Up to this writing, the Soviet Government has not severed diplomatic relations with Iran. I had no trouble today visiting and interviewing Iranian Ambassador Mohamed Saed—the stubby, genial and popular diplomat who ironically enjoys the prestige of being the dean of Moscow's diplomatic corps. Saed was summoned to the Kremlin yesterday morning to hear from Foreign Commissar Viacheslav M. Molotov in explanation of the British-Russian move.

The Russian people got the first intimation of their Government's action in a radio broadcast at 10 o'clock. The announcement came with surprising suddenness, but unquestionably it was well received by the Soviet public as an unavoidable move which gave another and thoroughly convincing demonstration of British-Soviet solidarity in this anti-Fascist war.

One comment I heard was typical: "At last we are taking the initiative away from Hitler and his gang."

Moscow's eight-page communique points out that the object of the joint action is to suppress German-inspired diversionist activities in Iran, aimed at threatening the stability of the Caucasus and the Turkoman republic, Soviet areas adjacent to the Iranian frontier.

The extent of German intrigue in Iran can only be conjectured but that it existed no independent observer doubts. Especially disturbing to the British and Russians were reports—apparently reliable—that the Nazis were expending large sums to buy off certain key men in the communications section of the Iranian Government. This touched close to a matter of vital concern to the Soviet, British and American governments.

As Iran is one of three practical routes of entry into Russia, obviously it was vitally important to all three governments that this supply line be kept wide open and adequately protected and developed to its maximum capacity.

The main supply artery through Iran is a railway running from the tip of the Persian Gulf to the Caspian Sea, whence goods can be transported by ship or road over the Soviet frontier. If this line becomes insecure as the result of a German push, there is a rail and highway connection further west, beginning at Karachi, India, and paralleling Iran's eastern border, finally linking with the Turkish-Siberian railway.

The disadvantage of this route is that 600 miles would have to be traversed by road.

It is equally plain that neither Russia nor Great Britain intends to tolerate a wedge of German influence pointed at the Baku oil fields and other adjacent potential trouble centers like India and Afghanistan, the latter an essentially Moslem country.

Diplomatic observers anticipate that the move also will have a beneficent moral influence on Turkey as an object lesson of British-Soviet determination to brook no nonsense.

Soviet Morale So High News Is Not Hidden

Reverses Admitted — No Stampeding From Fighting Areas.

By RALPH INGERSOLL

MOSCOW, Aug. 26.

THERE is no doubt that this country is putting up a magnificent fight and morale is not simply good—it is spectacular, cocky, confident, but neither underestimating nor over-estimating enemy strength. These things are significant: Complete absence of stampede from the fighting areas, inability of the Germans to raid here by day (no raids at all in the last six nights), and continued public admission of unfavorable news such as the nearness of the Germans to Leningrad and the loss of Gomel. I believe ultimate victory is inevitable.

After filing this cable, Ingersoll broadcast from Moscow over the Columbia Broadcasting Sytem. His broadcast follows:

This is Moscow. There is no news from the front except that which you read in New York in official Soviet communiques and that which one picks up in cafes and on street corners, which is hardly reliable.

Where the fighting is going on the same pattern appears to be continuing. The German mechanized, land and air co-ordinated offensives are organized and launched . . . making long strides, encircling movements, cutting off whole divisions. These divisions are then expected to surrender. But against the Red army their strides have been slower and the encirceld divisions do not surrender, but continue to resists, which is hard gravel in the beard of the Nazi military machine.

Quietest Week of War.

This past week has been the quietest of the war here. Six nights in a row without even an air raid warning. Earlier last week there were some fine nights of fireworks, but the German contributions were almost exclusively

New Army Morale Chief's Problem Is to Overcome 'What's the Use?' Attitude of Men Armed With Sticks

Six-Foot 8-Inch Frederick H. Osborn Has Reputation as Humanitarian, but No Military Training—Once Sold Ford Junk Railroad for $500,000.

By FRANK I. WELLER

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.

FREDERICK HENRY OSBORN, the man selected by President Roosevelt to build up army morale, uses the Abraham Lincoln device of telling a story to answer a question.

You ask: "Well, General, now that you've got the job, what are you going to do about it?"

(Story: Army rooky and venerable old man.)

Rooky — "Hey, Bud, gotta match?"

V. O. M.—"Nope, Sorry. So long."

Rooky's Pal—"Godelmity, dope, that's Gen. Pershing!"

Rookie — "General, sir, forgive me. I didn't recognize you in civvies, sir."

Gen. Pershing—"Sure. Don't mind me, son. But, for heaven's sake don't ever pull that on a second lieutenant!")

Osborn, a private citizen whose appointment as bridadier general went to the Senate on Aug. 19, lets the story point its own moral. He won't tell what it is. Those who know him best, however, say he likes directness and simplicity in human relations.

This may mean, they say, something new in American military behavior. Certainly nothing so absurd as once tried by Russia when Soviet soldiers voted whether to obey an officer's orders, or as absurd as execution of German soldiers suspected of Nazi party disloyalty.

Two Extremes.

Nevertheless, many in this country would like to see Osborn readjust discipline which at one end punishes soldiers for "Yoo-hooing" at girls playing golf near an uniformed officer and at the other permits uniformed officers to thumb rides on the highway and drink in taprooms with soldiers.

Some say there should be more fraternity between officers and men, considering all are in a "peace army," while others want to bring back the tough old "noncoms" to boss the boys into place. Gen. Hugh Johnson said the top sergeant is a safety valve and that so long as the rank and file had him to cuss army morale was safe.

Commentators say it is up to Osborn, a 52-year-old New York scientist and banker, to decide whether the army, with no enemy in sight, shall be a club or a hard-boiled fighting machine or something between.

Never before have there been so many young Americans in uniform with no war to fight and with comparatively fewer weapons to fight one with. They are training for theoretical national defense, not for imminent combat. When every man expected battle, no hardship was too much. Morale was high. A definite duty called.

The current problem, as some see it, is to overcome a "what's the use" attitude. This is noticed among troops who have trained for a year's time with sticks for guns, and who now may be retained for another 18 months doing the same thing.

Osborn Silent.

Osborn, who never had military training, hesitates to say whether army morale today is good, bad or indifferent. He told reporters the army morale branch needed 100 more men. He had been with it, in Washington, since enactment of the selective Service law and praised plans for recreational and athletic programs which he said he would carry out promptly.

He said he found a "splendid spirit of co-operation" in the army during his visit to 12 army posts, first as chairman of the Selective Service Advisory Committee and then as chairman of the joint Army and Navy Committee on Welfare and Recreation.

Authorities say Osborn probably has more than baseball and group singing on the fire. That business was up and coming long before the country began to complain about selectees being dissatisfied

Interpreting the War News

NEW FRONT AGAINST HITLER IN IRAN

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Of the Associated Press.

THE British-Russian allies will have achieved a master stroke of strategy when they complete their occupation of Iran (Persia). Iran is the key position for the entire Middle Eastern situation, a pivot on which vast power can be turned in any direction with equal facility.

This allied operation in effect establishes a new front against Adolf Hitler, and it will be surprising if it doesn't swing into action before long. One of his chief aims in his drive through the Russian Ukraine has been to seize Iran, and the Nazis have boasted that they would be on the Caucasian frontier by winter. Now if they do reach that objective they undoubtedly will find a powerful British-Russian army thrown across the route.

The Nazi chief's purpose in heading for Iran has been two-fold. He has coveted it not only because of its strategic position, which would permit him to strike eastward at India and westward at Egypt and the Suez Canal, but because he sorely needs the oil from the Iranian fields. He also wanted access to the Persian Gulf and the open seas.

Now the British-Russian stroke has in effect moved the British blockade right up against the Soviet border.

The Allied occupation of Iran vastly increases the difficulties of neutral Turkey. Indeed, it will be extremely lucky if it isn't forced into the war before long, quite possibly by direct Nazi attack.

The indications have been that the only things which prevented Hitler from taking a short cut long ago into the Near and Middle East through Turkey were the forest of 2,000,000 bayonets along the frontier, and the decided danger that Russia, then at peace with Germany, might intervene on the side of the Turks. However, the picture has changed decidedly, with the Nazis fighting Russia and making progress through the very territory from which Soviet aid would have to come to the Turks.

If and when Hitler succeeds in overrunning the Ukraine, or in any event when winter has laid a restraining hand on military operations in Russia, it's not unlikely that he will strike at Turkey. That is, he may attack unless the Turks finally agree to his demands for passage of his troops and equipment across the country.

In the light of the new Allied move, it will be clear that Britain's Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell was not demoted—as many believed—when he was transferred to India not long ago from his command in Egypt.

BRITAIN'S 'NEWEST' BATTLESHIP READY EXCEPT FOR ARMING

LONDON, Aug. 26 (AP).—Great Britain's newest battleship, the 35,000-ton Duke of York, was reported ready today to take its place alongside its sister ships, the King George V and the Prince of Wales.

Shipyard men were said to be working in day and night shifts to complete arming the vessel. Its sister ships carry 10 14-inch guns, 16 5.25-inch guns, four multiple pompoms and several smaller guns. Each carries four aircraft and one catapult.

Five warships in the King George V class were laid down in 1937. The Anson and the Howe are still under construction.

Prime Minister Churchill, who conferred with President Roosevelt aboard the Prince of Wales, said in a broadcast Sunday that his voyage to the meeting was made in "almost the newest" British battleship. The King George V carried Lord Halifax, Ambassador to the United States, into Baltimore on its maiden voyage last winter.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles: that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Suggested Material Three Men in a Boat Might Use to Formulate a Point.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THOSE three poor fellows adrift in a boat (this refers to a Post-Dispatch cartoon showing Hitler, Mussolini and a Japanese adrift in a boat, the caption reading "What Points Can We Make?" —Editor's note) arouse my sympathy. I could help them make a point.

I'd have them tell Churchill that if he believed in Point Four of the Roosevelt-Churchill declaration, there probably would be no war, and he still has time to prevent war with Japan by acting in accordance with it. Point Four is the Appeasement Point, ". . . access, on equal terms, to the trade and to the raw materials of the world which are needed for their economic prosperity."

Didn't the London Economic Conference break down because No. 4 demanded too much of Britain and the United States? Quoting Sumner Welles, " . . . impossible, tragically enough, for the Governments that met in London in 1933 to agree upon international measures that would serve satisfactorily the pressing needs of all, but the United States during the succeeding years assumed the leadership in trying to make effective the purpose which the 1933 conference had been summoned to achieve."

I received a list of books on Japan from George Atcheson Jr., assistant chief, Division of Far Eastern Affairs. One of them is "Population Theories and Their Application, with Special Reference to Japan" (1934) by E. F. Penrose of the Food Research Institute, Social Science Research Council, at the instance of the Institute of Pacific Relations—sponsored by Stanford University and the Carnegie Corporation of New York.

Page 334: "As I write these closing lines news comes that the British Government has decided to adopt a Closed Door policy in its crown colonies and to limit imports from Japan. This is a dangerous exercise of the power divorced from responsibility which the present political structure of the world permits individual governments to assume in matters which affect the citizens of other governments.

"Japanese immigrants are already excluded from lands occupied by English-speaking peoples, and discriminatory duties hamper Japanese export trade with large territories within the British Empire. If Japanese economic relations with some of the richest lands on earth are still further curtailed, the next 30 years will be a critical period in Japanese history.

"As long as the English-speaking peoples claim and exercise the right to exclude at will, from territories under their control, not only Japanese people but also Japanese goods, it will become increasingly difficult to Japan to cope with its economic difficulties."

Another title furnished by Mr. Atcheson: "The Japanese Population Problem—The Coming Crisis" (1931) by W. R. Crocker, Balliol College, Oxford; printed in London as well as in New York.

Page 217: "Japan, Italy, Germany, all have claims on International Society. In the future their claims will become more pressing. If there be no legal means in existence for satisfying their claims, necessity may force these Powers to attempt illegal means. It is a prospect to avoid which will be worth every effort; utility rather than justice demands it."

It is interesting to note that while Hitler was painting houses in 1931, the three men in Mr. Fitzpatrick's boat were so clearly foreseen.

Crocker, on page 202: "It is difficult for the student to resist the conclusion that the Powers—if only in their own interest, for in any case they cannot ignore the international repercussions of Japan's domestic situation—should combine at the fitting time to place Borneo and/or New Guinea and some Pacific Islands (in whole or in part) at her disposal. The British Empire and The Netherlands, for example, might transfer Borneo (or some part of Borneo) to the League of Nations, which in turn might confer it on Japan as a Mandate. In a similar way the Marquesas, in the Southern Pacific might be handed over to her . . ."

"The Pacific—a Forecast" (1928) by Lieut. Col. P. T. Etherton (late H. M. Consul General in Chinese Turkestan and additional Assistant Judge of H. M. Supreme Court for China) in collaboration with H. Hessel Tiltman. Printed in London:

"It has been suggested that if Japan needs additional territory and increased material resources, the League of Nations should investigate the problem before war comes and prescribe a fair and impartial remedy. The record of League successes since its inception does not entitle us to hold an optimistic view on the suggestion."

"Danger Spots in World Population" (1929) by W. S. Thompson: "The pressure of population is becoming greater each year. In a few years it may become so great that it will be necessary to suggest to the mass of the people that it would be as well to die fighting as to sit at home and starve."

From the above material the three men in the boat ought to be able to make a point.

HANNAH M. REITER.

THE PERSIAN INVASION.

Russian and British forces have crossed the borders of Persia. According to the cables, they have met with some resistance. This must be slight. Teheran is not Persepolis and the Reza Shah Pahlevi is not Darius. If there is a real battle, it will be put up by those German "tourists" in the country.

They are the very best excuse for the Allied action, and proof that it came none too soon. Russia made repeated protests against increasing Nazi activities. Since these went unheeded, Moscow was forced, as Molotov explained, to act. This does not even involve a technical violation of Persian neutrality since a treaty, signed in 1921, grants Russia the right to send troops into the country "in the interests of self-defense."

One look at the map makes clear the strategic importance of this Middle Eastern kingdom. German military operations based on it could be a "stab in the back" for the hard-pressed Russian forces. Further, the Nazi troops in the country would cut off Russian access to the Indian Ocean—one of the most favorable routes by which British material aid might be brought to the Soviets.

Persia is equally important to the English. From it, the Germans might launch a move against India through the British-hating tribal state of Afghanistan or by a coastal route through Baluchistan. And, beyond these considerations, there are always the Persian oil fields.

Talk about international punctilio, about respect for neutrality in connection with a country in which, until a few years ago, foreigners enjoyed the widest extra-territorial privileges and which, even now, vaunts only the symbols of sovereignty, without any means to command a realistic respect for them—a country, moreover, which has given hospitality to scheming Nazi agents—seems singularly academic.

It has not been for the world's good that the humane rules of eighteenth century international law have fallen out of use, but even the most starry-eyed cannot demand a unilateral respect for them.

Hitler is waging a total war, which leaves no place for such niceties. Britain and Russia, perforce, are fighting fire with fire. Through victory they can restore a rule of law among the nations, but if they are over-punctilious for it now, they only shackle themselves and better the Nazi chances for utterly destroying the ideal. Secretary Hull has taken the stand that Allied aggression is less evil than Nazi aggression.

A British invasion of the Low Countries was not in conformity with the Whitehall mind. But suppose that all-important move in the West had not been left for Hitler, might not France have been saved? The fighting of French against French in Syria indicates a resolution in Downing street that the advantages of position and initiative are not going to be freely handed to the Nazis again.

Russia's seizure of half of Poland, of the Baltic States and a part of Finland indicated that it did not intend to be caught at a disadvantage.

Now the policy of both nations coalesces in Persia. There's justification enough for it in the fact that it is necessary for the defeat of Hitler.

WHAT COMES OUT OF THE RADIO.

For a thousand years and more, men have made a labor of love out of the polishing of the English language. They have made it strong and emphatic, clear and useful and, above all, beautiful. There is no other language like it.

French is subtle, witty. Italian is soft, sensuous, limpid. German is exact, coarse as homespun, vigorous and virile. Gaelic, especially when a Bantry Bay man is talking, is as musical as a fugue played on an old organ. There's just enough of a burr in it to give it some starch. It is fine Irish linen as compared with Italian silk. But English is all of these and more. There is just no matching its flexibility, its elegance, its rhythm.

But we are full of foreboding about its future. We fear that the radio chain news commentators may—simply because everybody hears them every day—have a tremendous effect on our speech. And it is the spoken word, rather than its written symbol, which is all-important.

This radio influence seems to be altogether bad. It is hard to call to mind one of the clairvoyants who speaks naturally. All of them have adopted "styles." The best of these—and they are few in number—are the imitations of the President. But they are artificial and fall far short of their goal.

The great majority of the radio voices yap at us. If those people on Mars pick up our broadcasts, they probably have formed the impression that we speak, not with mouths, but with machine guns. Everything is staccato—snap, snap, snap.

There is not the least respect for continuity and natural inflection. All pauses are harsh and arbitrary, as though there were no periods, commas, colons, semicolons or question marks. The only punctuation mark these men know is the exclamation point—and they scatter it through their speech as you would sprinkle salt into a vapid soup.

Their speech, with all its false resonances, is a pain almost beyond enduring. Cannot somebody—for our nerves' sake, at least—convince them that the English language is not a sound effect?

HOW TRUCK LAWS SABOTAGE DEFENSE.

The 48 states' haphazard system of truck regulation not only hampers interstate trade in normal times, but it is proving to be an increasingly serious obstruction to the national defense program. Many instances have been cited of how excessively low load limits and other restrictions have held up shipments needed for military purposes.

The bottleneck in this region is Kentucky, and a list of defense sabotage committed in the name of its truck laws was presented recently in an address by A. H. Martin Jr., National Director of the Marketing Laws Survey. We cite a few examples:

Four trucks carrying electric welders from Detroit to a powder plant project at Millington, Tenn., were held 22 hours at Ghent, Ky. Meanwhile, work on the plant had to stop.

Trucks hauling supplies to Fort Knox and nearby CCC camps have been stopped and their drivers arrested. They are held until fines are paid. Drivers unable to post $100 bond are locked up.

Two trucks with defense materials from Ohio were stopped at the Kentucky border and held for two days.

Truck operators told the ICC that the Kentucky law reduces their loads and increases cost per ton mile from 45 to 50 per cent; it increases traffic hazards, since two or three trucks are needed to haul a load normal for one truck elsewhere; it causes delays in reloading trucks at the border.

What Mr. Martin described as a "classic case," which occurred shortly before the defense program began, is that of the transformer bound from Chicago to Old Hickory, Tenn., to replace one that had broken down, leaving the city without light and the du Pont powder plant without power. The order came at a time when truck shipment was the only method available. The driver carried a letter that read:

This truck is on an errand of mercy. A city of 10,000 people is dependent on the light, water and fire protection which the transformer carried hereon will provide. If this vehicle should happen not to be within State regulations, please consider its mission and let it go through.

The letter was ignored. Zealous officers held up the truck for 15 hours, and let it go only after a fine of $100 had been paid!

Kentucky's Legislature does not meet until next year, and an effort is being made to modify this barrier by means of special orders for defense shipments. A great deal of red tape is involved, however, and the plan is only partly effective.

A GOOD ROOSEVELT APPOINTMENT.

President Roosevelt's choice of Francis Biddle to be Attorney General is first rate. More than that, it is a decided relief to have this important post go to a man whose very nomination is reassuring, since some of the names prominently mentioned were highly disturbing.

In succeeding Robert H. Jackson, now Supreme Court Justice, Mr. Biddle takes a varied and qualifying experience to his ranking Cabinet seat. As a young Harvard Law School graduate he was law clerk to Justice Holmes, which should have given any lawyer a running start in social usefulness in his profession. He practiced in Philadelphia for 20 years. He was chairman of the first National Labor Relations Board. He was counsel for the congressional committee which investigated the TVA. He was a Judge of the Federal Circuit of Appeals for the Third Circuit—Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware. For a year and a half he has been an able Solicitor General.

But Mr. Biddle takes something equally as important as experience and ability to the chief legal office of the country. He takes a deeply ingrained belief in the spirit as well as the letter of the Constitution of the United States.

What is Mr. Biddle's conception of the work of the great Federal department which he is to head? Here is what he wrote about it in an article on aliens for the Survey Graphic, last summer:

The Department of Justice is dedicated to its name—to the task of justice. It is here to see that the rights of free speech, free worship, free assembly are not violated. It is here to apprehend those who would undermine our national life and security and destroy those rights. It is a safeguard of democracy.

In the long line of Attorneys General from Edmund Randolph—an ancestor, it is interesting to note, of the new nominee, whom Washington appointed in 1789—no one has better summed up the work and responsibility of the Department. Those hours with Oliver Wendell Holmes, great champion of human rights, was not lost on Francis Biddle.

"STILL EXCESSIVE."

Conscript John Habinyak of Pennsylvania, who spit on the mess hall floor at Fort Bragg, N. C., and otherwise showed his displeasure at army life, will now serve only three years in prison instead of 10, as fixed last week after court-martial for insubordination. The War Department announces this reduction by Acting Secretary of War Patterson, in the sentence, after widespread criticism.

Democratic Congressman-at-large Stephen M. Young of Ohio, who protested the severity of the original punishment to Secretary Stimson, says the reduced sentence is "still excessive." It is. How can the War Department possibly stand on a three-year sentence for Conscript Habinyak's offense when sentences of from 12 to 24 months were considered sufficient punishment for the two Ensigns who swooped their plane at a group of Alabama field workers and cut the head from a mother of four children?

"THE GOVERNMENT PAYS DOUBLE."

One of our staff correspondents told a story yesterday which must have opened some eyes until they were as big and as round as billiard balls.

It was about the huge ammunition plant that is going up at Bircher street and Goodfellow avenue—if there's any sense left in identifying so vast a place by mentioning a single street corner.

When the first contracts were signed last December, we heard that the plant was going to cost less than $30,000,000. Now, because of various additions and expansions, it is estimated that it will cost close to $100,000,000. And those who make this estimate keep their fingers crossed.

They have many reasons, in addition to change of plans, for the increase. They cite, chiefly, high labor and material costs. But we are reminded of an old mule auctioneer who used to insist that "the Government always pays double." When it was decided to increase the plant capacity by 100 per cent, costs went up 200 per cent.

Investigation by a House committee has not made public anything to indicate that the increase is not justified. But this committee did point out that the cost-plus contracts, under which this and similar plants are being built, are open to abuse.

Stories about unwise contracts and lack of planning are becoming more and more common. Was it wise, for example, to build this ammunition plant within the city? Its hazardous work is going to be done by thousands of persons, specially trained but without previous experience. Further, it is going to be necessary to haul every single case of shells across the city to a powder storage farm on a 2350-acre tract west of Valley Park. Would it not have been wiser, in the first place, to build the plant out in the county?

The needs of the defense program, of course, are so urgent that nothing can be done about this now. But the Government must profit by its experience. There must be better planning for future projects.

So far as costs are concerned, there must be legislation to control them. But Congress has taken a vacation from the consideration of that!

THE WAY TO SELECT AN AIRPORT SITE.

The Becker administration is going about the selection of possible airport sites in the right way. Yesterday afternoon two city officials—Director of Public Utilities Doyne and President of the Board of Public Service Ellaby—and two aviation experts from Washington—the CAA's Acting Director of Airports, C. B. Donaldson, and its Regional Airport Engineer, Thomas E. Flaherty—spent two hours in the air over the St. Louis metropolitan area. They judged sites not in terms of real estate interests but on the basis of ready access for planes. When ready access for planes is matched with ready access for passengers the problem of a second airport will be solved.

ALI BEN EL SCHICKELGRUBER MOVES OUT OF PERSIA.

They Hate Taxes in Singapore

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Malayan tin miners, whose profits have gone up 321 per cent, protest against 8 per cent tax on incomes over $20,000, writer states; they want our navy to defend their right to sell to us at any price they see fit; wonder why we are not fighting already.

Martha Gellhorn, Staff Correspondent, in Collier's Magazine.

THE great strength of the English merchant is that he has been taught that he is the backbone of the empire, because the backbone of the empire is trade. Trade means making money. And they are making money like mad in Singapore.

Nine large tin-mining companies made an average profit increase of 321 per cent during 1940, and more is expected this year. Eight large rubber companies made an average profit increase of 218 per cent during 1940 and more is expected this year. Wonderfully enough, the top income tax in Malaya (and income tax has been in existence only since January) is 8 per cent on all incomes of $20,000 a year and over. Of course, agriculture is hit, but agriculture is not really big business anyhow in Malaya.

The president of the biggest local tin-mining company, protesting against the new taxes, pointed out that they would not have boom business indefinitely. And therefore they should not be taxed. They should be able to save money to tide them over the inevitable slump that would follow the war.

The insignificant income taxes surprise Americans, who see their own taxes climbing tremendously high, so as to pay for defense and a two-ocean navy. It is odd to reflect that the ships which would be used to protect Malaya are certainly not going to be paid for by anyone in Malaya.

As for the booming business in rubber and tin, the greatest buyer of both is America. In the last war, the price of rubber was jacked up to $1 a pound. Americans do not own any Malayan tin mines and only one rubber plantation is American property. Another heavy buyer is Japan, which buys 6 per cent of Malayan rubber (as contrasted with the 54 per cent which America buys and the 13 per cent which England buys). Japan buys 10 per cent of the Malayan tin ore, whereas the United States buys 69 per cent of it, and Great Britain buys less than 1 per cent.

As for iron ore, 1,935,314 tons of it were produced last year, and all of it except about 1000 tons was shipped to Japan. Japanese interests own and operate all the iron-ore mines in Malaya.

It comes down to this: Japan, in attacking Malaya, would be making a war to get the raw materials she already buys in undiminished quantity. Since rubber and tin are vital to America, we would be fighting for the right to continue buying these commodities at any price the owners see fit to name.

There are a great many people in the Orient who think that some empire moneymakers are thinking more about after the war than they are about winning the war. There are curious little facts which you learn while traveling in these parts. For instance, an American tire factory in Java makes the same fine brand of tires we buy at home and use on our cars. It is a large factory and could supply all of Malaya easily. Considering how few boats there are to carry food and munitions to England, fewer all the time, it would seem logical for Singapore to import tires from neighboring islands, using small coastwise steamers. Not so. Dunlop tires are sent out, by ship, from England to Singapore, because business as usual means never lose a market, even temporarily, no matter what.

In case there is actually a war, between two definite countries, England and Japan, with The Netherlands Indies and Australia and the Philippines involved, the only happy ending there can be for Singapore is the United States navy, and Singapore knows it.

If people talk to you honestly, and not just politely, in Singapore, they are apt to ask you accusingly why the United States is not in the war this minute and what do we think we are waiting for.

I was talking to the admiral in command about that great question, What would happen if . . .? The Japanese war of nerves now being waged in the China Sea, was having no effect on him. Finally he said, "If the American fleet came here, we are prepared to give them the same facilities as our ships and our men have. Fuel and repairs and recreational facilities."

So there is that to look forward to, as part of the happy ending. Our fleet will be treated well. American sailors should have fun on shore leave.

Warns Governor Against a Malign Influence

From the Armstrong (Mo.) Herald.

THE Post-Dispatch is urging Gov. Donnell to take the lead in getting all the legislation the Post-Dispatch asked for at the hands of the last session of the Legislature and didn't get, to get the appetite of the Post-Dispatch appeased, by the initiative and referendum route. To be sure, the Post-Dispatch is giving the already busy Governor an assignment that is as colossal as Hitler's war machine.

It sure will take some leadership to get all the legislation the Post-Dispatch wants put over when various amendments for each law asked for must be submitted separately and have the required number of signatures to the petition before the Secretary of State will order the amendment placed on the ballot.

Should the Governor succeed in doing all the Post-Dispatch asks of him and get all the amendments submitted that the Post-Dispatch has suggested, then the taxpayers of Missouri would have a dignified sum to pay in the way of printers' bills, and the Post-Dispatch would bellyache over the payment of the bills.

So far, Gov. Donnell seems to be using his own brains as the directing force of his administration and is making a fairly good job of it, but the Lord only knows what kind of a mess he will find himself in if he attempts to get all the laws enacted by the dear people that the Post-Dispatch has suggested.

WHEN ADOLF TAKES COMMAND.

Two Survivors Tell of Their Seventy Days in an Open Boat

"Two Survived," by Guy Pearce Jones. (Random House, New York.)

THIS is a realistic account of the miraculous experience of two survivors of a crew of seven who fled in a lifeboat when, on Aug. 21, 1940, a Nazi raider torpedoed the British merchantman Anglo-Saxon in mid-Atlantic. Seventy days later, the open boat, containing Robert Tapscott and Wilbert Widdicombe, the two who were left, arrived at one of the outer islands in the Bahamas.

Their fight against thirst and starvation is a modern saga of the sea, recalling the celebrated voyage of Captain Bligh. The story is written factually, without heroics, by an experienced newspaper man. Ironically, Widdicombe, after regaining his strength, lost his life en route home in the torpedoing of the Siamese Prince. The book contains an appropriately salty introduction by William McFee, seaman and author of tales of the sea.

By contrast, but not by comparison, for comparison with the recital of such a factual experience would be unfair, is "The Ocean," by James Hanley (William Morrow & Co., New York) described as "a novel of today, a modern story of men against the sea, of five survivors of a torpedoed ship adrift for days in an open boat." It appears as artificial as a painted ship upon a painted ocean. SPENCER McCULLOCH.

Pageant of the Gods.

IN every age and every stage of culture, man has had faith in a deity, or deities. The story of these divine figures, as told by A. Eustace Haydon in "Biography of the Gods" (Macmillan Co., New York), is a fascinating one. Dr. Haydon, professor of the history of religions at the University of Chicago, traces the evolution of tribal deities, the many Oriental gods, of Allah, Yahweh and the Christian God. A restless, materialistic age has brought "the twilight of the gods," the writer concludes. But the gods, part of "the mystery that enshrouds the universe," will live so long as faith exists that love, justice, peace and moral values must dominate human relations.

The Story of Old Williamsburg.

"WILLIAMSBURG: OLD AND NEW" (D. Appleton-Century Co., New York) is an unusually happy combination of subject, author and artist. The late E. H. Suydam, the illustrator, is at his best in the exquisite drawings which decorate Hildegarde Hawthorne's already decorative text. Together they present the story of this most historic spot, from its origin, through the Revolution, to its decline and its remarkable restoration.

SOMETHING extraordinary in the way of recipe collections is found in "World-Famous Chefs' Cookbook" (Ford Naylor & Associates, Chicago). Recipes, many of them closely guarded secrets, have been obtained from chefs in leading American and foreign hotels, on railway dining cars and ocean liners. Mingled with these recipes, from Stockholm's Grand Hotel, Antoine's of New Orleans, St. Louis' Hotel Jefferson, Boston's Parker House, the Twentieth Century Limited, the S. S. By COLVIN McPHERSON

The record-breaking 1941 season at Municipal Opera ran true to form last night at the opening of the final production, "Balalaika." Some 10,800 persons came out to see the American stage premiere of the London musical success and the first-night mark of 10,500 set by "The Desert Song," only two weeks ago, toppled into the dust.

Since June, the record for a week's attendance has been broken by two shows, the record for a single performance broken in three instances and now the opening night figure twice. It is a phenomenon which probably is bound up in the increased prosperity and the particular temper of the times, for the record shows, "Irene," "The Firefly," "The Desert Song" and "Balalaika," each with many distinctions, have had few in common.

This week's production, of course, has the advantage of having been on the screen and, with Nelson Eddy in the lead then, had a popular singing star as well. But the thousands of persons who came to see it last night could hardly have been under the delusion Eddy would be present in person.

"Balalaika," even for those who did not see the movie, is the kind of show one might expect from its title. The Russia it describes is the one which passed from history in the Soviet revolution of 1917—a Russia of great palaces and many princes, of tall Cossacks bold in love and battle, of the Imperial Ballet and lovely ballerinas, of wild-eyed professors who toss bombs and a little Czar who dodges them. And its royalty and romance both find haven in the spacious Parisian Montmartre.

Th music has a continental flavor and is therefore welcome to ears that want an escape from familiar melody. On the other hand, some of the musical pleasures of the show are bound up in familiar things—the singing of the traditional Russian hymn, "Come This Holy Night of Christmas" or "Silent Night." The choruses have a large share in the show.

Since its heroine is a ballet dancer, "Balalaika" also provides a lengthy ballet sequence in which Vivien Fay, after many a whirl, gets perhaps the most applause of the evening.

Covering the distance from Paris to Petrograd, from ballet rehearsal room to the trenches on the Austrian front, back again to Petrograd and to Paris, "Balalaika" also involves much scene shifting and Watson Barratt's conceptions of the stage of a Russian theater, the palace of Prince Karagin and the Balalaika cabaret in Paris are dazzling, although the task of scene shifting is only slightly less formidable than that of clearing the riverfront.

"Balalaika" has its dramatic moments but the scenic interruptions keep them from being as affecting as they might be. Nancy McCord, to whom ballet costumes are not always suitable, and Arthur Kent, not quite as tall as a good Cossack should be, give valiant service in the romantic roles of ballerina and soldier, nevertheless.

Of interest as character types are Joseph Macaulay and Frederic Persson, representing, respectively, the new order and the old and each playing his part to the hilt. Helen Raymond does a stunning job as a drunken and ill-mannered American dowager in Paris, although the characterizations as written in manifestly unfair to the average American tourist.

Familiar Municipal Opera players are to be seen as members of the ballet corps and army, in comic and character roles. For its moment of revolution, the production also has 25 extra players and is appropriately startling.

DOROTHY THOMPSON IN LONDON

"ON THE RECORD"

SOMEWHERE IN THE MIDLANDS

LONDON (By Wireless).

TWO sorts of manager employers have emerged in Britain as a result of the war. One is the pre-war factory manager appointed by the stockholders of a corporation accustomed to a competitive system who is now obliged to reconcile himself with a considerable amount of government control and operate under excess profits taxes which, in munitions factories, are 100 per cent.

The other is a civil-servant manager, who runs government-owned and operated ordnance plants. Inasmuch as the latter was recruited from the ranks of the former—almost all public factories managers came from private industry—it is interesting to compare factory morale and efficiency under both systems.

To have made an exhaustive study of this question would have taken all the time I have spent in England. So I must present the following as inconclusive observations with the comment that they come from unprejudiced sources as objective answers to the main question: What are the advantages and disadvantages of both systems?

The tentative conclusion is that the public ownership system is profoundly influencing the old system and vice versa. Between them something new is being worked out.

THE manager of a very successful factory, who came to it as a civil servant from his position in private industry, said: "The disadvantages of public ownership from a personal standpoint are: First, a much smaller salary; I am earning only half of what I did before.

"Second, too many departments deal with finance, the supply of labor, etc., with inadequate coordination and too much paper work.

"Third, there is not enough freedom of action, provided you follow all regulations to a T. I don't, and I don't think many managers do. But this is wartime and the authorities are lenient if you deliver the goods without work stoppage.

"The advantages are: First, a small salary under the present system of taxation is less of a loss than it seems, and the social status of a civil servant is higher in England than that of a private industrial leader.

"Second, I am free of innumerable cares of financing, competition, of beating the other fellow, of holding your job against the intrigues and jealousies of the chief stockholders. I cannot be dismissed except for mismanagement, and when I retire I will have a pension probably higher than any income I could have out of my earnings under the present taxation and investment possibilities.

"Third, our work is very demanding. That might be regarded as an advantage or a disadvantage. But we cannot offer goods on a take it or leave it basis. The goods must pass most rigorous tests.

"However, the freedom from managerial cares, arising from competition in sales and advertising policies, etc., leave me free to concentrate wholly on efficient production.

"I believe the civil servant managers have a definite break as far as the morale of the workers is concerned. They know they are not working for the private gain of individual stockholders, but wholly for the community and are willing to make greater sacrifices than they would otherwise.

"This attitude on the part of Government workers is illogical because actually no British munitions works is making profits, but the Government workers don't believe it. They believe the books of individually-owned concerns are fixed; that somehow, somewhere, someone gets something out of it.

"In public plants they know they are the only persons who profit. As far as wages and hours are concerned both sorts of production are equal and wages are fixed by district rates arrived at by collective bargaining. Hours are fixed the same way.

"All factories have a shop steward and work committees through which trade unions have functioning representatives among the workers, who select a small committee to represent them in all disputes with the management."

EVERYBODY, whether conservative and in favor of private industry or in favor of the Labor party policy which on the whole favors public ownership and larger means of industrial production, agrees, however, that war conditions forced managers to take a fresh view of the workers' needs.

The successful factories are those where agreements are very clear and scrupulously observed, where nothing is promised that is not kept and where the work committees or individual workers always get an immediate hearing from the management and a quick, reasonable decision.

ONE highly successful manager said: "I will listen to any grievance and demand, even if it is preposterous. Often what seems to be preposterous is due to inarticulateness or misunderstanding. In my factory no foreman speaks harshly to a worker or laughs at him. The humiliation of people is one of the cruelties that invariably brings revenge.

"We find we have reasonable work committees if all workers are handled as equal human beings, and tough ones if we offer blind or haughty opposition."

STEWARDS and work committees have no responsibility for planning or production. The responsibility rests wholly with the management. But the stewards and work committees are responsible for labor relations and complaints and their settlement.

A new type of management and a new type of worker undoubtedly are emerging in England.

MRS. J. LAWRENCE FLYNN DIES AT 31, EX-ST. LOUISAN

The Former Marjorie Jean Priest Succumbs in New Orleans After Brief Illness.

Mrs. J. Lawrence Flynn of New Orleans, the former Miss Marjorie Jean Priest of St. Louis, died yesterday in a New Orleans hospital. She had been seriously ill only two days, suffering from an intestinal ailment and heart disease.

Funeral arrangements will be made after the arrival in New Orleans of her father, W. Blodgett Priest of Hackettstown, N. J., an attorney and former St. Louisan, who left here several years ago. Surviving Mrs. Flynn, who was 31 years old, in addition to her husband, are three daughters, two by former marriages, Marcia Williams, Ann Nelson and Patricia Flynn.

When she was 16 years old she was married secretly to John T. Williams IV of St. Louis, then a student at Princeton University. Three years later, after they were divorced, she was married to Clement W. Nelson Jr. of St. Louis. In March, 1932, she obtained a divorce and in November of that year remarried Nelson. In March, 1933, she obtained a second divorce from Nelson and several months later was married to Flynn, who operates a cocktail lounge in New Orleans.

Isador Wagner Funeral.

Funeral services for Isador Wagner, founder and president of the Wagner Gear Co., 3214 Locust street, will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Rindskopf undertaking establishment, 5212 Delmar boulevard, with burial at Mount Sinai Cemetery. Mr. Wagner, who was 74 years old, died yesterday of heart disease at Jewish Hospital. He lived at 275 Union boulevard. Surviving are his wife and a daughter, Mrs. Abe Bloch.

ST. LOUISAN'S PLAY OPENS IN WASHINGTON

Frederick Hazlitt Brennan's 'The Wookey' Has Sound Track of London Bombing.

By RICHARD L. STOKES
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26. — As vehicle of a passionate evangel for total aid to Britain, Frederick Hazlitt Brennan, former member of the Post-Dispatch news staff, has written a salty, original and exciting play bearing the strange title of "The Wookey." This opus, probably first of the species, had its premiere last night at the National Theater and was greeted with laughter and tears by a crowded house.

After two reverses on Broadway, Brennan retired for five years' intensive study of dramatic technique. In this reviewer's opinion, he has emerged with a bold and cunning hand for the science of the stage.

By way of Wagnerian leitmotif, he introduced authentic reproduction, by sound truck, of the satanic din of London air raids. The merciless pelting of these nerve-racking clangors, no doubt calculated as an all-out blitz on American sympanthies, sent the audience huddling into its seats.

Baltimore, Then New York.

After a week in Washington, the play will go to Baltimore for another week and then to New York. Predictions are nowhere more hazardous than in the theater, but "The Wookey" possesses elements which, on logical grounds, should insure its fortunes, despite the danger of a charge of British propaganda. The first is a character drawn solidly in three dimensions —that of 'Orace Wookey, cockney tugboat master of London's East End dock area. Second is a performance of stellar distinction in this role by Edmund Gwenn, veteran of Shaw, Galsworthy and Barrie casts, and lately of Hollywood. Finally, there is a tremendous third-act curtain, almost guaranteed in its own right to make the success of any play that might have preceded it.

The producer, Edgar Selwyn, has spared no pains or expense on the stage dress rumored to have cost $70,000. He has recruited a cast nearly 100 per cent exemplary. Next to Gwenn, the most notable were George Sturgeon, a veritable find as a child actor, and Heather Angel, who performs the difficult task of carrying off a highly emotional role without a touch of strain or excess. The gifted director is Robert B. Sinclair. The settings are from no less imaginative a studio than that of Jo Mielziner, The best of his designs, a terrific scene of havoc with fire, searchlight beams and the uproar of bombers for background, stopped the show with applause on its own account.

Tribute to Common People.

The play is first a poignant tribute to the humble and unpretentious valor of London's common people, as exemplified by the diverse Wookey household. Secondly, it drives home a lesson for non-interventionists by depicting the violent conversion of two of them in London. One is 'Orace Wookey, a hero of the World War and yet a critic of English politicians and brass hats as bitter and stubborn as Winston Churchill himself. The other is his Irish first mate, Rory McSwiggin, effectively played by Horace McNally. It is Rory, by the way, who gives the work its title. As he would name the chieftain of an Irish clan "The O'Shaughnessy" so, for him, the adored tugboat captain is "The Wookey."

The play opens on the afternoon of the day before England's entrance into the war. The second act's atmosphere is that of the retreat from Dunkerque, while that of the third is the German air attack on Britain of September, 1940. The plot is crammed with incidents, and the tragedy is relieved by a crowd of lines often of earthiest humor. Throughout, as monarch of his home and neighborhood, strides the stocky figure of "The Wookey," a legendary John Bull of independence, tolerance, wisdom and instinctive heroism.

He is capable in the midst of an air raid, of sitting down and imperturbably dictating a letter to no other than the Prime Minister, in which the conduct of the war is unsparingly condemned; of interrupting the task to put out an incendiary bomb that falls in the parlor and of concluding on this note of stout individualism: "I am, yours respectfully, a British subject, 'Orace Wookey."

By the time the story nears its completion, Wookey has lost his fearless wife, and their home lies in ruins. He is told there are no ack-ack guns to protect the docks, and that London must continue to "take it," so that the Royal Air Force may be conserved. By radio comes the German-accented voice of an announcer in occupied Paris, rising in hysteria to shrill and foaming frenzy as it calls on the British to surrender and threatens London with the Fuehrer's vengeance.

With a grimace of contempt, "the Wookey" shoulders two belts of cartridges and trudges stolidly up the stairs of a shelter to certain death, with only a machine gun to oppose Stuka bombers. The clamor of their low-flying onslaught against the waterfront fills the theater as the last curtain falls.

WHITE HOUSE DINNER HONORS DUKE OF KENT

High British and American Officials Meet Brother of King.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 (AP).—President and Mrs. Roosevelt invited high-ranking British and American officials to an informal dinner last night in honor of the Duke of Kent, youngest brother of the King of England.

The Duke, who was a week-end guest at the Roosevelt home at Hyde Park, N. Y., spent the day at Norfolk, Va., and flew back to Washington in time for the dinner and to spend the night at the White House.

Places were set for 19 persons. The guests included Sir Ronald Campbell, British Charge d'Affaires; Capt. Lord Louis Mountbatten, cousin of the British monarch and an officer in the British navy, and Lady Mountbatten; Wing Commander Sir Louis Greig, aid and private pilot to the Duke of Kent; J. A. Lowther, secretary to the Duke; Maj. Gen. H. H. Arnold, assistant chief of staff for air of the United States army; Rear Admiral John H. Towers, chief of naval aeronautics, and Mrs. Towers; Harry L. Hopkins, lease-lend administrator; Capt. James Roosevelt, son of the chief executive, and Mrs. Roosevelt; Nelson A. Rockefeller, co-ordinator of cultural relations between the American nations, and Mrs. Rockefeller; Mrs. Cameron Clark and Dr. and Mrs. Henry Field.

Gentlemen:
Ever since graduating from your School I have felt like writing a note of appreciation for what Atlas Aircraft has meant to me.
Shortly after graduating from your School, I took an entrance examination with a local aeroplane manufacturer and made a perfect score. A day later I was employed by them and have been with them ever since.
This letter is being written to thank the personnel of Atlas Aircraft Trades School for their every effort in my behalf and for the fine personal instruction I had as a student. The courses given me at your school has made my work come easy to me and the countless things that come up every day at the factory are simplified by your thorough training.
Again, let me thank you most sincerely for your efforts in my behalf as a student.
Yours very truly,

More Proof That Atlas Specialized Training Pays!
We have request from one of the MAJOR AIRPLANE MANUFACTURERS on the west coast for more graduates than we can supply. DON'T GAMBLE WITH YOUR FUTURE. Get the best training—the kind that prepares you to be a specialist. "Not a Jack of All Trades."

ARMY MORALE HEAD'S PROBLEM IS 'WHAT'S THE USE?' ATTITUDE

with another 18 months of service and "nothing to do."

Osborn says he has no idea why Roosevelt named him to fill the post previously filled by Brig. Gen. James A. Ulio, who transferred to the inactive list because of poor health. Associates suggest it was because of the genius of this 6-foot 8-inch man to get along with his fellow men.

They tell, for example, how he made his first $500,000 selling the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton Railroad to Henry Ford. In 1921, Osborn was 32, and president of an impoverished right-of-way. He had one locomotive so old it seldom worked. Ford was angry because the single railroad serving his Dearborn (Mich.) automobile plant had increased freight rates. Osborn did not know Ford, personally, but he went to see Ford.

"I," he said, "have a right-of-way you could use to contact two other railroads shipping east and west on regular rates. Otherwise, it is about the damndest thing you ever saw. Want to buy it?"

Ford grabbed the chance to whip his shipping problem, Osborn got his price and went to New York to become a partner of wealthy G. M. P. Murphy & Co., investment bankers.

Osborn's wealthy Bar Harbor (Me.) neighbors sometimes cannot understand him and his family. They bought a small farm across the bay near Ellsworth for a summer home, and they do their own housework. They like it that way. His two sons are almost as tall as he, and his wife and four daughters range above six feet. Their permanent home is at Garrison, N. Y., not far from the Roosevelt Hyde Park estate.

Osborn plans to visit all posts, talk to the men and see if anything really is wrong. They will know him by his easy approach, soft voice and friendly manner that neutralizes his fierce, piercing gaze.

Osborn is co-author of "Dynamics of Population" and has written many other books and articles. He became interested in eugenics when at Princeton and as a coworker with his celebrated uncle, the late Henry Fairchild Osborn, president of the (New York) American Museum of Natural History and an eminent biologist.

POLICE RAID HANDBOOK WHEN DOOR IS OPENED

Police played a waiting game outside the locked door of a hideaway handbook on the fourth floor of the Commercial Building, 214 North Sixth street, yesterday. Their patience was rewarded when the door opened after they had stood guard in the hall an hour and a half. Officers entered and arrested two clerks and six customers.

The same place was raided by the gambling squad Saturday, when its tables and chairs were found to be bolted to the floor, thus preventing police from carting the furniture away as evidence.

COMMUNITY SERVICE RENTS CITY BUILDING FOR SOLDIERS

Part of Pythian Structure to Be Rehabilitated by Government for Men From Camps.

The Board of Estimate and Apportionment approved today an application of the National Catholic Community Service to rent the first and second floors and basement of the Pythian Building, 707-11 North Grand boulevard, for $200 a month.

The rented portion will be rehabilitated by the Government and administered by the Community Service for the benefit of men in military service. The city has had difficulty finding tenants for the building since it was taken over for taxes two years ago.

YALE SEEKS TO BAR PAYMENT

Plans Appeal in Hazlett Campbell Estate Suit.

Yale University filed a motion yesterday asking Circuit Judge Eugene J. Sartorius to set aside an order he entered last week for a partial distribution totaling $540,000 among the 161 heirs-at-law of Hazlett Kyle Campbell. The distribution was ordered from a $2,000,000 trust estate created for Campbell's benefit by his father.

The university, which claims one-half of the estate as beneficiary under the will of Campbell's brother, Hugh, stated in the motion that distribution at this time would be premature, since it intended to appeal from a recent decision by Judge Sartorius denying its claim.

E. J. BROCK NAMED FOR $4000 CITY JOB

Made Inspector of Boilers and Elevators, Replacing W. E. Allen.

Appointment of Edward J. Brock, former president of the Brock Engineering Corporation, as chief inspector of boilers and elevators in the Department of Public Safety was announced yesterday by Building Commissioner Albert H. Baum Jr., effective Sept. 10. The position pays $4000 a year.

Brock, who is 55 years old and lives at 4285 Olive street, replaces William E. Allen, Democrat, who has held the post since January, 1938. Brock formerly was foreman of the General Electric Corporation and a mechanical engineer at the Fulton Iron Works.

Commissioner Baum also named Fred J. Praechter Sr., 1109 Bellerive boulevard, as chief plumbing inspector at $2700 a year, succeeding James E. Egan, 5824A South Grand boulevard, who received two weeks' notice after he declined to resign voluntarily. Praechter, who is 63 years old, is past president of the Missouri State Association of Master Plumbers and of the Master Plumbers' Association of St. Louis.

Five building inspectors submitted their resignations to Baum yesterday, effective Sept. 10. They are A. D. Blackwood, 6724 Arthur avenue, who quit to take a job in private industry, and Arthur Georgen, 2640 Pennsylvania avenue; Thomas H. Berkley, 3606 North Spring avenue; Cornelius Dougherty, 1200 Temple place, and James V. Smithson, 5214 Magnolia avenue, each of whom was asked to resign.

SOVIET MORALE SO HIGH NEWS IS NOT HIDDEN

the flares they dropped. Bombs were few and far between. Apparently the night flights over Moscow were for reconnaissance only. But the local barrage was impressive. The skyline glowed with the almost continuous flashing of the guns and in the sky the bursting shells flickered as steadily as an electric sign on Broadway. And finally Moscow's big squares began to sparkle when the shell fragments rolled and clattered down to strike spots on the pavement.

I did not hear many German planes and the only plane I have seen here at night was a Soviet night fighter caught in a searchlight beam. He identified himself by flashing his navigation lights and dropping a colored flare. There have been several Soviet fighters over the city and it seemed significant to me that the Germans have not dared to fly here during the daylight hours since their earliest raids. The Soviet fighter plane looks very much like the British Hurricane. Its low, tapered wing is a little shorter, but it flies behind a liquid-cooled motor and its clean lines are very similar to those of the British ship.

SOLDIER SHOT IN TAVERN BRAWL ON AUG. 14 DIES

Victim, Massachusetts Man, 19, Was Awaiting Transfer to Texas Training School.

Pvt. George A. Dundas, an enlisted man at Jefferson Barracks, who was shot in a brawl at a tavern at 4133 Olive street Aug. 14, died today at City Hospital. He was 19 years old.

Anthony Sperlazza, bartender in the saloon, who admitted the shooting, told police that Dundas had become objectionable after having several drinks and had annoyed other patrons. Sperlazza said he asked Dundas to leave, but the soldier attempted to hit him with a chair, then threw a beer bottle, a glass and a wastebasket at him.

Sperlazza then got his revolver from behind the bar and fired one shot, he said. It struck Dundas in the left lung. Dundas' home was in Brookline, Mass.

The liquor license for the tavern, issued to Mrs. Mamie Casenza, was revoked today by Excise Commissioner Arthur H. Bader. Sperlazza was rearrested at the license hearing, to be held for the Coroner.

EX-GOV. CAULFIELD'S BROTHER MADE AUDITOR FOR GOVERNOR

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 26. — Appointment of Osborn P. Caulfield of Edina, a brother of former Gov. Henry S. Caulfield, as special auditor under the Governor, was announced today by Gov. Forrest C. Donnell.

Caulfield, who will receive $225 a month, served in various State departments in former Republican administrations. From 1929 to 1933 he was in charge of the St. Louis Automobile License Bureau.

He will audit accounts of any State department or bureau, or school and road districts at the direction of the Governor.

WOMAN FOUND SHOT TO DEATH

Revolver by Her Side; Deputies Say Husband Had Left Home.

Mrs. Emma W. Tarr, 55 years old, was found shot to death today in the kitchen of her home at Babler Park road and State Highway 109, Glencoe. She had been shot in the right temple. A revolver was at her side.

Deputy Sheriffs said they were informed that Mrs. Tarr's husband, Sirus Tarr, a retired carpenter, had left a note yesterday saying that he was leaving home. The body was found by relatives who had spent the night with Mrs. Tarr.

Gen. Johnson —

sweetheart trouble, that he had to get out of the army quickly and that the best way to do it was to refuse to obey an order, get perhaps a year in the guardhouse and a dishonorable discharge. I did argue with him, but he refused to mount his horse for cavalry drill in front of a whole troop—over and over again. I should have sent him back to barracks and gone more patiently over the case after drill. But a whole squadron was waiting. I took an irretrievable step—sent him to the guardhouse under general court-martial charges. He also got 10 years and I have never ceased to regret it. I always hated court-martial procedure and during many years of service never preferred court-martial charges against more than a few men in unavoidable cases. There were other ways to get better discipline.

Orders Must Be Obeyed.

But this question is a puzzler, especially at the beginning of the formation of an army. The safety and success of everything depends on unquestioning obedience of deliberate orders, even if they mean death. All soldiers must feel that to the marrow of their bones. Obedience must be second nature. Early in the World War some soldiers in Texas mutinied and killed some civilians. They were hanged by court-martial sentence almost immediately. That time the War Department was not merely "amazed," it was in a panic. But almost unanimously the national press applauded the result.

The Habinyak sentence requires some discreet shifting of impulsive and inexperienced commanders but no impression should be given that well-instructed men can wilfully disobey direct orders and escape with a slap on the wrist. War and military service are a grim business.

Suspender-Snapping Governor

By Henry McLemore

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 25.

THE State of Georgia is overlooking a good means of raising money by not charging visitors admission to see its Governor, Eugene Talmadge. In many ways he is more remarkable than Stone Mountain, Tallulah Falls, the Okefinokee Swamp or any other of Georgia's wonders. In appearance, he is refreshingly ungubernatorial. Slumped behind his desk or walking around his large executive office, he gives one the impression that he is waiting for a cue to walk on a stage and start playing "Jeeter Lester" in a road show—not the main show. He is perhaps the first governor of a state to make an art of suspender-snapping and tobacco chewing. His suspenders, or galluses, as he likes to call them, are flaming red and a lesser man could not take the punishment he inflicts on himself by pulling them out about a yard and letting them fly back against his chest. But as accomplished as he is with his suspenders, Gov. Talmadge has even greater talent with a plug of tobacco. He carries his plug in his right hip pocket and no sheriff of the Old West was ever quicker on the draw with his gun than the Governor is with his tobacco. In one motion, and with the grace of a gull swooping on a crumb, he can whip the plug from its resting place, fan it into position before his mouth, take a bite and start chewing.

HENRY McLEMORE

THE GOVERNOR is what is known as a "free-style talker." Just name a subject and he will exhaust it and you before he is through. One of his favorite topics is newspapers. He owns one himself, a distinguished four-page weekly, "The Statesman." It has a circulation of around 9000 now, but the Governor's aim is 50,000, and he has hit on a unique plan to start the circulation rolling toward this figure. He has advised the heads of his departments to take out six subscriptions each and "requested" the colonels of his staff to take 25 subscriptions apiece. The Governor admitted that it was "powerful trying" to write an editorial a week. "That's the trouble with them big newspapers," he said, swinging his feet up on his desk. "They try to write editorials every day. Dad-gummit, a man just naturally can't do that. On the important issues of the day, a fellow needs a whole week of thinking. Sometimes I feel as if could use even more'n a week on my editorials for 'The Statesman'."

THE GOVERNOR does his best to protect the citizens of the State from the dangers of a free press. The other day he banned the press from the investigation of the sweatbox death of a convict. He had a sound explanation for this action. "The reporters are just like their newspapers. They're always looking for a row. If I had let them in on the investigation they would have snooped around and caused trouble. They would have created sympathy for the prisoners and this woulda been bad. Played the devil with the wardens, too." Governor Talmadge doesn't mind what the newspapers say about him personally. They can lambast him with all their type and the blows fail to penetrate the thickness of the mantle that fell from Huey Long's shoulders on to his. As a native Georgian I told him of the banging around he was taking in editorials from coast to coast. "Let 'em roast me, brother," he cackled, "all they want to. When I can't get 'em mad, I'll know I'm slipping."

The Far Look

By Elsie Robinson

WAS it a K or an R? An H or an N? I peered—blinked—couldn't for the life of me tell. The chart wavered before me, a clutter of meaningless blurs and blots. The little Viennese doctor snorted indignantly. It was only a year since he'd given me stronger glasses. And now! "Did I not tell you?" he snapped. "But no—what good does it do to tell you? Still you sit there, I suppose, working with the nose on top of the typewriter or drawing board and the wall so close ahead you could touch it almost. Is it not so, yes? But how often do you lift the face to take a far look—change your focus? No! You cannot be bothered. You speed-crazy Americans are always too much in a hurry. Then, when you are but nearly blind, you go to some doctor and say, 'Fix me over!' It is a crime, I tell you. A crime!"

HE STOPPED, breathless from exasperation, bristling to hide a genuine sympathy. (There had been shabby diggings in Vienna, too, perhaps!) I grinned ruefully, knowing how right he was. More right than he guessed. Another proof of the High Cost of Poverty. But many a time, in 20 years since, I've thought of those words, realizing how well they fit most of us—how desperately we need to lift our heads and hearts from the narrow niche in which we live, and Change Our Focus. Got a baby picture of yourself stored away somewhere? That one at three or five, in your Buster Brown suit? No need, then, to tell you to lift your face. It was up and eager as a new-hatched chick. Every trail in the world was calling, every peak was gleaming. Each hour held fresh marvel and adventure. You were ready for them all.

FAR LOOKS! Changed viewpoints! Shining glimpses of a wider reach of life that lifted you out and away from the cramped personal scheme of things. They did great things for you, those glimpses, in your young, growing years. They filled you with hungers and ambitions which were like a second birth. They fortified you against the slow, secret poisoning of poverty and injustice. What a pity that you lost them! But you haven't lost them, not really. You have only to lift your head, change your slant, and they will be yours again. Life's as big as your viewpoint—as far as your own focus. You can narrow it down to the size of a hangnail—you can broaden it until it encircles the stars. Read a book—turn a dial—raise your head—free your heart—and the trails will be calling again!

Cold Meal on a Warm Day

By Mrs. Alexander George

ICEBOX handies make for easy meals, whether it's a snack or a full dinner.

Frosty coolers can be whisked together in no time when the makings are merely picked from a refrigerator stocked with fruit syrups, citrus fruits, fresh mint, carbonated waters and bottled beverages.

Dessert is no problem when a velvety ice cream or a tart, creamy sherbet is dipped out of a tray in the mechanical refrigerator. These frozen foods also put extra vitamins and minerals into thirst quenchers.

It is real fun to rustle up a meal if the refrigerator boasts a glossy-topped baked ham, some spiced boiled tongue and a bowl of crunchy fish or meat salad.

Call on Apricot-Lime Fizz to bring back spirits wilted by sizzling weather or active summer sports. Boil eight fresh mint leaves with a cup of water and one-half cup sugar three minutes. Cool, discard the mint and add one-half cup lime juice, one-third cup lemon juice and three cups apricot nectar or mashed apricot pulp. Pour into jar, cover and chill until needed, then pour into glasses one-half filled with chopped ice. Dress up with mint.

For another cooler try Fruit Nectar—a pleasing blend of flavor ready for quick action. The syrup will keep a week, stored in the refrigerator. Boil five minutes four cups sugar and three cups water. Cool and add two tablespoons grated lemon rind, two cups lemon juice, one-half cup lime juice, two cups pineapple juice and a cup loganberry juice. Fill glasses one-third full and finish out with iced water and chopped ice. Top with thin slices of orange and lemon.

Fish Ring makes a more substantial, handy, ready for the main part of a dinner or supper menu. Dissolve a package of lemon flavor gelatin in one and one-half cups boiling water, add two tablespoons lemon juice and cool. Mix in a cup of tuna or shrimp, one-half cup diced celery, one-third cup each cooked peas, green beans and cucumbers. Season with one teaspoon minced onion, one-half teaspoon chopped parsley, one-half teaspoon salt and one-fourth teaspoon paprika. Pour into a ring mold and chill. Unmold on crisp lettuce and center the ring with a dish filled with mayonnaise.

Belmont Ham Loaf is a main dish suited to summer fare and it will keep several days in the refrigerator. Any leftovers make delicious sandwich fillings. Soak two tablespoons granulated gelatin five minutes in a cup of cold water and dissolve in one and one-half cups boiling chicken stock or soup. Cool and add one teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon paprika, one teaspoon minced onions, two tablespoons each of lemon juice and sugar, two sliced hard-cooked eggs, two-thirds cup diced celery, two cups chopped cooked ham and one-fourth cup chopped green peppers. Pour into loaf mold and chill.

A bowl of Veal Salad Marquette can make the main part of a supper or dinner. To serve eight, mix one and one-half cups cubed cooked veal, two-thirds cup cooked lima beans, one-half cup diced celery, two tablespoons chopped pimientos, one tablespoon chopped sweet pickles, one teaspoon chopped onion, one-half teaspoon salt and one-fourth teaspoon paprika. Moisten with one-half cup salad dressing and chill. When time to serve, pile this salad into a lettuce-lined bowl, top with more dressing and sprinkle with chopped parsley and minced pickles.

PINK PINEAPPLE PUNCH: TO ONE CUP OF SUGAR AND TWO CUPS OF WATER ADD ONE-FOURTH CUP CINNAMON DROPS AND HEAT TILL THE DROPS DISSOLVE. COOL AND ADD ONE-HALF CUP LEMON JUICE AND TWO ONE-PINT-TWO-OUNCE CANS OF UNSWEETENED PINEAPPLE JUICE. BEFORE SERVING, ADD A PINT CHILLED GINGER ALE. SERVE OVER ICE. ENOUGH FOR SEVEN STANDARD MEASURING CUPS.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

by WYNN

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 27.

TODAY can be made the best day of this week if we will use our intuition and judgment, for they are both likely to be at our present top (according to our past development). Move about, see folks; do business; think, plan, test.

Toward Wisdom.

Too many people want to arrive at the destination of wisdom still carrying a good deal of baggage that cannot be taken there. This baggage consists of selfishness, competition, many highly regarded trade practices that "everybody" is habituated to. No one ever became wise while attempting to retain an attitude of possessivism toward anything or any person. Could you give up those things?

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead can mean new and permanent occupational factors through alertness and adaptability this year, if this is your birthday; but no hasty changes. Plan, think, make right moves. Danger: March 4-15, July 23-Aug. 7.

Thursday.

Tendency to be too scrappy—let the other fellow be upset, not you.

IT IS SHOCK PROOF.

Your boy going off to school will accept with considerable gratitude a wrist watch that is said to be shock and waterproof. The case is chrome, the strap leather and the price about $16.50.

Beauty and You

By Patricia Lindsay

THERE is no denying the fact that a row of efficacious beauty aids inspires one to more careful grooming. For what woman can resist opening a beautiful bottle or jar and testing the contents?

For instance, what young woman who travels with that new alligator handbag containing especially blended face powder, lipstick, rouge and cleansing cream, could descend from a train or plane looking anything but ravishing? For it is such a simple chore to cleanse one's face of travel-wear just before the trip ends, and to apply becoming fresh make-up, if the aids are right there is one's handbag.

Then, there is that liquid deodorant fragranced with the geranium—the most heavenly of floral scents. What woman could resist pouring a few drops of that essential beauty aid into the palm of her hand, after her shower, and applying it where most needed? To be fresh and sweet is one thing, but to be assured of your sweetness and still smell like a lovely flower is indeed something few women can resist. A two-ounce bottle, which is not the least bit expensive, should last the rest of the summer.

We know that summer make-up must be light and inconspicuous (as should make-up be the year 'round), and that the primary step in attaining that art, is to select the most perfect foundation base attainable in a shade to match one's current skin tone. Offered to us (in the hopes that we will love it so much we will buy its companion make-up aids) is a lotion so translucid that it imparts a nice glow to the skin without seeming to cover it. There are several shades, but right now most of you will be interested in the darker one to complement that lovely tan. If you are a fuss-budget, which every beauty should be, you can get a powder that is the perfect counter-part for your favorite lipstick and rouge. All aids are endorsed by a firm which puts out only the finest and puts them out in the prettiest of dressings.

Get these cosmetics, and I'll defy you to keep them around without using them.

If you desire the name and price of these products write Miss Lindsay care of this paper and enclose a self-addressed, stamped (3-cent) envelope.

ENGLISH PEWTER.

Since no one ever knows when a shipment from England may arrive, you had better grab one of these lovely old pewter pieces when you see it. There are bowls and platters of various sizes each marked to indicate its English origin.

Some People Allergic to Certain Foods

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

CERTAIN allergic people are sensitive to foods which have appeared in their diets practically throughout life. These people may have hives, asthma, skin eruptions, abdominal cramps, indigestion or diarrhea and not realize that foods with which they have long been familiar are the cause.

The responsible foods can be detected by making a diary and selecting different foods on different days and noting which diets cause the symptoms. A series of diets suggested by Dr. L. P. Gay, of St. Louis, has proved successful in doing this.

Wheat, milk, eggs, white potato, pork, tomatoes, citrus fruit and pineapple are found to be the most common food offenders to most people. These foods have therefore been taken out of the diet and substitutions made for them. When the most toxic foods have been identified by experimental tests, a corrected menu can be worked out for each individual. The diets for five days are as follows:

First Day.

Breakfast: Sauerkraut juice or apricots or papya juice. Hominy grits with butter, or corn meal mush with honey or maple syrup, or corned beef hash, or liver. Tea or coffee.

Lunch: Beef, or mushrooms, or liver. Corn pone, corn, asparagus, carrots, cauliflower, lettuce, string beans, mustard greens, radishes, pumpkin, sweet potato. Jello, nuts.

Dinner: Same as lunch.

Second Day.

Breakfast: Prunes, prune juice or melon (in season), or dates. Rice with butter or preserves. Lamb chop or sweetbreads. Pure rye bread (toasted). Tea.

Lunch: Lamb chop or sweetbreads. Pure rye bread. Rice, greens, celery (cooked or raw), breads. Pure rye bread. Rice, lima beans, onions (cooked or raw), peas, cabbage or cucumbers. Peanut butter. Tapioca or fruit.

Dinner: Same as lunch.

Third Day.

Breakfast: Canned vegetable juices, apple sauce, baked apple, peaches or rhubarb. Pure buckwheat cakes with honey or maple syrup, or liver or brains. Coffee.

Lunch: Chicken, duck, guinea fowl, squab or game. Buckwheat gems. Broccoli, carrots, okra, lettuce, lentils, eggplant, oyster plant, rutabagas, turnips or turnip greens. Avocado, olives. Jello.

Dinner: Same as lunch.

Fourth Day.

Breakfast: Grapes, grape juice, banana or figs. Oatmeal with butter or maple syrup, or baked sweet potato, or chicken hash, or arrowroot cakes. Tea.

Lunch—Beef, mushrooms, liver, or lamb. Arrowroot cakes. Asparagus, Brussels sprouts, cauliflower, celery (cooked or raw), stringbeans, radishes, parsnips, sweet potato, cabbage or watercress. Tapioca, fruit.

Dinner: Same as lunch.

Fifth Day.

Breakfast: Berry juice, cherries, pears or plums. Soy bean bread (toasted), soy bean grits with butter or fish (salt or fresh). Coffee.

Lunch: Fish, frogs' legs, shrimp, crabmeat or scallops. Soybean bread. Artichoke, beets, beet greens, celery root, lettuce, okra, spinach, peas, turnips, rutabaga or squash. Jello.

Dinner: Same as lunch.

Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

Orange Stuffing

Three cups dry bread crumbs, one-half cup seedless raisins, two-thirds cup orange juice, one cup diced apples, four tablespoons sugar, one-fourth cup melted butter, salt to taste, few grains pepper.

Combine ingredients in order given seasoning to taste with salt and pepper. A little more or less liquid may be needed depending on the dryness of the crumbs. Stuff into chicken taking care not to pack the dressing.

Case Records of a PSYCHOLOGIST

By Dr. George W. Crane

Of Northwestern University

CASE T-156: Wallace D., aged 23, belongs to a sect which advocates faith healing.

"Yesterday you seemed to minimize the mental attitude of the woman who caught smallpox," he began. "Don't you think she would have been able to have avoided the disease entirely if she hadn't been afraid of it, Dr. Crane? Isn't the mind a big factor in health?"

DIAGNOSIS: Yes, indeed, the mind is a tremendous factor in health, as I can certainly attest, for much of my professional work lies in that very field. But don't think for one moment that I don't recognize the organic cause of many diseases. As I told you yesterday, you can have the courage of a lion, but that mental attitude will not have the slightest bearing on the bedbugs or mosquitoes that surround you. Nor will it retard the specific attack of tubercular bacilli, or of the virus of measles and smallpox if you are not chemically immune to these germs. Germs have no brains, so they can't recognize brave people in contrast to the cowardly or fearful!

COURAGE DOES actually promote health, however, by enabling people to sleep soundly and enjoy hearty appetites. It frees them from long hours of brooding and despondency, both of which are not conducive to sound slumber and normal digestion. In this modern age where advertisers play up the danger of bacteria, the average person is probably too germ conscious. He worries unduly over his "innards," and all too often becomes a hypochrondiac. We say that such a person "enjoys" poor health. He worries over every ache and pain, and after years of self-analysis, can actually feel many little gas bubbles in his intestines which the normal person doesn't notice.

SO THE HYPOCHONDRIAC soon believes he has a cancer or some other serious malady. This is the mental patient who can be cured by mental treatment or various religious incantations and red tape, for he hasn't anything organically wrong with him to begin with. Since his difficulty lies in his mind, then he is an excellent patient for mental therapy. But millions of people don't know that their trouble is mental, so they suffer the same sleeplessness, despondency and lack of appetite as the patient who actually has the cancer. A year or so ago I told you of the army colonel whose blood pressure zoomed from 135 to 220 every time an army doctor examined him. If a civilian doctor took his blood pressure, it never varied much above 135, but the instant the military physician approached him, up went the blood pressure.

THE POWER OF the mind can upset all the physiological processes of the body to a greater or less extent. It can weaken your resistance by upsetting your appetite and retarding your digestion. It can make your heart conscious and fearful of apoplexy. It can cause spastic colitis and constipation. It can even scare many patients into simulating insanity. But a good physician can easily spot the real organic ailment from the hysterical simulation. Vaccinate yourself against the known dangerous diseases. Then live courageously, realizing that you come of the toughest stock through all history, for your ancestors didn't have vaccination, so they suffered from the diseases and recovered, or they wouldn't have lived till adulthood to procreate you. Live courageously, and use your horse sense.

Serve Spices

Pep up your buffet suppers by providing an array of spicy condiments, and add to the attractiveness of the table by serving them in a handsome condiment set. It is made like the old-fashioned castor sets, but instead of a silver or Sheffield stand, the holder is of wood rubbed to bring out the beauty of the natural grain. It holds two clear glass bottles for oil and vinegar, two wooden covered glass jars for mustard, wooden pepper and salt and a wooden pepper mill.

To brag is childish and ill-bred. It seems to me this woman's best friend, a relative or her husband could point out her fault to her tactfully and help her to overcome it. It may just possibly be that there is something for her to brag about, and that burns up the so-called friends who may not have anything to brag about in return. At any rate, we all have our faults, and I see no reason why she should be completely shunned for this one fault. If you all like her husband and children, continue to visit them, learn to tolerate her bragging and to take it good-humoredly.

Dear Martha Carr:

I HAVE BEEN married only four months but I don't guess any young bride was ever so unhappy. After our engagement it didn't seem to make any difference, my fiance continued to date other girls, and, what's more, lied to me in order to do so. I finally told him I was sure we'd never make a go of it if he was going to act like that, and he promised to change and never tease me about, or even mention, another woman again. But somehow, marriage seems to have made him worse. I don't actually know that he steps out on me now, but he lies to me so about other things, and forever teases me about women. This makes life very unpleasant for me and sometimes I think I'll go mad. I am 19 and he is 24. When a man curses and slaps his wife as he has done to me several times lately, it is time to get out. What do you think about this, Mrs. Carr? DISCOURAGED.

It is time, indeed, your husband grew up. He has married you and you should be the only woman as far as he is concerned. It may be he talks this way just to tease you because you rise to the bait and get so beautifully upset each time. Try ignoring his silly bragging and childish speeches about other women for a while and see if he does not stop such foolishness. As to the lies, discuss this matter with him and see if you can't help him get to the cause of why he so persistently and unnecessarily tells them. The slapping and cursing show a small-boy lack of self-control, too. If you cannot shame him and talk him out of these things, then it is up to you, of course, whether or not you want to continue to live with him.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

SOME TIME ago there appeared in your column a request for information concerning a Catholic club for young men and women. This request was left unheeded because of extra activity forced upon our officers by our losses to the armed forces of our country. But now we are starting a membership drive and would welcome inquiries by any single young men or women, 18 years or older, interested in becoming members. We can furnish references for the club and its officers. Anyone seeking information or desiring an application can receive the same by writing to the Ostian Catholic Club, care the Knights of Columbus Building, 3547 Olive street, St. Louis, Mo.

Social Usage
By Emily Post

Dear Mrs. Post:

IT is my understanding that when a betrothal is announced, it is proper to offer best wishes to the bride, and congratulate the bridegroom. I wonder what should be said to the two sets of parents?

EMILY POST

Answer: You wish the bride happiness, and then congratulate the bridegroom, or you wish him happiness, too. To the parents you say whatever is pleasant and true, how lovely the bride is and how much you like them both, etc. Or to the family you know well you comment on the attractiveness of their new in-law. To the family you know slightly, or have just met, you say how fond you are of their new daughter-in-law (or son-in-law) and in every case you say you hope they will both be very happy.

DEAR MRS. POST: Please help me. Are lapels of a man's dinner jacket of satin or ribbed silk? I sent to a large store in the city for samples and explained what for, and they sent satin. Now the tailor says, "never," and even goes so far as to say it would be impossible to have them of satin.

Answer: The lapels are sometimes of a grosgrain silk, but usually of satin. In other words, satin is correct, according to best social usage. I can't imagine your tailor considered the satin lapels "impossible," unless they were of the wrong kind of satin. Too thin, or too shiny—instead of a satin that is soft, thick and fairly dull.

Important Woman in an Important Job
Mrs. Ruth B. Shipley Holds Responsible Post as Chief of State Department's Passport Division

By Virginia Irwin
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 25.

IN publicity-loving Washington, where practically everybody and everything has a press agent, Ruth B. Shipley, chief of the Passport Division of the State Department, is a strange person. An important woman in a vitally important job, she shuns the limelight and it takes almost an act of Congress to get her to talk for publication. She sees no need for talking up Ruth Shipley's stock, requires no personal praise and gets all the satisfaction she needs out of knowing that her job is well done.

Right now this job has brought extra and added responsibility to Mrs. Shipley. It is she who must decide which Americans shall be allowed to go abroad in these days of a world at war. Technically she's subordinate to Secretary of State Cordell Hull, but actually she wields unquestioned authority over all passport negotiations.

Many a disgruntled passport seeker, unwilling to take "no" from the woman passport chief, has taken his case to "the boss," but inevitably the whole matter lands right back on Mrs. Shipley's desk.

"But please," asked Mrs. Shipley as this correspondent had morning coffee with her in her pleasant office overlooking the White House, "understand that my decisions are not made imperiously, arbitrarily. I am in constant touch with people who know what is going on in various parts of the world. It is upon the judgment of these authorities that my decisions are made as to whether it is wise to let a person journey to this or that part of the globe."

A calm, level headed, efficient woman, Mrs. Shipley says that the changing world keeps her "jumping around, but never in a spin." She has the faculty of occupying herself with one problem at a time to the exclusion of all others and no amount of piled-up work can ruffle her pleasant, even disposition.

While this correspondent talked to her, the telephone rang constantly. A business executive wanted permission to go to India; a Catholic Monsignor has a missionary problem in Burma; an Akron (O.) man was insisting on taking his wife with him to Calcutta; there was a long-distance call from a Chinese college group in New York; and another from a Senator who was trying to get an American out of Moscow.

Mrs. Shipley's job of deciding just who shall be allowed to go where is indeed no easy one. The regulations now require proof of "imperative necessity" for travel in danger zones and it is her responsibility to determine just what "necessity" is "imperative" and what is not. Newspapermen, broadcasters, news photographers, Government officials and those engaged in humanitarian work or traveling in the interests of "Federal need" have little trouble obtaining their passports, but no amount of official pressure will get you a passport if Mrs. Shipley thinks your trip is anything less than "imperative necessity." She'll tell you that both you and the United States would be better off if you stayed at home—and there you'll stay.

For our individual and collective safety, the chief of the Passport Division rules where you may journey, on what boats, by what routes, how long you may stay—if you may go at all. If you're not interested in keeping yourself as far as possible out of range of guns and bombs, Mrs. Shipley is. And unless you're in the approved category, you may as well not try for a passport for belligerent countries or the combat zone.

Although all this may make Mrs. Shipley sound like something of a martinet, she is actually a soft-hearted, gentle and very feminine person. She has worked her way up from a $1200-a-year clerkship to the $6500 job as the first woman to head a major division in the State Department.

Born the daughter of a Methodist minister, she married before the first World War and went to live in the Canal Zone. Her husband's ill health brought the family back to the United States and Mrs. Shipley to a job in 1914 as clerk in the State Department. There she worked under the fabulous A. A. Adee, who held office for nearly half a century and was then Assistant Secretary of State. Nothing escaped Mrs. Shipley; she worked in and absorbed all the details of all departments of the Passport Division and after 14 years of service, she was named chief of the division in 1928. This, despite the fact that she never did get around to going to college.

During the 27 years she has now served in the State Department, Mrs. Shipley has become an expert on problems concerning citizenship. She is also something of an expert detective and when it comes to tracing down passport frauds and forgeries, she's a regular lady Pinkerton. Her task does not end with the apprehension of the criminal; she must prepare the case for prosecution and she doesn't leave that entirely to lawyers, either.

"I took a couple of years of law in night school," she says, "and international law I've learned by absorption."

In 1930, Mrs. Shipley was a United States delegate to the Conference on Codification of International Law at The Hague. Before that she helped draw up the regulations for the first restrictive immigration act.

In the Passport Division, Mrs. Shipley runs what she calls "a great training school for good people." She appreciates ability in her employes—she has 137 of them under her—and there are any number of cases where she has prodded her employes into the business world where they could make more money than in Government service. One young man she talked into a night school law course and then drove him out into successful private practice.

"He was," she says simply, "too good for a small job."

SOCIABLE, but not social in the Washington sense of the word, Mrs. Shipley is a woman who genuinely likes people. She leads a perfectly normal home life and her home in Chevvy Chase, surrounded by beautiful old trees, is her real hobby. Homelike, too, is Mrs. Shipley's office, with its old polished mahogany furniture, its fireplace and its silver coffee service which its owner utilizes every morning promptly at 10:30 for herself and whatever callers might be in her office at the time.

Never a militant feminist or crusader, Mrs. Shipley always signs herself "R. B. Shipley." And most of her mail comes in addressed to "Mr. R. B. Shipley."

Right now the Passport Division is issuing around 250 passports a day. There is an increasing flow of travel to Latin America, and a big jump in Western Hemisphere passports is due to the thousands of workmen, contractors and engineers sent to get newly leased British-owned bases at Newfoundland, Antiqua, Trinidad and Bermuda ready for action. These passports are not issued quickly; anyone going to base areas must have a thorough clearance on his name before he gets one of the new, nice bright green passports, mottled with the pattern of the United States seal.

Probably the most powerful woman in the Government except Frances Perkins, Mrs. Shipley has earned the complete confidence of the State Department and is genuinely popular at the Capitol. She is respected as an extremely capable executive and as a good business woman. Her division makes money. In 1939, when travel had decreased, the division took in $1,148,105 in fees. Its expenses were only $284,000. Last year, further decrease in travel and the need for increased clerical help, allowed no such profit. But there was no deficit and in Washington it is still said that "the Passport Division pays for the running of the whole State Department."

Pre-emptive Bid by South Gains Victory
By Ely Culbertson

THERE can be no doubt but that a pre-emptive bid, properly calculated, throws insuperable obstacles in the path of the opponents. The fact that the messages they can convey, one to the other, have been cut down from a possible six or eight to a meager one or two, operates as though the telegraph companies arbitrarily set the limit of a message to about three words.

Consider the surprising result of South's pre-emptive bid in the following hand:

South, dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

♠ J9632 ♥ 974 ♦ 10 ♣ QJ76

♠ 10 ♥ 863 ♦ AQ752 ♣ AK84 — NORTH, WEST, EAST, SOUTH

♠ AKQ5 ♥ None ♦ K8643 ♣ 9532

♠ 874 ♥ AKQJ1052 ♦ J9 ♣ 10

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
4 hearts	Double	Pass	Pass
Pass

East did not pass to West's double without a great deal of thought and consideration. He realized fully that his side probably was being "fixed" by the opening bid; that he and partner could very likely make at least a game and, possibly, a slam, if they could get into the right suit. The trouble was that East did not know what suit to bid. His impulse was to answer with spades, on the supposition that partner's double of one major invited a response in the other major. But, despite the top strength of East's spade suit, if was only four cards long, hence East could not afford to jump in a spade response nor, if he were to choose diamonds, could he afford to bid more than five diamonds. Since, in either case, West would have to read these responses as forced and never would be able to credit East with such honor trick strength as he actually held, it appeared that a slam, however cold, could not be reached. This conclusion, coupled with the danger of responding with a suit that might not "hit" West's hand, caused East to decide in favor of a penalty pass. If West's double was sound, East reasoned, a 500-point penalty might easily develop. Unfortunately for East-West, matters did not work out that way.

West selected the spade 10 as the opening lead. Dummy covered and the queen won. At this point East could have taken his two other spade tricks and these, with one diamond and one club, would have accounted for a two-trick defeat. But East, for reasons best known to himself, shifted to a low club, which threw the defense quite out of kilter. West won with the king and, thinking that East had had some reason for the club shift, laid down the ace. Declarer ruffed with an honor and led a low heart to dummy's nine, then discarded his two losing spades on the queen and jack of clubs. The singleton diamond then was led. West won with the queen and returned a trump, but dummy still had one trump left with which to ruff declarer's second diamond and, thus, the contract was made.

Considering that East-West were absolutely cold for seven diamonds, the pre-emptive bid gave North-South a notable victory.

Mishaps of Childhood
By Angelo Patri

NO healthy child grows up without mishap. He runs when he should walk; he climbs when he ought to keep both feet on the ground; he cuts himself with sharp tools; he breaks his bones, chops his teeth, gets a burn, falls ill. Not all in one day, God be thanked, but all in a lifetime. His mother, a calm soul with a steady hand, has to stand by with the witch hazel and ice as long as she can, as well as she can.

It is not good to anticipate trouble; nevertheless every sane mother is prepared for it. The medicine closet, stoutly locked, key in mother's keeping, is stocked with bandages, iodine, boric acid, witch hazel, bicarbonate of soda, spirits of ammonia, smelling salts, adhesive plaster, clean linen rags, white vaseline, a pair of scissors, forceps and a package of new sewing needles. Other articles are added as mother's experience with her flock dictates. On a shelf close at hand are ice caps, hot water bottles, enema bags and a rubber sheet. With this equipment a mother's mind will be calmer, more secure, in time of emergency.

Most of the mishaps children have are not serious. They will outlive them and be wiser for the experience. Once burned twice shy is practical teaching. Do what is necessary to be done and keep control of yourself and the situation and the child will mend faster. A mother's fear conveys itself to the already frightened child and increases his distress. Her calm courage, her sureness, convey themselves to the child and calm him, so that he lessens his own suffering and hastens his healing.

Always call the doctor if the mishap is at all likely to be serious. If a child cracks his head and is sleepy, call the physician and be sure to tell him clearly what the conditions are. Physicians attend to emergencies promptly when they know they are emergencies. "Jim bumped his head," means one thing to him, "Jim bumped his head and he seems sleepy and dull since," means another. Be definite when making reports to the physician. He is busy and must attend to the neediest first.

Summertime offers more opportunities for these happenings so it is the time for overhauling the medicine cabinet and the first-aid kit. It is also the time to take steps to prevent possible accidents. Don't set the stage for them, but clear it of possibilities. Keep the medicine closet locked. Keep sharp knives in their places, out of reach and sight. Remove poison ivy from the immediate premises. Keep small children out of the kitchen while pots of scalding water or fat are in service. Keep matches in safe places. Clear rubbish from the dark corners. Keep stairs free of clutter—the steps must not be used as storage shelves. Try to know where the children are and about what they are doing.

Having done your best to prevent trouble, having provided for the usual emergencies settle down to the routine of the day and forget the possibilities. They may never occur and if they don't, so much the better. You have a feeling of security that enables you to control the emergency should it come, in your careful provisions for prevention and first aid. It is most encouraging to know that children insist upon living, upon growing up, in spite of their mishaps.

Economical Menus -:- By Meta Given

IF you like egg salad, you'll like egg salad stuffed into fresh tomatoes still better. When making tomato flower cups as the recipe suggests, you'll want to leave the tomatoes with their skins on, to help preserve the form. But if you like your tomatoes peeled in salad, a simple way of serving this combination is to cut the peeled tomato in half crosswise, place the two halves side by side on a lettuce-lined plate, and heap the egg salad on top. It's not so gorgeous in appearance, but it tastes every bit as good.

Tomatoes Stuffed With Egg Salad.

Four hard-cooked eggs, one-half cup finely chopped cucumber, one tablespoon finely chopped green pepper, one-half teaspoon salt, few grains pepper, one teaspoon vinegar, three tablespoons mayonnaise, two pounds tomatoes (4).

Chill eggs quickly by running cold water over them; remove shell and cut in ½-inch dice. Add cucumber, green pepper, salt, pepper, vinegar, and mayonnaise and toss lightly. Cover and chill. To serve, remove stem end from chilled tomatoes, cut each tomato into six wedges, cutting to within one-half inch of bottom. Spread wedges apart, sprinkle with salt and pepper, and fill with cold egg salad. Four servings.

MENUS FOR WEDNESDAY.

Breakfast.

Chilled cantaloupe wedges, one large or two small cantaloupes; prepared rice cereal, two and one-half cups prepared cereal, top milk; toast with butter, eight slices whole wheat toast, butter; jam, one-third cup jam; coffee (for adults only), four tablespoons coffee; milk (for children), two cups milk.

Luncheon.

Tomatoes stuffed with egg salad, recipe already given; bread and butter sandwiches, 16 slices rye bread, butter; iced cocoa (for all), three tablespoons cocoa, sugar, one and one-half cups evaporated milk, one and one-half cup water; cookies, one-fourth pound bought cookies.

Dinner.

Panbroiled lamb patties, one and one-fourth pound ground lamb, salt, pepper, fat for cooking; parsley buttered potatoes, one and one-half pounds potatoes, salt, butter; green beans in cheese sauce, three-fourths pound green beans, three tablespoons flour, three tablespoons butter, one and one-half cup milk, one-fourth pound cheese; bread and butter, eight slices enriched bread, butter; plum pie, pastry for two-crust pie, two tablespoons flour, one-half cup sugar, 12 plums, grated orange rind; iced tea (for adults only), two teaspoons tea; milk (for children), two cups milk.

Cost for day: about $1.75.

THERE are not many best buys on the market because of the drouth. However, cauliflower is still a very good buy. Peppers are fairly reasonable. Peas, carrots and cabbage are all good. Tomatoes are higher because of the drouth.

Peaches are plentiful now and not high in price. Honeydew melons, plums, pears, grapes, oranges and lemons are all available and none is particularly high.

Don't Take My Word for It

A and THE.

Although the articles A and THE are among the most important words in English, not many of us have been taught to pronounce them correctly. Nor are we quite sure how the third article AN should be used.

The rules are very simple:

A is used before words beginning with a consonant sound, as: a man, a child, a hospital, a union (union begins with the sound of the consonant "y," as: YOON-yun). The indefinite article A should not rhyme with bay, day say. It should have the obscure or neutral "uh" sound.

The article AN is used before words beginning with a vowel sound, as: an oven, an appetite, an honor (as the "h" of honor is silent, the words begin with a vowel sound, as: AH-ner).

THE has two pronunciations. Before a word beginning with a vowel sound, THE rhymes with bee, fee, knee, thus: thee evening, thee enemy, thee address. When THE is used before a word beginning with a consonant sound, it has the obscure or neutral "ŭh" sound, as: thuh man, thuh fountain, thuh book.

"At Last, My Love"

by Phyllis Moore Gallagher

CHAPTER 32.

BUT a second later, Bill had regained his equilibrium, and he swam swiftly toward that loose-rolling head, still just above the water, and was conscious that two sailors from the ship were in the water, too, heading for that prostrate form. Bill reached the aviator first, wrapped one arm around his shoulder and trod water with his grim burden while one of the sailors tied a rope under the unconscious aviator's arms and paddled him to the ship's ladder.

Sailors pulled that limp form to the deck, and Bill helped the other aviators to mount the wooden rungs and later, half-led, half-carried, one of the young men to the life-giving warmth of the ward-room.

Bill was all doctor then, brushing aside any assistance for himself. In a short time, all four aviators were under the care of his nurses and the two other doctors on board.

Only one of them was in a really serious condition, and Bill worked over him all night. At dawn, he went out wearily on deck, knowing the blond young aviator would live, that if he and his staff hadn't been on board, he would not be here.

Later that day Bill learned the aviator's story. Their bomber had been in conflict with a German Heinkel, and had come down in a sheet of flames. They had had just a few seconds to toss their raft into the wild night sea and to climb onto it. For 24 hours they had pummeled each other to keep awake, and twice ships had passed within just a few yards of them and had not, through the fog, seen them.

And still later that day, with the coastline of Ireland visible in the distance, dim with harbor lights, the captain of the Canadian vessel came up beside Bill at the taffrail. He said simply, "We're grateful, doctor. Those men needed hospital care. We could have given first aid—but that would have been all."

The tall Canadian paused a moment, and for the first time Bill noticed how drawn the man's face was, and what a ghastly color. "The lad you worked over all night is my son, Doctor," the captain finished slowly.

"I—didn't know," Bill said quietly.

The captain said no more, but walked away swiftly. No, he hadn't known; no one had known. Bill's heart was beating fiercely. It was the first example of British control he had seen; British control and courage. "They'll win this war," Bill thought, and with a burning pride in the whole country he was going to help, in Canada and all the colonies who were standing faithfully by. "They can't help but win!"

Bill stood there a long time, watching the Irish coast drawing nearer. Jane's face surged up in his memory, blotting out everything else. . . . He remembered her face that night he had last seen it, the night he had left the hospital. . . . Saw that shocked, hurt look again, like a friendly child who for no reason at all had been given a brutal slap across the mouth. It had been hard leaving Jane, putting her out of his life. It was still hard. There were moments, during every hour of every day, when everything in him cried out for her, ached to hold her in his arms again.

Evening was darkening when Jane looked down from the Atlantic clipper from New York and saw Lisbon, the last free port in Europe. The lights of the city, seen from that height, were like threads of fire crossed and recrossed in a net. It had been a strangely exciting and yet uneventful crossing.

Among her shipmates had been, surprisingly, young Capt. James Steele, whom she had met at Rosamund's cocktail party. Steele was aid to one of the high ranking officers on a military mission to England. Richard Carlisle, her new brother-in-law, had been another of her shipmates, and there had been, also three British diplomats and two young men whom she had not been able to pigeonhole in any profession. They were not business men, she knew. To cross on the clipper in war times, one must have priority, and business men do not have it. The two men were, perhaps military observers on a secret mission, or even members of the United States Intelligence Service.

Jane looked away from the lights of Lisbon, to a land plane seeking earth. Over her shoulder Capt. Steele said, "Judging by the Fokker motors and the enormous swastikas on the tail, I'd say that plane had just come in from Berlin. Perhaps filled with young Aryan 'tourists'!"

Richard was right, Jane knew later as they registered at the Palace Hotel in Estoril, the resort village a few miles down the beach from Lisbon. The long, shadowy lobbies were filled with every nationality: Germans, Italians, Spaniards, Britons, Americans.

MEN in big overstuffed chairs were gathered in groups, talking as men talked in the lounges of clubs the world over. At first glance they all seemed casual enough, but there was a tenseness about those individual groups, a fierce burning in their eyes as they watched each other and every one else, that belied their pretended indifference.

Jane had not the slightest doubt that they were members of the Gestapo, the OGPU and the secret service organizations of the world, here in Lisbon to gather reports from their spies. Richard pointed out many of the men to her, naming them.

"And that's Friedrich Sieburg," Richard whispered, as they waited for the porter to gather up their luggage. "He contributed his genius to the perfection of modern Fifth Column tactics."

Jane stared at them all, feeling unreal, as if she were living an exciting part in some strange tragedy that would soon end, the curtain falling swiftly and leaving her just plain Jane Wickliffe, back at City Hospital on night duty.

There was a four-day wait in Lisbon, and during the times when Richard or Jim Steele were not tied up in getting reservations on the Clipper to London she explored the city, wandered through the leprous slums and was properly shocked by the illiteracy of the vast majority of the natives.

She and Jim Steele talked about that one night as they sat on the rocky beach, listening, with one part of their minds to the wild pounding of the surf. Jim said:

"Portugal's Professor - Dictator, Dr. Antonio de Oliveira Salazar, wants to wipe out that illiteracy. He wants to build excellent clinics, wipe out the slums, put his whole country on a national diet. It remains to be seen, with the whole continent insane around him, what he can do."

They talked a little about the powerful, bearded Russian who was asleep half the time in one of the overstuffed chairs at the Palace. "I think he's Dr. Lazovert," Jim said. "He helped kill Rasputin and drove his body to the river. He's a grim-looking character, isn't he?"

Jane shuddered. "Lisbon gives me the creeps," she said, slowly. "So many people—spies, refugees, all searching for escape by way of an American visa. I can't bear some of their faces when they watch the American export boat and the Clipper start westward. And their talk!

"They talk of nothing but immigration, quota numbers, hopelessness, our draft law and the plans they concoct!"

"Let's don't talk about it, Jane," Jim Steele said, and closed his hand over hers. "Let's talk about us."

She withdrew her hand gently. "There's nothing to say about us, Jim," Jane answered slowly. "I'm in love. With a married man." That ought to settle it, Jane thought, and Jim Steele could simply chalk her off as one of those things.

Jim Steele looked at her through the moonlight. He wondered if he was wrong in his snap appraisal of her. The first time he'd seen her he had known he loved her. He hadn't thought beyond that; just his love and his desire to make her his wife. . . .

"I wouldn't tell everyone that," he said slowly. "Someone might believe you."

"And they would believe correctly."

Steele looked at her clear-cut profile, the delicate modeling of her lips. Her golden hair seemed like a halo above her head in the moonlight, and she looked like an angel. He said, "If you are in love with a married man, I'll wager my life that nothing will come of it for you wouldn't let it. I think I know you pretty well, Jane Wickliffe." He paused a moment, and then asked abruptly, "What was really in back of you telling me that, Jane?"

"Just a desire for you not to love me. To play straight with you. I'm afraid I haven't any of the flirt in me, Jim. I—wish I did. It wouldn't be so hard—if I could forget with someone else. Other women have done that, but—I can't. I tried. I almost married a young man last November, but I realized why and I—didn't."

"You're very young, aren't you?" Jim Steele said. "And Jane, I'm not giving up. I'm telling you that, because I want to play straight with you, too."

It was a relief to Jane to see Richard Carlisle coming down the rocky beach through the moonlight. When he came up to them he told them they would be taking off for England at 3 a. m. A taxi would drive them to the river-harbor front at the edge of town, and they'd all better get back to the Palace and start packing.

Jane looked away from Richard's excited face, and up to the star-dotted sky. An enemy-infested sky, she thought, and in a little while now she'd be up in it.

Continued tomorrow.

Why People Choose The Homestead

Why do so many people with such diverse interests, who can spend their vacations anywhere they wish, return to The Homestead season after season?

One answer is our exceptional facilities for golf, riding, tennis, and other sports. And, undoubtedly, the superb scenery and refreshing coolness of the Alleghanies, the luxury and comfort of The Homestead itself with its matchless Southern service, and the pleasant round of social events are other reasons.

But The Homestead's strongest appeal to those who know it best is the way all these things blend into a life of peculiar ease and gaiety, not to be found elsewhere.

Average August Temperature 68.1°
Average Sept. Temperature 62.6°

Rates throughout August and September are $10 to $12 a day, meals included. Children under 15 take lower rates. For information, rail or motor routes, etc., address The Homestead, Hot Springs, Va.

"A Royal Feast for Any Man's Table!"

"And here's where we make sure you folks will enjoy it," says Frank Vesci, who, as the picture above shows, has his evidence before him. Frank is a workman in the lamb-cutting room at the National Stock Yards plant of Swift & Company. His department hums with action because fresh lamb, like other fresh meats, must be kept quickly on the move in all the many skillful operations that make it ready for retail dealers.

The new Swift's Premium Boneless Lamb Roll, shown in the foreground above, is indeed a royal dish. It is made from the juicy, tender shoulder of Swift's Premium lamb. The expert boning work of Frank and his fellow workers transforms lamb shoulders into roasts which in addition to their taste and tenderness, are very easy to carve.

Frank Vesci has been a Swift employe for over 5 years. He knows how the nation's meat supply has steadily improved, because he's had a share in the progress that's been made. He and his fellow workers understand the widespread human benefits of such progress. Hence they take a personal pride in the high standards of quality, sanitation and skill of their organization.

As one who contributes to those standards, Frank would be pretty sure to add to his earlier remark, or anything else he said about meat: "When you buy it, be sure it carries the 'Swift's Premium' brand!"

"Kith and Kin."

"He that had neyther been kith nor kin
Might have seen a full fayre sight."
Thomas Percy's Guy of Gisborne.

Kith and kin—it is a phrase that enjoys literary usage mostly, which is a pity; by which we mean, it is earthy enough to be common, even colloquial currency.

They are two of our oldest words, as it happens of Anglo-Saxon stock, which may be all the more reason why they should be, though strangely they are not, the heritage of the masses.

Stemming from the Anglo-Saxon word for "known," kith originally embraced the sense of "native land"; so that intrinsically, it signified a compatriot, acquaintance or friend.

Kin, rooted in the Anglo-Saxon word for kind or race, is akin to "cennan," to beget, thus naturally connoting relationship or consanguinity.

Hence kith and kin, good Old English for kindred more or less remote, and first rate modern English for friends and relatives.

'v Neighbor Says:

Slip geraniums to be grown in the house now. Root in part sand and loam.

Rolled oats need about twice their volume of water in cooking. Granular cereals, like cornmeal, will absorb five to six times their volume of water during cooking, but rice and other whole grains will use about eight times as much water as there is cereal.

Kitchens should be cheerful and comfortable as well as convenient. A high stool is an aid to comfort in preparing vegetables or mixing ingredients. An attractive corner where the homemaker can sit and read over a new recipe, make out her order list of groceries or wait for a dish to finish cooking adds considerably to a comfortable kitchen.

To keep the whites of eggs from falling after they have been whipped, try adding, while whipping, a pinch of cream of tartar. This usually is most effective.

A little sweet oil applied to bronzes after they are dusted, followed by a brisk rubbing with a chamois skin will bring out their rich tones.

RIGHTIST EDITOR MARCEL DEAT IS HIT IN ARM BY ANTI-NAZI'S FIRE

Two Were Attending Swearing-in of Volunteers to Fight Russians—Alleged Communist Arrested.

VICHY, Aug. 27 (AP).—Pierre Laval, pre-war Premier of France and former Vichy Vice-Premier under Marshal Henri Philippe Petain, has been shot and seriously wounded at Versailles, it was disclosed tonight.

Shot at the same time, although less seriously hurt, was Marcel Deat, former Air Minister and Rightist editor and like Laval a leading advocate of collaboration with Germany.

Laval, swarthy white-tied politician who brought Petain and Adolf Hitler together after the armistice with Germany, was shot both in the arm and body, while Deat received only a wound in the arm.

The two were sitting together receiving registrations of anti-Communists to fight in a volunteer force alongside Germany in the war against Russia when the shooting occurred. The legionaries were taking oaths of allegiance.

Assailant Seized.

In the midst of the ceremony a young man arose and started firing, wounding both men before he could be overpowered. He was arrested immediately.

The prisoner was identified as a 21-year-old Communist, one Paul Colette, who was quoted as telling police he joined the volunteer legion for the sole purpose of "shooting down" Laval.

Reports tonight said doctors had extracted a bullet from Laval's chest, and that he asked immediately afterward to talk to his wife by telephone.

Mme. Laval, who had been spending a vacation of several weeks at the Laval estate at Chateldon, near Vichy, left at once for the occupied zone. Versailles is a few miles outside Paris.

The swarthy Laval, who is 58 years old, after the armistice, was made Vice-Premier in the Vichy government and designated suc-
